

poverishing himself. This, for good or for evil, is the power of the word. Is it enough thought about or made use of in the intercourse of society, in the exchanges of conversation, and by those who are most able to influence their neighbours?

