State law makes UF an agency

By TOM SHRODER
Alligator Staff Writer

A major reorganization of administration procedure is taking place at UF.

State University System Chancellor Robert Mautz notified university presidents on Feb. 27 that the university system falls under the Administrative Procedures Act (APA) requiring massive changes in the decision-making process.

COMPLETE COMPLIANCE under the law by the nine state universities is not expected until the end of April. Mautz said Tuesday.

UF administrators have long dreaded forced compliance with the APA, a law that mandates the complete reexamination of all administrative operating policies.

Dr. Robert Bryan, UF interim vice president for administrative affairs, said last month compliance with the act could "grind this place to a halt."

UF ATTORNEY Tom Bigg said the law requires UF to publish any administrative action in the campus newspaper and to publish any individual action in the Daily Union.

Any individual or group wishing to speak on the proposal must be given an opportunity to express views before the decision-making body.

In addition, UF must rewrite its policy manual citing legal authority for each policy, Biggs said.

Bryan said there are hundreds of such decisions made every quarter at UF.

MAUTZ SAID Tuesday that the university had been instructed to be ready for compliance at the Feb. 27 meeting of the Council of Presidents.

"We have agreed we are subject to the law and we're going to comply," Mautz said.

UF President Robert Q. Marston said last week it was still uncertain if UF would be instructed to comply immediately or wait until the legislature clarified the situation this spring.

Mautz said he told the presidents not to wait for clarification but to start complying immediately. However, Mautz told university presidents to plan on legislative exemption in certain areas of university jurisdiction such as student conduct hearings. Student Government, the Shands Teaching Hospital and the Interim departmental policy not applied university-wide.

"IT'S NOT SOMETHING you comply with overnight," Mautz said.

The Board of Regents, which already operates under the APA, took two months working with a lawyer to adjust to the new law, he said.

Mautz said he will arrange a meeting between Carroll Webb, staff director of the administrative procedure committee, and university representatives in about a week to discuss plans for compliance.

In a Feb. 28 LETTER to state university presidents, Mautz wrote, "Mr. Webb does not believe a substantial number of exclusions will be provided by the legislature, but he appears willing to listen to our arguments regarding areas of difficulty and to be willing to help persuade the committee in this regard."

Mautz also told the presidents to distinguish between rule-making and "procedures or orders in such areas as admissions, degree requirements, graduate appeals and probation."

Procedures or orders in these areas are not covered by the APA, Mautz said.

UF faculty cutbacks more than expected; women hit hardest

By TOM SHRODER
Alligator Staff Writer

The final roll of a Board of Regents'-ordered cutback in UF faculty is heavier than anticipated, and falls most heavily on the shoulders of women.

Dr. Robert Bryan, UF interim vice president for academic affairs, said 20 faculty members who had "reasonable expectations" of continued employment, will not be continued next year.

LESS THAN A WEEK AGO, UF President Robert Q. Marston told the University Senate only nine faculty members who might have expected to be employed next year would be terminated.

Bryan said the confusion was due to a mix-up in communications between college deans and the administration.

Women accounted for six of the 20 terminations, or 32 percent of the recalled positions, Bryan said.

DR. DOROTHY NEVILL, interim affirmative action coordinator, said only 12.9 per cent of the total UF faculty are women.

Dr. Harry Siler, dean of UF's graduate school, said, "As an administrator, I cannot feel comfortable about the high percentage of women who were terminated."

Bryan said the only positions considered for termination were temporary or "interim" faculty.

INTERIM FACULTY INCLUDES a higher percentage of women than UF as a whole, Bryan said.

But even within the interim category, women are disproportionately chosen for termination. Twenty-four percent of UF interns are women, while 32 percent of the interns terminated were women.

Tuesday morning, Bryan reported 24 faculty would be terminated in spite of "reasonable expectations," including nine women and 15 men.

HOWEVER, FOUR OF THESE terminations were discovered to be in violation of American Association of University Professors' guidelines, because they had been employed as interims since before July 1974.

Although Bryan said it is not required by UF or Regent policy, in order to be "as fair as possible," the four interns who were employed for more than one year would not lose their jobs.

It was announced later Tuesday afternoon, that only 20 faculty members would be terminated, instead of 24.

REINSTATEMENT OF THOSE four interim professors will cost $37,900. The extra funds will be taken from a $154,000 "cushion" written into budget plans to enable UF to meet future commitments to the state, due July, 1976.

Bryan said he is still hoping the state commitment, a built-in year-end repayment of as much as $60,000 in unspent salary appropriations, will be omitted from next year's budget.

Re-setting to suggestions that increased faculty turnover could result in some of the terminated faculty being rehired, Bryan said, "to hold out any hope for the people, is legally and morally indefensible."

The faculty members were terminated as part of a 109 position cutback, in order to save $1.5 million in salaries.

Some of those positions are presently unoccupied and others are filled with faculty members who already intended to leave after (See 'Layoffs,' page fourteen)
Ford suspends tariff hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- In a compromise gesture to Congress, President Ford Tuesday suspended for 60 days most of his controversial increase in oil import fees.

But he vetoed a bill that would have suspended his entire $3-a-barrel oil fee increase for 90 days, and urged the lawmakers to enact an anti-recession income tax cut by April 1 and a national energy conservation program by May 1.

At the same time, the President postponed until May 1 his plan to remove controls on the price of domestic oil production. He had planned to take off controls April 1.

Controls hold down the price of 60 percent of U.S. oil production to $5.25 a barrel. The rest of U.S. oil sells at the world price of about $11 a barrel. If controls are removed on May 1, the price of about half the oil America consumes will double.

The President's dramatic announcement in the Oval Office climaxmed a long weekend of intense politicking between the White House and the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Saying he was giving Congress the added time it requested to write laws battling the recessions and the fuel shortage, Ford said, "Hopefully, we can agree on an energy program by May 1."

"The most compelling reason for this 60-day postponement is that I want no part in delaying the speedy enactment by Congress of the income tax cuts which can be on this desk by the end of March. We have exactly four days."

"What we need now is a simple, but substantial, tax cut to revive our economy and make more jobs. What we need next is a comprehensive energy program to end our dependence on foreign oil producers," the President said.

FORD SAID he ordered the $3-a-barrel increase on imported oil to spur Congress into action on energy. But Congress, attacked by Ford for "diddling and dawdling," voted to suspend the hikes.

Ford produced his own energy program. The Democrats came up with a variety of plans, Friday, Ford and Democratic leaders met in the White House and agreed to work toward compromise.

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Senate Finance Committee voted Tuesday to speed action on emergency tax cut legislation by dropping a House-passed amendment to kill the Oil Depletion Allowance.

Committee Chairman Russell Long, reaching a compromise with Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and some other committee liberals, agreed to bring the depletion issue to the Senate floor by July, either in forthcoming energy tax legislation or some other bill "even if I have to put it on a bill changing a comma to a semicolon."

