Overseas study challenges ideas, alters stereotypes

When UF journalism graduate student Deborah Kalmar crossed the Hungarian border this summer, she expected to see a bleak culture still in the grips of a crumbling Communist system.

"When I crossed the border, I expected to hear the riffs of (traditional) music, to see gray weather, lines in the street because of food shortages and people wearing no color in their clothes," Kalmar said.

But her image didn't live up to reality.

She saw stores stocked with Western clothes and heard familiar songs from MC Hammer and Madonna.

"The (Hungarians) loved rap," she said. "You'd see rap graffiti on the wall."

Talking with her Hungarian-born father, Louis, inspired a new awareness of her host country evolved into a worldly awareness of the time she left.

The emphasis in overseas study is "to make the student aware that the world is larger than Gainesville, Florida," International Studies Coordinator Diana Lopez said.

Retreat gives participants new racial awareness

By DEBbie CENZPER
Alligator Staff Writer

Some students who attended UF's second racial awareness retreat during the weekend are calling it the "experience of a lifetime." a unique chance to explore different cultures and discover some unexpected feelings of their own.

Although about 20 students who registered didn't show, 95 people, both faculty and students, spent the night at an Ocala hotel and participated in group-sharing activities designed to spark discussion between participants.

UF freshman Mischel Bliese said she thinks everyone benefited from the trip, coordinated by UF's Student Services Office. Talking in small groups and performing skits lent insight to people's otherwise hidden emotions, she said.

"It was the experience of a lifetime, definitely," Bliese said. "I think everyone got a lot out of it."

Student Affairs Vice President Art Sandeen said the trip cost about $3,000.

Minority Student Affairs Assistant Dean Willie Robinson said although some students didn't show up at the last minute, it didn't make a difference. The smaller groups allowed conversation to flow easier, he said.

"On the whole, I think it was a very successful retreat," he said.

UF business senior Cynthia Lloyd described an incident that really hit home.

One white male student, who she said originally came to the meeting with racist intentions, changed his ill-feelings after listening and participating in discussions.

Lloyd said the man was surprised when, after he voiced his hostile feelings to the group, participants simply said they appreciated his honesty and did not react viciously.

"He came with a bitter heart," she said. "He came ready to pick a fight. Ready to accuse and be accused. He thought that black students were about attacking white students, but he felt he got enlightened.

"He said that everybody had proven him wrong," Lloyd said. "That to me has summed up the entire weekend."

UF officer breaks hand in skirmish

A UF police officer had his hand broken in a scuffle with a student Sunday morning over a cup of beer, police spokeswoman Angie Tipton said Monday.

Officer Gerald Bamburg spotted UF freshman Gary Thomason, 18, walking by the parking lot outside the Business Administration building about 2 a.m., Tipton said.

Bamburg asked Thomason, who was holding a beer, to stop but the man continued to walk, she said. Bamburg grabbed the student by the jacket and pulled him back, she said.

Thomason then swung his arm back and struck the officer, Tipton said.

"They started scuffling, and Bamburg put up his arm to ward off blows," she said. "He's not sure when he hurt his hand because he also landed on it when he fell."

Thomason was handcuffed by two UF officers who arrived back-up Bamburg, Tipton said.

The student was taken to Alachua County jail and charged with battery of a law-enforcement officer, resisting arrest with violence and possession of alcohol by a person under 21.

He was released Sunday on his own recognizance.

Police: Avoid theft by securing property

By ALLISON WAGNER

Students planning to leave Gainesville for the Thanksgiving holiday need to take extra steps in securing their homes and belongings, police said.

Many students said they would be extra secure when they leave this holiday, but some living in apartments are worried because their complexes will be empty.

"I'm worried that no one will be around at all while I'm gone," said UF junior Julie Stocker.

But theft is not limited to dormitories and apartments, said UF police spokeswoman Angie Tipton.

Bicycles and mopeds are a big target for theft, Tipton gives the following tips to students for protecting themselves against crime over the holiday:

- Notify neighbors you are leaving and when you will be back;
- Leave on lights or put them on a timer;
- Don't leave bikes or mopeds outside;
- Don't leave suitcases unattended while packing up cars; and,
- Lock up.

