

CONTENTS.

	Page
T HE Dial of Life	2
He must have plenty of broth who would stop everybody's mouth	8
Imperial custom—Second nature	12
By yielding we conquer	16
When God wills	20
When the ass is too well off, he goes dancing on the ice	24
Not earthly things only	28
Thus, O my soul!	32
As you brew so you must bake	36
Such is the life of man	40
The hunchback sees his neighbour's hump, not his own.	44
Now or never	48
The ass may be invited to court, but it is only to carry burdens.	52
Who feels the need seeks the remedy	56
Together we suffer and rejoice	60
There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip	64