The committee set a target date for having the tax cut bill through Congress and on President Ford's desk of March 21, when the Senate is scheduled to begin its Easter recess. If this timetable is kept, the bill could be mailed to almost every American taxpayer in May.

The House last Thursday passed a bill including rebates of $100 to $200 for almost all taxpayers as well as cuts in 1975 taxes. Finance Committee members indicated at Tuesday's meeting they wanted to increase the tax breaks in the bill, particularly for lower income persons.

The committee's vote on delaying depletion is subject to consideration, and no matter what the committee does there will be a Senate floor fight on whether to kill the $2.5 billion oil industry tax break.

Jury convicts Brooks

HOUSTON (UPI) -- A state court jury Tuesday convicted David Owen Brooks of the 1973 murder of Billy Lawrence, one of 27 youths killed during a three-year sex and sadism partnership.

A fundamental breakthrough — not real! It's just that we wrote a book using this notation (Applied Optimal Estimation, published by MIT Press, Spring '76). The title of the book tells a lot about TASC. Our interest is in applying the modern systems viewpoint that you have learned.

Unfortunately, TASC was founded in 1969, our staff of graduate engineers, scientists, data processing specialists and support personnel has grown to more than 140. In addition to having authored several technical books and numerous reports, papers, and articles, our staff members hold patents in biomedical instrumentation, meteorological sensing, control loop and inertial navigation technology. Our work involves analytical research related to mathematical modeling of systems, statistical estimation and optimal control, physical processes, computer-aided estimation and optimal control, multiprocessor systems syn desis, computer programming, system test and evaluation techniques, advanced simulation techniques and advanced systems concepts.

We are a steadily growing applied research firm that enjoys professional expression by solving real systems problems in navigation, guidance and control in defense, space and public sector applications.

Positions are available for innovative applications — serious Masters and Doctorate level engineers who have a working knowledge of modern estimation and control theory.

TASC is conveniently located 10 miles north of Boston. Our benefits include profit-sharing, tuition reimbursement, disability, income insurance, in-house technical seminars and paid relocation. U.S. Citizenship required.

GAO airs interest conflict

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Congressional investigators charged Tuesday that some officials of the U.S. Geological Survey own stock in companies holding mineral leases on Federal lands administered by the agency.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., in releasing the report by the General Accounting Office, said the findings raised "serious questions of conflict of interest" and should be the subject of a criminal investigation by the Justice Department.

Task force proposes new penalties

By LINDA WISNIEWSKI
Alligator Staff Writer

The Task Force on the Student Judiciary drew up a list of "draft proposals" Monday that include the elimination of penalty hours for Honor Court offenders in favor of a "public reprimand," suspension, and expulsion.

The proposals, which are in rough draft form and still being revised, also include changing the Honor Pledge, taking extra measures against cheating, and adopting the Administrative Procedures Act (APA) as the method for handling Honor Court proceedings.

"THE PUBLIC REPRIMAND would include the publication of the names of all honor court offenders. Their names would be made public "within the academic community," according to the proposals of the committee.

The names would be published in newspapers, such as The Alligator, and be posted on bulletin boards throughout campus, said Rob Denson, director of judicial affairs and task force member.

The task force also suggested various methods of creating an "atmosphere not conducive to academic dishonesty."

THE COMMITTEE RECOMMENDED instructors use alternate seating, random assigned seating, subjective or essay tests, different exams in the same testing room, or the same test with the questions in a different order for the same class.

The task force also found that "proctoring" or the practice of monitoring students while taking an exam, was "not inconsistent with the Honor System," said Michael Gordon, law professor and task force chairman.

Byron Peterson, Honor Court chief defense counsel, and Gordon disagreed on proctoring during the meeting.

BYRON PETERSEN...proctoring invalid

"THE PREMISE (to include proctoring during exams) is not valid," Peterson said, adding that a "honor code is not used in the Honor System." Gordon said, saying proctoring would not be required on all tests.

"Proctoring would not be required on all tests, such as an objective test with 10 students," he said.

"BESIDES, WE'RE JUST recommending proctoring," Gordon said.

The task force also recommended the Honor Pledge be changed to "something more forceful and positive about the honor system."

The current pledge for exams states "On my honor as a Florida student I swear I have neither given nor received aid on this examination."

THE TASK FORCE agreed with the suggestion that the new honor pledge be a statement that students could sign upon taking a test that would "provide continuing awareness of the Honor System."

The task force has not decided on the wording of the new pledge, but will include a substitute when they devise a list of final recommendations.

Another task force recommendation included establishing "status boards" in each college that would issue status reports on security measures in each college.

THE TASK FORCE decided to propose the status reports be made the obligation of the department chairman.

Craig Mitchell, honor court representative on the task force, suggested that each college "Take a look at their own report and check for any evidences of cheating. They should also review and report on current examination procedures."

A recommendation was also made that would require all honor court officials to be independent candidates in student elections including voting on party ticket status.

THE TASK FORCE has recommended the APA be used as the "framework" for the Honor Court instead of the Florida Laws of Criminal Procedure.

Petersen agreed that the APA would allow for "speedier trials because "there are little rules of evidence and there can be no challenges to evidence. That's because the honor officer required under the APA is trained to weigh only the relevant evidence."

An "area of serious dissent" among task force members was the decision of whether or not to have minority faculty representation on the hearing body of the Honor Court.

A recommendation was a task force recommendation that a student faculty review board would essentially have the "power to veto any Honor Court decisions."

Williams disagreed because the review board would essentially have the "power to veto any Honor Court decisions."

THE TASK FORCE also decided to "side-step the issue" of having open hearings.

Gordon suggested the task force wait and see if the Honor Court is in violation of the Sunshine Law before deciding on the question of open hearings.

Gordon was referring to the suit filed by The Alligator, the Gainesville Sun, and law student John Collins to open the Honor Court hearings.

If the Honor Court is found not to be in violation of the Sunshine Law, then the task force will meet to decide on whether or not to hold open hearings.

Task force proposes new penalties

McAdam, Sherman toss hats in SRing

By LESLIE GOLAY
Alligator Staff Writer

"Whether the Senate/Majestic Hotel or not, Student Government is there, it's a reality and they can't ignore it," Alyce McAdam said Monday. The former SG president news conference as an SG presidential candidate.

McAdam's running mate for Student Body Treasurer in next quarter's SG elections will be present Student Body Treasurer Greg Sherman, a sixth year business administration major from West Palm Beach.

SHERMAN SAID, "I'd like to keep working on activities I've started as Student Body Treasurer. I'd like to see their completion."

Answering a question about SG's usefulness, McAdam said, "students can utilize SG to its maximum and make it deliver what it can. I'm not talking about a pie in the sky such as lower tuition rates. I mean you can maximize SG's ability."

Sherman suggested students could get more actively involved in SG funding now that the SG budget is handled by the Service and Activity Fee Advisory Council (SAFAC), which holds open meetings.