"Sometimes the University presents itself as a shopping mall for thieves," said Tipton. "The main thing is to use good common sense."

Increase in solar power needed to counter fossil fuel scarcity

Solar experts say now is the time to take advantage of energy alternatives and lessen our dependence on fossil fuels.

"Enough energy shines on the roof of a 1,200-square-foot home to power the home day and run a car for 200 miles," said UF building construction Professor Gary Cook.

Cook said builders can improve energy efficiency in their buildings by using passive and active solar technology.

Passive solar technology deals with constructing buildings that are energy efficient by design and are specifically positioned to the sun.

"Past oil gluts have taken emphasis away from the development of solar technology," Cook said.

He said now there is popular concern for the environmental impact of using fossil fuels and that solar energy technology is becoming more practical.

"Solar energy can do almost anything...provided there is an adequate way to store the energy," Cook said.

He said better batteries are being developed, and researchers continue to improve "photovoltaics," which are solar cells that produce electrical energy from the sun's heat.

Cook said it's likely solar energy will be used on a large scale to grow crops from which clean-burning combustion

NATO, Warsaw Pact sign arms treaty

PARIS (UPI) — Leaders of 22 NATO and Warsaw Pact nations signed a massive conventional-arms treaty Monday to end a four-decade era of Cold War tension by eliminating all risk of a surprise attack in Europe.

The 1,600-page Conventional Forces in Europe treaty set strict ceilings on tanks, artillery, combat vehicles and aircraft and establishes detailed rules on verification and troop monitoring.

President Bush said the treaty brings Europe to a new "era of peace, prosperity and security unparalleled in the long history of this continent."

A stream of dark limousines carried 22 heads of state and scores of other dignitaries to the Elysee Palace, where French President Francois Mitterrand greeted them on a red-carpeted veranda.

The CFE treaty-signing ceremony in a chandeliered conference room launched a summit of the 34-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, a three-day extravaganza ushering in a new age of East-West cooperation.

The historic summit is being compared to the Congress of Vienna in 1815, the legendary gathering at which storied names like Metternich, Wellington and Talleyrand redrew the map of Europe following Napoleon's defeat.

Bush acknowledged that the summit "seems to have been overshadowed by what's happening in the (Persian) Gulf, but it is a significant milestone."

Iraq said Sunday it would begin on Christmas Day to release thousands of foreign hostages held in Iraq and Kuwait as human shields against any attack by the U.S.-led multinational forces in the gulf region.

Bush was expected to discuss the gulf crisis with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev during a dinner meeting Monday evening in Paris.

One Persian Gulf war veteran termed the summit area near the Arc de Triomphe "the infernal triangle."

The summit's centerpiece, the CFE pact, limits NATO and the Warsaw Pact each to 30,000 tanks, 20,000 artillery pieces, 30,000 armored combat vehicles, 6,800 aircraft and 2,000 helicopters in four zones from the Atlantic Ocean to the Ural Mountains.

The treaty, which was initialed on Sunday in Vienna after 20 months of negotiations, takes effect in January.

South African violence erupts; 19 dead

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — At least 19 people were either shot, hacked or burned to death overnight in a troubled squatter camp east of Johannesburg, sending a wave of violence that the South African Institute of Race Relations described Monday as the "grimmesi ever."

The respected independent institute said 3,038 people have died in political violence this year, or an average of 10 every day, more than three times the average of last year.

Witnesses said police drove along a gravel road bordering a railway line alongside the Zonwetzeke squatter camp Monday morning, stopping to pick up the bodies of victims of the latest fighting between supporters of the Zulu movement Inkatha and the African National Congress.

Police put the official death toll at 19, raising to 35 the number killed in the camp this week. The violence extended from factional clashes that exploded in townships surrounding Johannesburg in August.

Witnesses identified the dead as mainly ANC supporters and said they were killed by Inkatha followers in revenge attacks. The dispute is believed to have been sparked by Inkatha's objections to ANC calls for a boycott of rent payments in the area.

