There were six arrests last week in Macclenny after Sheriff's deputies acted on a tip, raiding a cockfight at a midday on March 2 near Cry-ke and arrested 17 individuals on charges ranging from stag- ing the fights to animal cruelty and contributing to the delin- quency of minors for having children present.

Deputies Chris Walker, Jacob Hatterichelle and Daryl Mobley seized nearby dense woods and swamped and suc- ceeded in arresting Makayla Burnstorm, 18, of Glen, Morgan Jones, 19, of Gainesville, Mr. Bennett and a 17-year- old male juvenile. They face counts of resisting arrest with- out violence in addition to ani- mal cruelty.

They were arrested for Reginald Keith, 27, of Sand- ersson and James Larkey Williamson, 42, who resides at the nearby mobile home. Mr. Keith was believed to have driven a 2003 Chevrolet Tahoe found on the property, though it was registered to Tia- sha Coleman.

Mr. Williamson's 2003 Chevrolet pickup was also parked near the scene. A Toyota pickup registered to Mitchell Crafton was thought to have been driven there by one of the participants, but police have yet to pinpoint the identity. Sgt. Marker said the remaining specta- tors who did not flee are also charged with felony animal cruelty. They were identified as James Thomas, 48, of Jacksonville, Mark Belford, 47, of Mac- clenny, William Har- riss, 24, of Sanderson, Florence Franco, 57, her husband Jason, 60, and their two adult children, 17 and 22, all of Sanderson, Priscilla Dry, 26, of Glen, April Griffis, 33 and the wife of Jeffrey Griffis, Dustin Surfing, 23, of Mac- clenny, Angela Morris, 44, and Kayla Blackmon, 25, both of Glen St. Mary. Brandon Ray Combs, 18, of Sanderson transported his car to the county jail the following day.

Sgt. Marker said that the family was surprised when they saw all the people when they drove up.

It was the first case of ani- mal fighting resulting in ar- rests since April 2010, when officers raided a pit bull ring north of Sanderson, arresting two men and confiscating the animals, some of which were badly maimed.

Sgt. James Mark- er said he and other deputies acted on a telephoned report the same morn- ing, and wit- nessed participants and spectators flex- ing into nearby woods as they approached the address. Most re- mained at the scene.

Sgt. Marker said Jeffrey Ray Griffin and Michael Burnstorm, 22, both of Sanderson, admitted active involvement in fighting the chickens along with Timothy Ben- nett, 47, of Sanderson, who had charged with cruelty to ani- mals, counts that may be up- graded because of their level of involvement.

A Chevrolet pickup reg- istered to Mr. Bennett was found for transporting the birds and a weight meas- ure. They were seized as evidence.

Injured when car hits moving train

TO THE EDITOR:

Reader of the recent letter in the Press by Pam Lyons, a retired registered nurse, was moved to share with me the comments of her friend’s daughter on the importance of moving air and talking inside the vehicle, one complaining with passenger Ashley Suggs, 16, when their 2008 Pontiac G6 hit a wall.

I attended a pre-teen dance with Ashley and her friend’s daughter and was moved to note the importance of moving and talking inside the vehicle.

We are blessed to have Fraser Medical Center in Macclenny. On December 1, 2012 my husband was taken to this hospital and immediately started receiving expert medical care.

Thank God for this hospital and especially for what it has done for me and my wife. I’ve been a patient in other hospitals for various disc problems and never before have I been treated with such kindness and care.

Like many others, we have benefited from visiting the Silver Sneakers classes at the Y. My 90-year-old mother has enjoyed the tone she has gained in her legs.

I am grateful for the YMCA’s Silver Sneakers program and the health education classes it sponsors. Without a doubt, these classes have been beneficial to me and the other participants.

Russia’s behavior result of Olympics

TO THE EDITOR:

As a board member of the intercollegiate athletic association at the university of Tennessee, I wonder if there is any correlation between the two events that just occurred. As the political world is reacting to the Crimea crisis, the Olympic village has also been hit.

The former director of the IOC, Richard Pound, said there was no evidence of any cheating in the Sochi Olympics. However, the recent letter in the Press by Pam Lyons, a retired registered nurse, was moved to share with me the comments of her friend’s daughter on the importance of moving and talking inside the vehicle, one complaining with passenger Ashley Suggs, 16, when their 2008 Pontiac G6 hit a wall.

No ‘band-aid’ clinic

TO THE EDITOR:

While the compliments with Dale Sinyk’s situation and experience at Ed Flower’s Hometown Clinic (letter to the editor, Feb. 2014) is certainly something that needs to be addressed, the question that needs to be asked is, “What is the purpose of our community health centers?”

Our community health centers are not just for the uninsured or people with a low income. I was thinking about what it is that these health centers provide.

I am asked to the question, “What should the community fill the void if the community health centers are closed?”

My wife and I have been treated by several physicians at Fraser Medical Center and have been active members of the hospital’s staff for many years in various capacities.

In December, my daughter left to go to college and I was thinking about how much she will miss the community health centers while she is away. I am grateful for the care that I have received from the staff at Fraser Medical Center and the care that they provide to our seniors, the pool will be open for business for swim lessons, adults to work out but it’s unfortunate that the other programs for kids will be closed.

I am grateful for the YMCA’s Silver Sneakers program and the health education classes it sponsors. Without a doubt, these classes have been beneficial to me and the other participants.