MCADAM SAID she would make no speculations as to who her vice presidential running mate would be on her Florida Student Party ticket.

"Our party is straight forward and basic. The time for playing around with student's lives is over. With the economic crisis facing us, clever party names and manufactured issues are luxuries we can no longer afford," McAdam said.

Giving her reasons for running, 23-year-old McAdam said, "it's something I have been working for or else I would have stayed up my other credentials and qualities. The time has come to get out of feminist projects. My term as Student Government for Women president expires in April."

"THERE IS NOTHING I can say to dissuade you from running as a feminist candidate because I am not running as a feminist but as a person and candidate first, and I expect to be elected that way," McAdam said.

When asked if McAdam's involvement with women's issues would hurt her campaign, Sherman said, "Alyce is not a single issue oriented individual. She has proven her ability as a very active leader in the university community."

Concerning reform in the Honor Court, McAdam said, "there must be a way to open the Honor Court and still protect the due process to students involved. I will listen to the recommendations the task force study before."

ONE CHANGE MCADAM and Sherman said they would be working for is insuring that the number of students involved in SG, and ways to soften any tuition hike.

Both candidates agreed that the $13,000 Distinguished Professor Frank Gordon's salary getting paid is too much for the amount of time he is spending on the UF campus.

"Yes, it looks like it is too much salary. That sort of money to a professor is ludicrous. I think the faculty members who don't get that much in a year," McAdam said.

McAdam is a fourth year physical education major from Sarasota. She is UF's current NOW president and founder of the Gainesville Rape and Information Counseling Service.

'At the last SG Executive Committee meeting I wanted to formalize some type of review so we could examine ACCENT speakers before they come. The student body should be able to know what type of speakers are planned before they come.'

Regent finance group eyes tuition hike today

By KAREN MEYER
Alligator Staff Writer

The Board of Regents finance committee is meeting today in Tallahassee to finalize a tuition increase which would go into effect fall quarter.

The plan would raise tuition about 10 percent for undergraduates and more than 20 percent for graduates. It was presented earlier this month to the presidents of Florida's state universities by State University System Chancellor Robert Mautz.

The presidents were nearly unanimous in their objections to the proposal, which would eventually make students bear 30 percent of the cost of their education.

MAUTZ AND REGENTS finance committee members must now come up with a proposal that will allow the state universities to operate within the 1974-75 budget.

The committee will also discuss cutting back 10 percent of the student activity fees currently allocated by each university's student government.

UF Student Body President Steve Merryday will attend today's finance committee meeting to oppose the tuition hike and activity fee cut.

MERRYDAY SAID the 10 percent decrease in available activity fees would result in cutbacks and eliminations of a number of student services.

The Athletic Association officials told Merryday they would probably have to raise ticket prices to athletic events to replace the loss in funds, he said.

Ziegler nixed, Dean in

John Dean, former presidential lawyer and a key figure in the recent Watergate scandal, will speak at UF next quarter.

Dean will be paid $3,750 to speak in the Florida Gym on April 13 as a part of the Accent speakers program funded by Student Government.

A previously scheduled speaking date at UF by Ron Ziegler, former President Richard Nixon's press secretary and one of Nixon's staunchest supporters, has been cancelled.

Ziegler was supposed to come to UF this quarter, but then asked for a delay.

Weiner is new Accent chairman

Steve Weiner, former Accent speakers chairman, was chosen by the Student Government Executive Committee Tuesday to be Chairman of Accent '76.

Weiner will take office next quarter and will serve a year term as the head of the SG organization which is responsible for bringing speakers to UF.

Craig Sikes, vice chairman of Accent, said Tuesday that Ziegler's contract has now been cancelled.

Sikes said Accent was trying to get another nationally known speaker to take Ziegler's place next quarter, but said no one had been scheduled yet.

One program that has been set for spring quarter is a repeat showing of "Who Killed JFK?" a slide and speech presentation on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy which played to an overflow crowd last year.

Weiner new Accent chairman

Steve Weiner, former Accent speakers chairman, was chosen by the Student Government Executive Committee Tuesday to be Chairman of Accent '76.

Weiner will take office next quarter and will serve a year term as the head of the SG organization which is responsible for bringing speakers to UF.

Merryday said Student Health Services officials estimated they might have to eliminate the women's clinic, some nursing positions, Other Personnel Services (OPS) jobs and reduce some capital improvement allocations.

SG WOULD probably have to stop funding some student organizations if the proposed activity fee cut went into effect, according to Merryday.

Merryday charged that the suggested decrease in activity funds was "an attack on the student service programs by the chancellor's office," and said he would fight to prevent the recommendation from being adopted.

Merryday also said he was going to fight against the proposed increase in tuition costs, which would ultimately make students pay 30 percent of the cost of their education.

MERRYDAY SAID he found the 30 percent concept "totally unacceptable," because it would limit the number of students who are able to attend college.

"This (the proposed tuition structure) gets totally away from the land grant concept. It moves more and more toward making education available only to the wealthy," Merryday said.

Merryday said he would propose to the regents a graduated tuition schedule, with the first 15 hours a student takes costing $14 per hour, the 16th hour costing $17, the 17th hour costing $17.50 and every hour after that free.

Also attending the committee meeting are Student Body Treasurer Greg Sherman and Dan Lobeck. SG secretary of consumer affairs.

Craig Sikes, current Accent assistant chairman.

Weiner will receive no pay for his position. All Accent offices are voluntary.

Faculty union unveils salary plan

By GARY BALANOFF
Alligator Staff Writer

The United Faculty of Florida (UFF) attacked the UF administration salary increases, while announcing their proposed collective bargaining agreement at a Tuesday press conference.

Dr. Al Guy, UF chapter president, said if UF wants to attain a system of quality education, “you need to pay something for it.”

UNDER THE UFF PLAN, instructors given tenure would be entitled to an annual salary increase. Women full professors would receive salaries of $12,720 and $13,483, respectively, while male professors would receive salaries of $12,000 and $12,720.

The present position of the UF chapter president of the United Faculty union is to attain a system of quality education, while announcing their proposed collective bargaining program of UF. The chapter president salary is $37,500.

Guy confirmed the salary figures. According to UFF figures since the 1967-68 school year:

1. The Office of Academic Affairs increased its budget from $81,746 to $1,255,129.
2. The general administration and general expenses were increased 213 per cent.
3. The instructional budget was increased 88 per cent.

Dr. Robert Bryan, interim UF vice president of academic affairs, said he was certain the administrative budget of the office of Academic Affairs had risen sharply over the last seven years.

He said during that time the Division of Continuing Education and two new deans were added to the office.

“I'm not convinced the administration is that they have not presented the case of the faculty before the state legislature,” Guy said.

“During the past two years, faculty members have lost more than 15 per cent in purchasing power, he said. "If the threatened salary freeze is permitted, the faculty may lose an additional 12 per cent."