"Police fired the first body at half past six this morning," police spokeswoman Capt. Ida van Zweel said.

Inkatha holds a boycott of rent payments in the area. Witnesses reported seeing two bodies that had been set on fire.

Media outrage follows Supreme Court ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court's affirmation of an order preventing Cable News Network from broadcasting its Manuel Noriega tapes drew intense criticism from press representatives.

In a 7-2 decision, the high court let stand Sunday the temporary restraining order from U.S. District Judge John D. Odom to stop CNN from broadcasting tapes of telephone conversations between the imprisoned former Panamanian dictator and his lawyers.

"This is a single battle in a long war," said CNN lawyer Floyd Abrams.

CNN said it will submit the tapes to Hoeveler, Abrams said if the judge refuses to lift the ban after reviewing the tapes, CNN will appeal all the way back to the Supreme Court, if necessary. He said he was "hopeful and confident" of prevailing if the case comes back to the high court.

But University of Texas law professor Lucas Powe, a specialist in press freedom issues, said the damage has been done.

"Nothing can untie what happened today because the decision today was that CNN must submit to censorship," Powe said. "Whenever the Supreme Court sanctions an erosion in our historically exercised liberties, you can't be certain where an erosion's going to stop.

According to the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, which concentrates on First Amendment issues involving the media, the American public should be very concerned with the court's action.

"We're almost a unique country in the world because we have a First Amendment that protects the press from government censorship," said Committee Executive Director Jane Kirtley.

unit and that unit gets called, guess where you're going?" he said.

All UF ROTC members are non-active, but that does not guarantee those cadets will not be called to battle, Matthews said.

"If they have total mobilization of the United States Army, they would call up all the reserves," he said.

If a student gets shipped to Saudi Arabia in the middle of a semester, Roberson said, that person would receive a full refund from the university.

That probably would be of little consolation to the former UF students serving in the Persian Gulf should the crisis escalate into war.

But that's what the ROTC is there for, Lopez said.

"I don't think anybody has a death wish," he said. "But if someone gets called, they have to go where they're sent."

"I don't have the desire to die. But I do have the desire to serve my country. And I'm not alone."
IF YOU'VE BEEN STEALING CABLE, WE FORGIVE YOU.

It's called Amnesty, and it's Cox Cable's no-questions-asked, no-punishment, last-chance opportunity for people who are illegally receiving cable services. Confess now. And we'll forgive you. Because now through November 30, anyone who is receiving any cable service without paying for it can confess to the crime, and we won't prosecute. You have our word on it.

This doesn't just apply to individuals who tap into a cable line. It also applies to paying customers who add unauthorized extras - like premium channels or additional television hook-ups - to their existing services. And it even applies to individuals who have helped others or even attempted to help - to illegally alter any cable service. Anyone who is receiving a paid cable service without paying for it is stealing.

And Cox Cable will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law.

And the law is steep. Stealing cable is a federal offense. With fines of up to $1000 and six months in jail. It's not a pretty picture.

So it's as simple as this. Confess now. Or you will pay later. Because if you've been stealing cable, we forgive you. But only through November 30.

For Amnesty, call 377-2123 - It's a one time offer.

BUT ONLY THROUGH NOVEMBER 30.
Here and there

September — Gov. Bob Martinez orders all state agencies to trim their budgets by 5 percent, blaming the cuts on diminished state revenues and a sluggish economy. UF officials say the drastic cuts could force the cancellation of most summer classes.

November — Gov.-elect Lawton Chiles asks state agencies to support 5 percent program cuts in their 1991-92 budgets. UF President John Lombardi calls Chiles' approach "clear-headed."

We guess the words "budget cuts" just sound different when they come out of a Democrat's mouth.

Our brilliant congressional leaders have decided that to combat the number of students who default on their college loans, they won't let first-time recipients have their loan checks for 30 days.

Real smart logic. A student needs money badly enough to ask for a loan, therefore they must have enough cash to get through the semester break, plus another 30 days.