Readers are invited to submit letters to the editor for consideration by writing to the Press, P.O. Box 598, Macclenny, FL 32063, or sending email to editor@bakercountypress.com.

Blessed to have a hospital

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to respond to the recent letter from the Waverly Hospital (letter to the editor, Feb. 2014) that was written by a reader who expressed the hope that the hospital will remain open.

I believe that the hospital is a crucial part of the community and it serves a vital role in providing medical care for the people of Waverly. I have been a patient at Waverly Hospital and I have always been treated with respect and professionalism.

Press sues to obtain BCCS financial data

JOEL ADKINSON/MACCLENNY DAILY

The Baker County Press filed suit on Thursday against Baker Community Counseling Services (BCCS) to obtain the organization's financial data, the first in a series of steps the newspaper has taken to investigate BCCS' business model and financial transactions.

The suit is filed under the state's Public Records Law, which requires government agencies and private parties that receive public funds to make financial data available to the public. The suit is the first of its kind in the county, said Press editor and publisher Trinidad Harris.

The Press is asking the circuit court to order BCCS to disclose financial information that includes all financial transactions, including revenue and expenses, financial statements, and details about any contracts or agreements with other organizations.

BCCS was awarded a $300,000 annual contract with Lutheran Services Community Counseling Services, or BCCS, in 2012. The contract was renewed for another year in 2013, and BCCS was also awarded a $600,000 annual contract with Lutheran Services Community Counseling Services, or BCCS, in 2014.

River withdrawal doubtful

River officials are concerned the river is even more at risk when rainfall is light. It was added some years ago, Mr. Ore presented the project from its water supply plan.

Mr. Sample, meanwhile, said the district and the local government officials are concerned about the project’s impacts on the river’s flow, especially during dry periods. He said the river supply plan includes a water supply plan.

Mr. Sample responded the project is still under discussion, and that district officials are continuing to work on the project’s impacts on the river’s flow, especially during dry periods in the coming months.

A river withdrawal project may be impacted by many variables, under a range of conditions encountered within the project’s operations and the river supply plan. These variables include, but are not limited to, river flow, water quality, water quantity and water temperature.

According to the American Water Resources Association, water withdrawal projects should be evaluated to ensure that they are consistent with the state’s water resource management policies and are not likely to cause adverse impacts on the environment or public health and safety.

Solicitors of the proposed project must meet the requirements of the Florida Department of Environmental Protection, the Florida Department of Health, and the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

A public hearing will be provided at the following time and date:

Thursday, May 16, 2013

6:00 p.m. at the Baker County Department of Transportation and Public Services, 112 South Church Street, Macclenny, Florida

Turkey season arrives

TONY YOUNG
Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission

Hopefully, you’ve already started looking up on your turkey blinds, since the spring gobbler season is here. Whether you plan to use a mouth call, box call, slate or some other type of call, the trees are beginning to catch their spring colors and there is still plenty of turkey hunting to be done.

South Florida is bountiful this time of year, whether it be the northern lights, wild turkey hunting or other shorebird activities. Heart goes out to private lands and the waterfowl Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) has extended the hunting season to include the fall.

South of State Road 70

In the rest of the state, the early goings have left much to be desired. Only those under six years old are allowed to harvest a turkey while supervised by an adult, age 16 or older. On private lands, no license or permit is required by the youth or the adult.

For us adults, the highly anticipated turkey season comes in first south of State Road 70, with the opening of spring turkey seasons in Wakulla and Liberty Counties.

Settings are in the sportsmen’s bag. The setting includes a hunt in an area with a solid foundation of turkey hunting, and it is the only season that allows for the setting of a permanent hunting area in the sportsmen’s bag.

Thus, for the season under discussion, we can safely say that the setting is in the sportsmen’s bag.

The setting allows for the setting of a permanent hunting area in the sportsmen’s bag. The setting includes a hunt in an area with a solid foundation of turkey hunting, and it is the only season that allows for the setting of a permanent hunting area in the sportsmen’s bag.

Youth hunters can benefit from the two-day, youth license and turkey permit.

Additionally, the Wildlife Management Areas (WMAs) in the area will continue to offer the harvest of turkeys from the season under discussion. The setting will offer the harvest of turkeys from the season under discussion. The setting will continue to offer the harvest of turkeys from the season under discussion.

The BCHS Lady Cats clawed their way to a 7-5 victory over West Nassau, 3-2 in second seven innings on Wednesday, March 5. The Lady Cats had two run lead in the sixth inning to take a 7-4 lead, but West Nassau responded with a run in the seventh to make it 7-5. "It was a great victory over West Nassau," Coach Turner said. "It was a tough game, but we played well. We got the runs when we needed them and we got the defensive players on the board." Outside of the third inning, West Nassau pitcher Morgan Smith allowed only one run on two hits, but the Lady Cats took advantage of West Nassau's mistakes to improve to 7-2 overall.

After getting off to a slow start, the Lady Cats came back strong to win their third straight game. The Lady Cats are now 7-2 overall and are in third place in District 4-A, behind Baker and Callahan County. "We're playing well right now," Coach Turner said. "We're hitting well and we're pitching well. We're playing well defensively and we're playing well offensively. We're playing well overall." The Lady Cats are looking forward to their first district game of the season on Friday, March 7, against Callahan County. "We're looking forward to that game," Coach Turner said. "We're playing well and we're playing well defensively and we're playing well offensively. We're playing well overall. We're looking forward to that game."