The 15 per cent was calculated by subtracting 9 per cent in faculty salary increase from the 24 per cent total inflation increase over the last two years.

Shaara seeks more funds for ailing Infirmary

By GARY BALANOFF
Alligator Staff Writer

The UF Infirmary is falling apart.

"Today the plaster is falling, paint is peeling, and doors and stairwells need attention," said Dr. Richard Shaara, UF Student Health Service director.

The Infirmary is "in need of a major budget increase," he said.

The financial difficulties of the Infirmary have led Health Service officials to seek increased revenue from the ASIFAC, which allocates student activity fees.

SHAARA WROTE IN HIS REQUEST, "The only purpose for the Student Health Service is to supply medical services for students, consequently, the facility was not maintained as it should have been because of lack of funds."

In 1969, a state fire marshal's report listed several fire violations on the Infirmary premises.

The problems have not completely been remedied, according to Pritz.

"IT'S GOING TO TAKE A WHOLE NEXT 30-60 DAYS," he said.

There are eight physicians plus five postgraduate fellowship students from Shands Teaching Hospital who represent one full-time medical staff member.

A reason for the reduction in full-time personnel is the inability of the Infirmary to pay competitive salaries.

ASKED HOW HE COULD KEEP personnel from going elsewhere for higher salaries, Pritz replied, "We can't."

"We lost the most innovative physicians to the University of Georgia," he added.

One reason the Infirmary had been able to continue providing services despite personnel leaving for greener pastures was the work of one of the men who is now at Georgia.

He trained several para-professionals who now serve as assistants.

WHY FEWER FULL-TIME medical personnel at the Infirmary, students are pouring in at a greater pace than ever before.

According to Pritz, 478 patients were seen at the Infirmary for medical care one day recently.

This represents a space problem in handling student consultations.

"We've got less than half the square footage we need," Pritz said.

"I believe the need for the Infirmary is the need for the full-time medical personnel at the Infirmary, students are pouring in at a greater pace than ever before."

According to Pritz, 478 patients were seen at the Infirmary for medical care one day recently.

This represents a space problem in handling student consultations.

"We've got less than half the square footage we need," Pritz said.

The cost of the construction was originally estimated at $140,700, but "unexpected problems" have raised the figure to $200,635.

The completion of the addition is now in progress.

"THey'RE JUST POURING the footings," Pritz said.

The addition was supposed to be completed by February, 1974, but Pritz said, "If it is completed by October or November of this year, I'll be surprised."

The addition will provide a new pharmacy and six examining rooms, which would make the wait for prescriptions shorter. Pritz said patients have been forced to wait as long as an hour and a half for prescriptions in the past.

Pritz said, "We don't get any appropriations from the state."

The $10 student health fee assessed on every full-time UF student each quarter, is expected to net $574,856 during the 1975-76 fiscal year. But Pritz said that revenue used to be collected from SG.

NEXT YEAR THE INFIRMARY expects to receive the $574,856 because that is equal to the amount Pritz needs this year.

Shara said the Health Service is planning to operate on next year's figures because they have not been informed of the allocation of the enrollment figures for next fall. Thus, they do not anticipate a raise in the amount of student health fees.

"The administration can't spend money it hasn't got," Hugh Cunningham, UF public information officer said, referring to lack of Infirmary money.

"IF THE INFIRMARY has to operate on its own, he said, adding all auxiliary organizations must function from SG and outside sources.

"We have not been able to increase allocation of money to the Infirmary to keep up with inflationary costs," Cunningham said.

The Infirmary has three main sources of revenue—the $10 per quarter student health fee, the service and activity fee from ASIFAC, and service charges on prescriptions, X-rays, and lab work.

The ADMINISTRATION has not been able to raise the $10 student health fee, which Shaara said he would not want to see.

Shaara said UF Vice President of Student Affairs Art Sandeen, Vice President of Administrative Affairs William Marston, and President Robert Q. Marston have all been helpful and positive in their attitudes toward the Infirmary.

"Our relationship has been good," Shaara said.

"WE FEEL THAT IT'S a very important service provided to the students," Sandeen said.

He said the city of Gainesville can't serve the medical needs of UF students without the Infirmary.

Elmore, however, said he was not aware of the specific monetary problems of the Infirmary.

"I'M NOT REALY conversant with the problem now," he said.

Marston was out of town during the weekend and could not be reached for comment.

Student Government hired a graduate student in hospital administration to conduct a complete analysis of the Infirmary.

INCLUDED IN THE ANALYSIS are items such as utilization of personnel, budget, and services provided by the Infirmary.

Greg Sherman, SG treasurer, said he wouldn't have any idea of the results of the analysis until he sees the final product.

"This week, the committee members (ASIFAC) will be reviewing the request of the Infirmary for SG funds," Sherman said.

He added by Tuesday or Wednesday there should be a determination made on the funding proposals.

Angry students criticize Infirmary charging incompetence, inadequacy

By LINDA HAASE
Alligator Staff Writer

The Infirmary lacks funds, is incompetent, and entails too much red tape to give adequate care, according to students interviewed three Tuesday.

Thomas Martin, 2UC, said his first impression of the Infirmary was "terrible."

MARTIN SAW THE TWO MAIN PROBLEMS were the long wait and the "incompetence."

"I came in with lumps on my neck, and the doctor just looked through my records and told me I had something crazy like a cyst."

"I came back a week later to tell them that it was only swollen glands," Martin said.

MARTIN SAID HE FELT that the problem in the Infirmary was not a monetary one.

"I don't think the problem has to do with financial, it has to do with a lack of good doctors. It seems to me that they don't know what they are doing," he said.

Martin said he was dissatisfied with the long wait he says he always encounters in the Infirmary, "I've been waiting 20 minutes for someone to look at my tongue," he said.

ALTHOUGH MARTIN MADE an appointment to see a doctor for this, he said he was told it would be a two-week wait before a doctor would be available.

"I've been dead by the time I get my appointment, so I guess I'll just sit around and wait, like everyone else," Martin said.

Robert Mitchell, 4AR, however, attributed problems in the Infirmary to a lack of funds.

"IF THERE WERE MORE funds, they could hire more doctors so we wouldn't have to wait to see receptionists and half-trained people and be told to come back in 30 or 60 minutes," he said.

The students interviewed were split in opinion on the Infirmary's policy of charging for new prescriptions and medications, which is not covered under the mandatory $10 health fee.

Raffi Papazian, who is still applicable for admissions, said "all lab fees, any appointments, after hour doctor fees and all other fees not covered by the $10 fee, should be abolished."

"IT THINK THIS year is ridiculous. This is a college infirmary, and everything should come under this fee," he said.

I know people who couldn't come when they were sick, because it was after hours and they couldn't afford the fees," he said.