We'd like to see the fat cats in Washington try to get by on student loans unless it's eligible for the Sugar Bowl, which the most of the shirt's wholesale price.

Congratulations to UF students who are doing their best to take part in world affairs by showing their support for Kuwaiti refugees and U.S. soldiers serving in the Persian Gulf.

One student group, called Cooperative American Relief Effort for Refugees of Crisis in Kuwait, or CARE ROCK, is sponsoring a volleyball tournament Dec. 2 on Broward Field. The proceeds go to the Red Cross to purchase food, water, medicine and other supplies.

Other students are showing their support for U.S. soldiers by writing them letters. We applaud their humanitarian efforts to reach out to service people who are going to spend their holidays far away from their families.

"It's not fair..." is a theme that seems to be constantly playing, and special treatment should be given to all these people.

I graduated without any special treatment. I attended my classes, took my tests and did what was required of me. If I had not, I would not have graduated.

Athletes, however, were guaranteed a "C" if they were majors in physical rehabilitation. I know that because I saw it happen many times.

Giving people positions, grades, or jobs just because of circumstances — not qualifications — does no one any good. In fact, it pulls down the effectiveness of the rest of the group.

Want good grades? Want a good job? Work for it!

No one would ever let me play varsity basketball because I protested it's not fair I'm only 5'3". We all need to adjust our ideas about what is worthy of hard work.

Given, no one should be denied a job because of race, color or creed, but then again no one should be given one based solely on those factors.

I would not like the police officers in charge of protecting my neighborhood or the people who handle my account at the bank to have their jobs just because of a special nationality status or a former athletic position — I want them to know what they are doing.

We all forget to smell those roses

On one rare night when Gainesville was actually quiet, a few friends and I decided to forego the Saturday night parties and relax by playing a board game.

Out came the worn Monopoly board, the one with extra money from a thousand other long-discarded games. We stared at it, as familiar as the memories of lazy summer days and the feel of a skateboard as it rolls down the pavement.

With the toss of the dice, we began to play. Suddenly, peaceful thoughts were forgotten as we reached for the best property. We moved our pieces around the board trying to beat each other. Faster. Faster.

Squinted eyes, grim mouths, wrinkled brows. We were no longer patients, each engrossed in searching for the best deal. It was every player for themselves.

Occasionally there was an echo of laughter, but it hovered far above us, almost unheard. Secretly, snappily, we were glad when another player, once a friend, got sent to jail or lost money. It was easier to win that way.

Midway through the game, I broke my concentration and looked around at the strangers sitting next to me. Their hands were clamped, and their eyes were intent, as were mine.

I looked at the clock and wondered how the night had slipped away so quickly.

How easily, it seems, we've let our youth slip by while getting lost in life's daily obligations. We often forget the feel of the soft earth under our bare feet or the aroma of freshly mowed grass.

We now rely on caffeine boosts to stay awake the night before an exam. We strive to act like everyone else, run with the right crowd and dress in vogue. We write lists to plan our days.

Of course, natural progression is inevitable. Responsibility is a necessary part of life. Competition makes for a sound economy.

But it seems we've lost the simple things along the way. The little wonders that make life worth the daily hassles. A good conversation. A loyal friend. A cloudless day.

We're so wrapped up in winning the game, we've forgotten the joys of playing.

Fuels can be produced.
There's no doubt about the feasibility of using these fuels, Cook said.
"Just look at racing cars," he said, referring to fuel ethanol, which is produced from plants.
Cook said as the cost of petroleum approaches $1.50 a gallon, the cost of producing fuel from plants becomes very attractive.
Solar technology has improved since 1979 when the Gainesville Regional Airport terminal was built with a solar air-conditioning system.
Gainesville Aviation Director Gene Clerkin said the system broke down because of cold weather and wasn’t really adequate anyway.
Clerkin said the system will be scrapped in favor of a conventional air-conditioning system.
Larry Maxwell, senior research architect at the Florida Solar Energy Center, advises builders on how to incorporate solar technology when designing homes and other buildings.

