

Constance were there before any one else, for they were longing to claim his promise of telling them his "Golden Secret."

"Now, Reggie, we are all anxiety," said Connie.

"I don't care so much about it," said Ernest, "I think we are having a first-rate Christmas, and I don't believe Reggie's secret could make it better."

"I have a very shrewd guess what it is," said Connie.

"Perhaps it will only disappoint you both," said Reggie.

"No! I'm sure it won't, because I think I know it too," cried Ernest; "and then Reginald gave a note to each of them.

They eagerly broke the seal, and drew out a sheet of paper. On Connie's was written, "Remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive." And on Ernest's. "Let every one of us please his neighbour