Robert Mitchell, 4AR, felt that the extra charges are justified. "If the Infirmary doesn't charge them, which are discounted in the case of the "850 and prescription fees, they would not be able to function the operation," he said.

In addition to an increase in staff, some services which aren't being provided by the Infirmary are necessary and should be implemented according to Jennifer Simon, 2UC, and John Tileston, JAS.

"I think that some departments, such as dental care and an optometry service should be provided and should be taken care of by the $10 health fee," Simon said.

Elton, also stressed the need for dental care. "I had a toothache this quarter and I had to go see an outside doctor because they weren't equipped to help me here," he said.
Lecturer calls Patton 'a man of many faces'

By DEBBIE ERICKSON
Alligator Staff Writer

"Always work like hell at all things and at all times," General George Patton Jr. wrote to his wife.

It is with this motto that Patton thought he would obtain the greatness he was destined for.

Speaking before 150 persons in Bryan Auditorium Monday night, Martin Blumenson, author of the "Patton Papers" and history professor at The Citadel, told the audience Patton was a man of many faces.

While writing the "Patton Papers," Blumenson had access to all of Patton's personal papers and letters.

"Patton was not the stereotype officer he projected to the public. I think he was a meek and mild man who had to put on a war face," Blumenson said.

Patton wrote, "If you take a coward and dress him as a brave man, he will change from cowardice and take on the qualities of a hero." He believed only "he-men" stimulated men to fight, and forced himself to portray that image. Blumenson said.

"He was a remarkable man who had the ability to obtain more than a maximum response from American troops. "HE KNEW HOW to stimulate troops with the aggressive desire to win," Blumenson said.

Eisenhower once-called Patton's third army the greatest fighting force in the world.

Blumenson said.

Having served as historian in Patton's third army, Blumenson said he thought Patton was "rough" on his troops, but "it made you feel he was interested in you."

"PATTON WAS BRUTAL , but brutality was accepted and condoned because it was that type of war," he said.

Blumenson said he thought Patton really abhorred the chaos and destruction on the battlefields.

He said Patton thought he was "fated for greatness."

Patton wrote his wife, "I have got to be great and it is in war alone that I can achieve this greatness. No one is as good as I am."

Blumenson told the audience it was Patton's parents who instilled in him the "drive for excellence."

"His parents read him Greek myths and others stories of great men when he was young," he said.

Recapping the feelings of the American people during WWII, Blumenson said they "thought victory would solve the problems of the world and Patton represented this victory best.

Today the picture of Patton is one that epitomizes America, he said.

"HE WAS ATHLETIC, rough and sensational—a hero in his own time.

"Patton had a driving willpower and a great good fortune.

"When opportunity knocked he knew how to open the door," Blumenson said.

When Patton died in an automobile accident in 1945 at the age of 60, he had earned the applause and recognition he had sought.

Blumenson said.

"Thousands of Americans have proven this by saying, 'I rolled with Patton.'"

"He was truly one of America's greatest soldiers. We were lucky to have him on our side," he said.

Elephant

In looking at the economic ills that plague Florida's state university system, and the consequent suggestions for remedy, we are reminded of the 10 blind men who stumbled upon an elephant.

"It's a tree," said the man who held the elephant's leg.

"No, this is only a rope," declared the one with tail in hand.

It's an old story and one that points out well the danger of limited perceptions and the value of an overview.

But, it's a story whose lesson has apparently been lost on many of those attempting to come to grips with the problem of money and the state's nine universities.

Faced with a $63 million budget deficit for all Florida schools, many educators throughout the state are considering tuition increases to help solve the problem. To make up its deficit, the Board of Regents Finance Committee is in Tallahassee today examining a new fee schedule. The plan could hike tuition costs as much as $2 per credit hour in upper level undergraduate courses and $5.50 per hour for those working on graduate theses and dissertations.

If approved, the increase would mark the second such increase in two years and put the cost of education even farther out of reach for students from middle and lower income families.

Other budget trimmers, most notably legislative leaders Dempsey Barron and Don Tucker, have called for cutbacks in faculty positions.

At UF, perhaps as many as 24 faculty positions are on the chopping block.

Even more disheartening is the word from UF President Robert Marston that even more layoffs, in non-academic positions, are a possibility. With nearly 30 per cent of its total work force employed by UF in some capacity, all of Alachua County is sure to feel the shockwaves that will accompany any further layoffs.

As we see it, layoffs and tuition increases are not the prime solutions. They are just the tail and legs on a big elephant of bureaucratic red tape and paper work that has become the state university system.

In statements before the House Education Committee on Dec. 10, Chancellor-designate E.T. York presented a pretty clear picture of how this elephant has drained the system.

Pointing to centralized programs in purchasing, personnel and construction as the "source of severe problems for the universities," York presented the committee with 12 "problem areas which increase work loads and total costs." York emphasized that decentralization in decision making could save the university system countless millions lost to duplication of duties, needless paperwork and other bureaucratic stumbling blocks.

Unlike a number of other state university systems which have been given constitutional autonomy, Florida's has become subject to the rules, regulations and controls of various executive agencies.

We agree with Dr. York in the need for more administrative flexibility and call upon State Sen. Kenneth MacKay and Rep. William Andrews to come to grips with the elephant of bureaucracy. As members of the Senate and House Education Committees they can take the necessary steps to insure that paperwork, not people, are the first things that get trimmed.

It now appears that President Ford may have just enough votes to make his energy plan stand up in the Senate.

IF THE WHITE HOUSE vote-counters are correct, the price of gasoline will rise about 15 cents per gallon while other petroleum products will go up around six cents per gallon. Of course, if the White House is wrong, then we will be saved from a gas tax, at least for as long as it takes the Democrats to shore up their energy program through Congress. They seem to agree that their tax will affect only gasoline.

Beyond that, all is chaos.

Depending upon the source, gasoline will go up in price anywhere from five to forty cents per gallon. This may or may not be supplemented by import quotas, fuel allocation, and rationing, depending on the state of the economy and the phase of the moon.

AND WHY ARE Ford and the Democrats working so hard to save the world from reasonable gas prices? Because of the awful A-rabs, of course. Or, to put it more deliberately, we have to reduce our dependence on foreign oil.

Basically, we're going to show those camel jockeys that they can't push around the United States. We're not going to let them get in a position where they can spring another oil embargo on us.

Remember what happened during the oil embargo? The price of oil went through the roof. There was fuel allocation, and people were lined up for blocks trying to buy a tankful of gas.

Well, we're not going to let those A-rabs do that to us again. We're going to do it ourselves first.

This is going to open up whole new vistas of creative policy making. For example, couldn't we make ourselves less vulnerable to nuclear attack by atom-bombing all our major cities? The nifty red commies couldn't bother with us then.

Or perhaps we could burn Los Angeles to the ground. That would make us less dependent on the good nature of the San Andreas Fault.

