

The Officer's Daughter; A Memoir of Miss Elizabeth Tatton.
To which are added some Instances of Divine grace in the Army.
By the Rev. OCTAVIUS WINSLOW. Second Edition. Royal 3²mo, cloth, 1s.

"This is a most touching narrative; to young females it will be a most valuable gift."—British Mothers' Magazine.

"A striking example of the freedom of Divine grace. We recommend this little book with pleasure to our readers."—Christian Lady's Magazine.

By the same Author.

Gathered Flowers from a Bible Class; being a Brief Memoir of Two Young Believers. Fourth Thousand. Cloth, 1s. 6d.

"These touching memorials of early piety form a precious addition to our religious biography; they are delightful examples of Sabbath-school instruction sanctified and made effectual by the Holy Spirit."—Scottish Guardian.

Thirza; or, The Attractive Power of the Cross. Translated from the German. With a Recommendatory Notice by ROBERT S.
CANDLISH, D.D. Seventh Thousand, 6d.

"We do not wonder that twelve thousand copies of the first German edition of this book have been sold, and six thousand of a second printed. It is most touchingly beautiful, and most intensely interesting. It is likely to have a wide circulation in this country. We are sure it merits it."—Presbyterian Review.

The Wycliffites; or, England in the Fifteenth Century. By Mrs
COLONEL MACKAY. Second Edition. 12mo, cloth, 5s.

"A powerfully written historical tale. One of the best books of its class that have come under our notice."—The Watchman.

The Curate of Linwood; or, The Real Strength of the Christian Ministry. By C. G. H. Third Edition. Foolscap 8vo, 3s. 6d.

"We think the volume calculated to be a useful weapon in the armoury of evangelical religion."—Edinburgh Advertiser.

"Modesty, candour, and clearness, are marked in its every page."—The Witness.

"The reasoning is most forcible."—Edinburgh Evening Post.

Constance Lindsay; or, The Progress of Error. By C. G. H.
Foolscap 8vo, 5s. 6d.

"There are many striking and tender passages, and the whole narrative cannot fail to interest and improve the reader's mind."—Edinburgh Advertiser.