“More and more home builders are becoming receptive (to solar energy),” Maxwell said.

He said some builders are reluctant to change the way they build homes, but many are sold on solar when they realize they can improve energy efficiency by 40 percent with little additional cost.

Gainesville Regional Utilities managing analyst Berdell Knowles said GRU soon will conduct a study to compare solar technologies with all other conventional technologies in the production of energy.

“The GRU does recommend passive and active solar energy”, Knowles said.

“We have a customer relations department which provides information in that regard.”

Until building a new energy-efficient home, GRU customers can benefit from free home-energy surveys that advise customers on how to significantly cut their energy use, he said.

Faculty Reminded Of ‘Dead Week’ Assignment Policy

The final week of classes, Monday, Dec. 10 through Friday, Dec. 14, is the week traditionally known as “Dead Week” or “Review Week.” Faculty members are expected to follow UF’s Dead Week Class Examination and Assignment Policy, which states that no final or comprehensive examinations or term papers are to be scheduled or assigned.

Written papers and/or oral presentations, pending readings and orally or daily tests announced in the course syllabus may be collected or presented, provided that they do not serve as final exams. Take-home tests assigned as final exams can be due no earlier than the regularly scheduled final exams. Laboratory sections are exempt from this policy.

The intent of the policy is to assure that students are free to concentrate on class work and to begin reviewing for finals. Students or faculty members who have questions or comments about the policy should contact the Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs Keith Legg, 352 Little Hall, 392-1519.

Florida-FSU Student Tickets Today At Gate 13

Student tickets to the Dec. 1 Florida-Florida State game in Tallahassee go on sale today beginning at 9 a.m. at the Gate 13 ticket window. Ticket sales, which will be on a first-come, first-served basis, will continue until 4:30 p.m., or until the student allotment is sold out.

Only 1,500 student tickets are available. Students must present a student season football card, valid fee card and picture I.D. Each person in line can purchase only one student ticket, which costs $18 (cash only). A spouse card does NOT buy an additional ticket. Lost or stolen tickets cannot be replaced.

Camping outside of Gate 13 is prohibited. Students attempting to line up early must do so inside the stadium. Gate 13 will open at 7 a.m. and students will be seated beginning at row 33. Restrooms and public telephones will be available.

According to Gainesville Post Office officials, the switchboard operator reported three anonymous complaints about the mailing. Some faculty have questioned the Gallery's judgment.

"Sending the card out to homes calls their judgment into question," said Ralph Lowenstein, dean of the College of Journalism and Communications.

Art department Chairman John Catterall said he approved the mailing because those receiving it would generally be accustomed to seeing art. Catterall said he now realizes the postcard should have been enclosed in an envelope to shield its contents.

"Nudity is not synonymous with obscenity, and this card is obviously not obscene. But you still have to wonder about the person's judgment," Perry said.

Valdes said several people have called the Gallery office complimenting the intriguing look of the postcard.

"I'm quite surprised at all the reaction we've received," she said. Perry said any further action concerning the postcard seems unlikely because complaints have been anonymous.

"This doesn't seem to warrant a legal response, but in this era of social control, a lawsuit is conceivable," she said.

Postal officials say the matter cannot be sent to the postal inspector unless the complainant comes to the office with the piece of mail.

Because some of the exhibit's images include nudity, Valdes said she plans to post a notice at the entrance saying the exhibit might be unsuitable for minors.

The current exhibit runs through Dec. 14 and Gallery hours are: Monday, closed; Tuesday, 10 a.m.-8 p.m.; Wednesday-Friday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, 1-5 p.m.

Tennis team steals recruit from Stanford

By DEBRA SARI UNN
Alligator Writer

Attracted to UF's "total package deal," USTA National Tennis Team member Jill Brenner signed with the UF women's tennis team Monday.

Brenner, 16, was No. 3 in the Girls 16 and Under national rankings in 1989, the first year she was eligible for those rankings. Despite being recruited by Stanford, the No. 1 team in the nation, and Duke, Brenner chose UF for its combination of athletics and academics.