PRE-EMPTIVE STRIKES against ourselves? What will WASHINGTON — President Ford is still underestimating the jobless crisis. This is the opinion of economic experts who have been right in the past.

They predict the weakening economy will dry up far more jobs than President seems to anticipate. 'The unemployment rate could hit a disastrous 12 percent, they fear, before the end of the summer,' said one economist.

Unfortunately our economic sources have been more accurate in their predictions than have the President's economic advisors. In fact, our sources blame the White House and the Federal Reserve Board for causing the massive layoffs.

Last October, President Ford called upon the American people to reduce their purchases and save their money. The Federal Reserve Board backed the President by warning banks to tighten up on their loans.

Suddenly, people stopped buying automobiles and other goods in the usual volume. Inventories began to build up. Plants began to shut back production and lay off workers.

The Chain Reaction has now caused massive layoffs and widespread economic hardships. The jobless rate has already shot up above 8 percent. But this doesn't tell the whole story. More than 41 percent of the teen-agers in the black ghetto can't find jobs. And almost 20 percent of our young veterans are out of work.

Yet the worst, according to our sources, is still to come.

PLACEMENT SERVICE: Nineteen seventy-four was a bad year for Republicans. Many of President Ford's former classroom buddies were voted out of Congress.

But the President hasn't forgotten his friends. The White House placement office reportedly has a special unit to handle jobs for unemployed members of Congress.

Ford appointed the defeated senator from Colorado, Peter Dominick, as the new ambassador to Switzerland. And the past governor of American Samoa will be a defeated congressman. Earl Hath of North Carolina.

FORD HAS CREATED a special Pentagon post for his former colleague from California, Victor Vovesey. And another ex-colleague, Witter "Vinegar Bend" Mizell of North Carolina, has been nominated to be an assistant commerce secretary.

Not all ex-congressmen, of course, remain on the federal payroll. Some of them, like the former Texas congressman, Frank Ikard, become high-priced lobbyists for big oil and other special interests.

Roger Zion, a defeated congressman from Indiana, sent out a solicitation letter to prospective clients boasting of his Capitol Hill connections. He assured the special interests that he will keep up his contacts "in the congressional prayer breakfast group in the House gym, the members dining room and on the House floor."

The privileged status of former congressmen, in short, can still be maintained.

MILITANT MODERATE For a quarter of a century, Gerald Ford was a dyed-in-the-wool Republican conservative. He voted the conservative line. He defended the conservative cause. He became a conservative spokesman.

Now suddenly overnight, he has wound up on the conservative blacklist. The hard-nosed conservatives consider him a traitor to their principles. They want him to cut government spending but increase military spending, to grant private industry more government benefits but less government regulations.

ADVICE & DISSENT

Justice for Greek system

EDITOR: In reference to the Friday, Feb. 28, article about the chapter's parents viewpoint on the cheating scandal, we would like to correct a very disturbing impression conveyed by that article.

The Picture of the fraternity system painted by the article is in no way indicative of those brotherhoods. The parents seem to be under the impression that fraternities are dens of evil and corruption; that the brothers deceive new freshmen into pledging and influence their thoughts toward corruption and taking the easy way out.

The parents are condemning the fraternities for their son's error, but only a small percentage of the people involved were members of the Greek system.

The actions of the few Greeks, who evidently do not follow the principles of the Greek system, should not be held against any other fraternity.

Those "bad, good standing" seemingly came by their standing through illicit means and should suffer the consequences. But in no way should many be uniply implicated through the actions of a few or by the viewpoint of misled parents.

The Parents Say that "he was naive and gullible" but that is nonsense. By the time a person reaches the college level his character has for the most part already been formed. "John" was most likely quite able and willing to make his way through school by the easiest way possible. "John's" parents must be the ones who are naive and gullible to believe that their son was totally duped before coming to the university. The parents entire viewpoint of the situation is ridiculous.

We are also disappointed that the Alligator would print an article expressing such a potentially damaging description of the fraternity system. The Alligator must pride itself on investigating controversial issues where no such trouble exists.

Even though instances arise where individuals do not live up to the principles of the Greek system, the system is an honorable one. One of the cornerstones of Greek life is justice. We ask that the Alligator and the student body remain aware of the virtues of Greek life and not focus on the rare and isolated failings.

PIRG rivals 'Dare to be Great'

EDITOR: Ralph Nader's PIRG has sold the University of Florida administration on a scheme rivaled only by Dare To Be Great.

I am not aware of any other private companies who are allowed to solicit money from the students of the university through the official fee billing mailing. Only PIRG.

How will you stop the insurance companies, abortion clinics, Bible salesmen, or anybody else from enclosing a "negative check off" card in a mailing paid for by student funds?

If PIRG wants to mail to students and ask for a dollar, let them pay the postage and printing themselves. Don't ask the taxpayers for the money.

I am setting up a new organization. The Free Enterprise Interest Association. I want to mail to each student so that they might have the opportunity to join for $5.00 a year. The mailing will be sent along with the billing for fees and the taxpayers will pay for its production and processing.

Will you support me?

Warhol's intentions

EDITOR: I don't claim to be an expert on drama by any means, but it seems to me that Sonya Booth, in her review of Warhol's "Dracula," has missed the main thrust of his campy film. While I haven't seen "Blood of Dracula," I did check out his "Fleshmania" for half a summer.

Warhol's point, I believe, is that the film actually is supposed to be "very profitable." His violence, his humor, his characters, and his methods are expectedly through the 3-D "Viewmaster" image, a combination of one big parody of horror films.

The joke is really on the audience which goes to see the gore and comes out strangely unsatisfied at the ridiculous way in which it is presented. The sex scenes indeed become the refreshing parts. In my opinion, Warhol is trying to say to those who do think about it, that violence and the associated attitudes of the audience, and not sex, are the real obscenities in the world.

Local women hopeful for ERA

By LESLIE GOLAY
Alligator Staff Writer

Even though five states have defeated the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) this year Gainesville women are still optimistic that Florida will be the 38th and last state to ratify the amendment this year.

The amendment, which guarantees freedom from sexual discrimination, recently failed to pass the legislatures of Oklahoma, Arizona, Nevada, Georgia and Utah.

ONLY ONE STATE, North Dakota, has approved the ERA in 1975. Four more legislatures must vote yes to provide the necessary 38 states for its ratification.

"People have to be aware of the individual situation in those states that didn't pass it. They were states in which the ERA was not considered to have a chance at all," said Mary Anne Sherman, ERA coordinator for the Gainesville League of Women Voters.

"I feel that things look better for the ERA this year than last year. We're far better organized than last year and the local coalitions are enthusiastic and are better workers," Sherman explained. "We've just got to work harder in Florida."

ACCORDING TO SHERMAN, more organizations, such as the AFL-CIO, various church groups and the Young Democrats, have expressed interest in the ERA this year.