"We're very excited about her signing with UF," her father Sandy Brenner said. "It's one of the best programs in the nation and clearly the one of the best coaches."

"We liked the whole academic package."

As one of eight members of the United States Tennis Association National Tennis Team, Brenner has competed in the Italian Open and the French Open this year.

Brenner, who is from Lake-land, attends Palmer Academy which is associated with Harry Hopman's tennis school in Saddlebrook. She previously attended Lake-land High School.

Champaign, as in Champaign, Illinois, where George Sakes is a Master's Degree candidate at the University of Illinois. And Golf, as in George's 1967 Volkswagen Golf. 'This car's great to drive. We've taken it on road trips to Florida and all over the Midwest. Golf's got that special, solid Volkswagen feel.' (Hey George, the word is Fahrvergnügen!) 'Golf's got lots of room for friends. And its hatchback design has come in handy for the many times I've moved.' For practicality, performance and the fun of Fahrvergnügen, take it from George. And take up Golf.
Colorado grabs 1st in UPI

United Press International

NEW YORK — The end of the 1980 regular season finds the Colorado Buffaloes in exactly the same position as they were at this time last year.

With only the Orange Bowl ahead of them, the Buffaloes took advantage of a Notre Dame loss to move into the No. 1 position in the United Press International college football ratings.

Colorado received 45 of 55 first-place votes cast by the 59-member UPI Board of Coaches and finished with 904 of a possible 925 points.

No. 2 Miami earned three first-place votes and 700 points, while No. 3 Georgia Tech topped four ballots finishing with 658 points.

Colorado’s move to the top was a near-exact duplication of its ascension to No. 1 last year. In 1989, the Buffaloes completed their regular season before taking advantage of a Notre Dame loss to occupy the top spot.

Coach Bill McCartney would like to see the similarities end on New Year’s Night, when the Buffaloes face Notre Dame in a rematch of last year’s Orange Bowl won by the Fighting Irish.

“Last season was the first time we were in a position like that (needing a victory to win the national title),” McCartney said. “We hope we learned from that and we can play more effectively this time.”

The Buffaloes, 10-1-1, routed Kansas State 64-3 on Saturday to become the first Big Eight team other than Nebraska or Oklahoma to win back-to-back conference titles outright.

Miami, 7-2, which was snubbed by the Orange Bowl and wound up making an agreement with the Cotton Bowl, took over the No. 2 position with a 42-12 victory over Boston College.

UF cross country team takes sixth at NCAA

The UF men's cross country team put the finishing touches on its best season in school history with a sixth-place finish at the NCAA Cross Country Championships Monday afternoon in Knoxville.

The Gators, who qualified for the meet by winning the NCAA Region III Championships nine days ago, had their best-ever finish at the NCAA Championship with 218 points.

Senior Dan Middleman led UF as he earned All-America honors for 13th place. He finished the 10,000-meter race in a career-best of 29 minutes, 48 seconds. Senior Mike LeVallie placed 40th in 30:20, and sophomore Mike Mykytyuk placed 43rd in 30:20. Chris Wilson and Pat McDo- onough finished 70th (30:44) and 116th (32:00), respectively.

All five runners improved their times from the Region III meet, where Mykytyuk led the Gators with a seventh-place finish of 30:31.

"These guys did an outstanding job, there isn't a whole lot more I can say," said head coach John Webb.

The University of Arkansas won the team title with 68 points as three runners placed in the top 11. Iowa State finished second with 96 points. Southeastern Conference champion Tennessee finished seventh in the meet with 235 points, and Kentucky finished eighth with 250.

Vilanova won the women's championship with 82 points, ahead of Providence (172), Clemson (204), Cal-Irvine (210) and Oregon (221).

The men's team compiled 106 points a week ago in the Region III meet, outdistancing second-place finisher Tennessee by five points. Going into that meet, Tennessee ranked No. 4 in the nation.

Basketball team to face Brazilians

UF basketball coach Lon Kruger says his team has been working to improve its zone defense, patience and free-throws — some spots in last week's 86-77 exhibition loss to Athletes in Action.

Tonight Kruger will get to see if the hard work pays off when the Gators play a Brazilian touring team in the Gators final exhibition game at 7:30 in the O'Connell Center.

The Gators will open the regular season Saturday against the University of South Florida in Tampa.

"We've worked against the zone the last few days, and we expect to look a little better," Kruger said after practice Monday.

"We've got to get the ball down inside and be a little more patient."

Kruger said he will start the same lineup he used against Athletes in Action, because of injuries to Mike Brandon and Ruthie O'Reilly. Brandon bruised his knee in practice Tuesday, and O'Reilly injured her ankle Wednesday.

"I don't know that he's fully recovered, but we expect him to play at full speed," he said.

Kruger also said he expects to use a vast assortment of lineups like he did last game.

Against Athletes in Action, freshman guard Craig Brown played 19 minutes and scored six points off the bench, and freshman forward Martti Kuusima contributed 12 minutes and four points.

Four other reserves played, including sophomore guard Scott Stewart, who was in for 11 minutes.

The Brazilian team, 1-8 going into Monday night's game against Florida State, is led by forwards Booker Jones and Cicerio Imbuzelo, who each average 13.8 points a game.

Gators climb into AP top five; Notre Dame is eighth

As the race for the national title becomes even more convoluted, UF earned one first-place vote and moved up a notch to No. 5 in the Associated Press Top 25 Poll, the news agency announced Monday.

The Gators, who beat Kentucky Saturday 47-15, are in the top five for the first time since January 1986, when UF finished No. 5 in AP's final poll.

UF (9-1) moved up because top-ranked Notre Dame lost 24-21 to Penn State Saturday. The Fighting Irish are now No. 7. The Nittany Lions jumped seven spots to No. 11.

Colorado (10-1-1) is ranked first, followed by Miami (7-2), Georgia Tech (9-0-1) and Brigham Young (9-1). Colorado received 45 first-place votes. Miami three, Georgia Tech eight and BYU two. UF and No. 6 Texas each had one.

Florida State, the Gators' next opponent, is No. 8, followed by No. 9 Washington and No. 10 Nebraska. Tennessee is ranked 14th, Mississippi 21st and Auburn 23rd.

The regular season is almost over, and still there is no clear-cut candidate for national champion. UF coach Steve Spurrier said he thinks a team's ranking should be reflected by the strength of its schedule. The Sporting News ranked UF's schedule the second-toughest in the country behind Notre Dame.

"I just think the team with the toughest schedule and the best record should be first," Spurrier said. "I'm sure the voters try to take that into consideration."

"If our schedule is tougher than Miami and we've got a better record than Miami, it looks like we should be ranked ahead of Miami. But I don't want to get into that promoting just yet."

The title picture is muddled. No. 1 Colorado beat Missouri on a controversial firth down, lost to Illinois and tied Tennessee in overtime.

Miami has two losses, one more than most of the other teams in the top 10. The Hurricanes lost to BYU on Sept. 8, yet BYU is two spots below Miami in the poll.

Georgia Tech, which has been top-ranked Virginia two weeks ago, also has a blemish: a tie with unranked North Carolina.

The Cougars haven't been perfect, either. BYU's Ty Detmer is a leading candidate for the Heisman Trophy, but he threw five interceptions in the Cougars' loss to Oregon.

And UF, which is not eligible for a bowl because of NCAA probation, likely blew its chances for a national title in a 45-3 loss to Tennessee.

"I don't know who deserves it," Spurrier said. "If we had a playoff, we wouldn't have to worry about it."

Bromley, Brandon injured

Offensive guard Chris Bromley and defensive tackle Mike Brandon were injured in the Kentucky game, but probably will play in the Gators' Dec. 1 matchup with FSU, Spurrier said.

Bromley, a senior who has started 25 consecutive games, had surgery Sunday to repair torn cartilage in his right knee. His status may not be known for seven to 10 days.

Brandon, a junior who had started 18 games this season, is expected to return to the lineup Saturday.