Housing staff gets discount on rooms

By GARY BALANOFF
Alligator Staff Writer

Professional UF Housing Division staff members pay considerably less money for their apartments than students living in the same type of on-campus apartments. But James T. Hennessy, UF director of housing, and two directors of resident life said Sunday the advantages of having the staff members on campus makes the discount rate worthwhile to UF.

ACCORDING TO HENNESSY, options for student housing, such as directors of resident life and residence life coordinators, pay $50 a month for their units.

If these personnel choose to live off campus, the apartments normally occupied by them may be rented to students, but they must pay a price roughly equivalent to a room in Beatty Towers—$215 per quarter.

UC’s get paid between $2.25 and $2.50 an hour, while hall advisors receive a base salary of $3,000 for nine months of service.

"WE OFFER THEM the directors of resident life and residence life coordinators a perquisite if they live on campus," Hennessy said. "This becomes part of their salary."

Hennessy said there are 26 apartments set aside for on-campus directors of resident life and residence life coordinators. He recently reduced the number of such professional staff members from 22 to 11.

HE SAID 19 apartments have student occupants in them.

Three of the director of resident life on campus, as do four residence life coordinators.

"If there are vacant apartments, we put students in them," Hennessy said. He added if professional staff members move off campus, the students can apply for the vacated apartments "on a quarter-to-quarter basis."

"I'M NOT IN THIS line of work for the money," said Al Kozal, director of resident life for the West Campus. He added a person life should not be in such a line of work if he or she didn't feel he could offer something to the student.

About 75 per cent of Kozal’s work is administrative, while 25 per cent involves direct talks with students. Discipline, "If done correctly,” he considered counseling, Kozal said.

HE DESCRIBED THE APARTMENT he lives in as "kind of like a house trailer within a dorm."

He said it was a combination of what had been four student rooms with the walls knocked out. Kozal is one of three directors of resident life who live in dorm areas.

JACK MATA, director of resident life for the East Campus, is one of the other two. He lives in an apartment adjacent to the Beatty Towers.

He said it is an advantage to live on campus because it is "easier to spend time with students, less like a house staff because it is," he added. "Without an apartment this job wouldn’t be worth it" from a salary standpoint, Mata said.

"Both of my RLC’s (resident life coordinators) and myself live here on campus," he said. "It adds to the job. I could offer something to the students."

About 75 per cent of the 5,026 projects must be based on percentage of utilization of their money.

Sherman will conduct an analysis of their records of spending patterns which will weight into any spending cuts decisions. ASFAC makes for the College Council.

A REQUEST FROM the University College Council (UCC) for $2,000 for a symposium on energy and consciousness was turned down by ASFAC because "there are no funds available funds that do not comply with the SG College Council Finance Manual," according to Sherman.

ASFAC said it could not fund any requests unless the project the 1974-75 SG surplus is realized. The realized $175,000 surplus must be released by the administration, according to Sherman.

"University College has to start being a little more realistic in their utilization of funds," said Malone. "I’d like to sit down with them and talk with them on what they’re doing.

The College Councils were set up with autonomous funding for college projects unique to each college, according to Climb. ASFAC discussed College Councils’ per capita funding system in which University College gets 40 per cent of the money. ASFAC MADE NO decisions regarding SG’s and the J. Wayne Reitz Union budgets until "we know how much money we have to work with," Climb said.

The council argued for 20 minutes over the necessity of having a joint board and in the SG budget as a recurring expense.

Malone wanted to move the club off the budget because he said it was not a recurring expense. He said the club should go to SG Special Requests for funding.

"The Senate will never let Star Trek pass on the SG budget," Malone said.

Ralph Turlington cities appraisal mistake

By BRUCE MORRIS
Alligator Staff Writer

The state purchased a 439 acre tract of undeveloped Alachua County land Monday as an addition to the Payne’s Prairie Preserve.

The land is east of I-75 just south of state road 121.

According to State Parks and Recreation Director Neely Landrum, the land may never be used as a recreation area.

"The purchase was made to prevent land management and drainage problems. It was a desirable addition to the 18,000 acres in the project the state already owns," Landrum said.

PAYNE’S PRAIRIE is a low-lying, flat, treeless expanse of land that extends south from Gainesville on both sides of I-75.

Landrum said the state owns 80 to 85 per cent of the prairie. Three to four thousand acres are privately owned and would also be desirable additions.

"We are (presently) negotiating with 15 to 20 other owners in the area for additional land," Landrum said. "We don’t have eminent domain power."

A secondary reason for the purchase was to prevent development of the tract, which would create negative problems by introducing unnatural factors.

THE FLORIDA CABINET voted 5-2 to buy the land for $1,418,000 from owners John Wood, Jr. and Billy Wood, both of whom had been assessed at $1.6 million and the department of general services had negotiated the price down to $1.4 million.

But at the cabinet meeting, Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington said there was a mistake in the appraisal and the price should be dropped to the $1.4 million figure. Only Governor Reubin Askew and Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner disagreed saying the price was still too high.

The appraisal mistake, Turlington said, was that the appraisal figure for UF would grow by approximately 8,000 students in the next four years.

TURLINGTON SAID his figures indicate the entire university system will grow only slightly more than that.

"Had the auditor had a different student growth figure he would have had a different appraisal figure," Landrum said. The student population is an indirect cause and effect relationship.

"The appraisal is based on the land value based on its potential," he said.

The potential is influenced by economic pressures stimulated by population, Landrum said.

CONNELL AND MERRY said they would have decreased the land value if it was not bought. They claim they have invested $2,640 an acre.

The state bought the land for $3,035 an acre.

A recreation area is planned on Lake Wauburg within the state-owned prairie area, according to Landrum. He said the money has been budgeted but he doesn’t know when construction will begin.
Book prices may rise if proposal is approved

Prices for some bookstore items will probably increase if a recent Board of Regents (BOR) proposal is approved, said Harold King, assistant bookstore manager. The proposal calls for general operating costs to be charged to most operating units at UF. The operating units are called "auxiliary" services.

The BOOKSTORE is considered an auxiliary service along with 22 others including Student Health Services and the J. Wayne Reitz Union.

Prof awarded cancer fellowship

Dr. Wayne E. Criss, UF assistant professor of obstetrics, gynecology and biochemistry was awarded an Eleanor Roosevelt International Cancer Fellowship to study hormone action in cancer tissues.

Criss will leave for Kobe, Japan in January 1976 to study with Dr. Yasutomia Nishizuka at the Kobe Medical School.

The award is given annually to 12 scientists throughout the world. Two Americans received the award this year.

Criss said he will return to UF in October 1976, when the research program ends. Currently Criss retains a five-year full salary Research Career Development Fellowship from the National Cancer Institute for his studies of energy metabolism in Neoplasia.

King said book prices would not be affected because those prices are set by the publisher and cannot be priced higher than the recommended retail price.

The regents have proposed that auxiliary units in each of the nine state universities turn over an operating cost based on 22.2 per cent of their total personnel salaries budget. The OPERATING costs are requested by the regents to help pay the central administrative costs for UF.

Since certain items in the architecture department of the bookstore are sold below the recommended retail price, King said there was a possibility that prices for those items might rise.

According to Richard Schiffer, UF business manager, the regents proposed 22.2 per cent operating cost reflects the cost of doing business and is not "unfounded."

HOWEVER, KING said he anticipates the operating cost to be turned over to the regents will be "somewhat lower" than the 22.2 per cent recommended by the regents.

The proposed costs already are stirring protest among UF Student Government officials.

Dan Lobbeck, SG secretary of consumer affairs, said he will be going with SG President Steve Merriday to Tallahassee today to urge the BOR finance committee to defeat the recommendation.

AT THE SAME time that this is being proposed, Lobbeck said he has been reviewing financial records of the bookstore.

"We are continuing to review ways of cutting bookstore expenses that might result in a cut in prices," he said.

Suggestions being discussed, according to Lobbeck, are cuts in personnel, night hours and a reduction in an "enormous" advertising budget.

Lobbeck said the bookstore spent $6,000 for advertising in the first six months of 1975.

A smile could mean thank you

He smiled.

It wasn't a "great feeling" smile that flashed across the face of Swimming Coach Bill Harlan, merely a content lifting of the lips. It surely would not have rippled the water in the ancient Florida pool.

SOME MIGHT have guessed that Harlan's smile could be attributed to a long- and agonizing season almost over. A season that saw most of the senior swimmers leave the team. A season that dipped below the 540 mark for the first time in recent memory.

A season of sorrow.

But Harlan's smile was not for the upcoming season, it was for the past; a season that dipped below the 540 mark for the first time in recent memory. And he had learned that a group of alumni swimmers had met with Athletic Director Ray Graves and others. The topic of discussion was a proposed multi-rating facility which would include an indoor pool for this year's team.

THE WHEELS had begun to turn and for a moment, a brief moment, Harlan was about to credit those seniors who left, those seniors who focused attention on our poor facilities by quitting, as the spark that was so badly needed.

Harlan quickly retreated and said what those seniors did was wrong.

NOW, THE GATOR tankmen will travel to Tennessee to compete in the Southeastern Conference Championships.

LOU BRANACCIO

OPINION

Those who remained on the team must be commended for finishing out a season that had all year long looked bleak.

And for those swimmers who quit because they felt it was better to wake up the Athletic department and its allocation of money — well Harlan smiled and a smile sometimes means thank you.

UF coach has ‘banged’ ou champs for years

By NICK PUGILIOSE
Alligator Sports Writer

It would probably be a safe bet to assume that most of the students at UF don’t know that we have a coach right on campus. A coach who has developed not one, but several Olympic competitors.

The man with the unrecorded record is Dr. John Bangs, who coaches shot put, discus, and hammer-throwers for the UF track and field team, and has for quite a few years.

However, Dr. Bangs’ experience with the field events goes back quite a ways with previous stopping points as a player and coach at Cornell University and as an official for the Philadelphia Classic before he wound up in Gator Country.

As a student at Cornell University he broke the South Atlantic discus record three times, and also was the A.A.U. shotput champion.

After receiving his Ph.D. in engineering, Bangs taught at Cornell, and soon became an assistant coach on the track team.

He COACHED at Cornell for 15 years, and during that period developed four Olympic contestants.

One of them, John Anderson, won a gold medal in the discus throw breaking the world’s record at that time with a throw of 167.7 feet.

After working in Philadelphia and officiating at the Penn relays, Dr. Bangs arrived in Florida.

He AND his wife had come to the "Sunshine State" for a vacation, but soon he was looking to settle down here so he started searching for a job.

"My wife liked the Tallahassee area, and I had a contact at UF so I got the position of professor of management in the business college here," explained Bangs.

Shortly afterwards, he was named assistant coach for the UF track and field team.

ONE OF the best athletes Bangs ever coached was John Morton, a two-time All-American for the Gators, who holds both the UF record (189'-9") and the Southeastern Conference (SEC) record (186'-7") in the discus throw.

The best discus thrower in UF history might still be in school, according to Bangs.

His name is Bill Kovach, and he won the SEC discus championship as a freshman last year.

So far, his best throw has been 174'-10", but Bangs thinks he’ll improve on that.

"I predict that this year he’ll break Morton’s record for the discus throw," he said confidently.

Over the years Bangs has seen a lot of changes in the track and field that he participated in at Cornell, and the brand that he now coaches.

For one thing, today’s athletes have weight training, which is most important.

"In the old days, we were not permitted to lift weights because they were afraid we’d get musclebound."

Of course, now that has proved to be an oldfashion, and weight training has led to a great improvement in the athletes," said Bangs.

Another change has been a general improvement in equipment, field surfaces, addition of starting blocks and timing devices over the years.

In my time, a 9.8 100 yard dash was considered out of this world, and this was run on a track of cinders and dirt.

"Today, the tracks are spiked with rubber to give more spring, and so you have Ivy Crockett’s 9.10 100 yd. dash," Bangs said referring to changes in field surfaces.

Bangs said that today’s athletes are pushing themselves harder.

"Take Bill Kovach. He’s one of the hardest competitors I’ve known. He won’t give up: that’s how he won the Penn relays by coming back when it looked like he was out of it."

Bangs noted as he pointed towards Kovach warming up out on the field.

"A long time ago, the famous writer, Grantland Rice, asked the question: What makes a champion?"

He CAME up with four qualifications. They were the right physical qualifications, tenacious training, rhythm and timing, and, most important, the will to win," Bangs noted.

"Sometimes a boy looks like a million bucks in practice, but he keeps on getting licked in actual competition. Well, he doesn’t have that will to win," explained Bangs.

"I’d say that today’s athletes are pushing themselves more," he summed up.

So, the next time that someone asks you if there are any developers of Olympic talent on the UF coaching staff, you just tell them to go out to the track and look up Dr. John Bangs.

He’ll be easy to find; just ask anyone out on the track field, and they’ll gladly point out "Doc."

GATOR COACH DR. JOHN BANGS

Does A.A.U. shotput champion

The next week or so will show what kind of team we have," said UF tennis Coach Bill Potter.

And he isn’t merely making racket, because the Gators will play four home matches in the next five days against two potentially troublesome opponents and one bonafide national power.

The FUN begins this afternoon at 2:30 when UF hosts Appalachian State University from Boone, N.C.

The Mountaineers will depend upon Keith Richardson and John Garrity, two players who advanced to the NCAA tournament last spring and picked up a couple of wins before being eliminated. However, beyond this, highly-ranked pair the Carolinians “don’t have the depth that we do,” Potter said.

Next on the list is Rollins College, in a Thursday afternoon match. “They have always been a small college for this position and Harlan was hopeful. The WHEELS had begun to turn and for a moment, a brief moment, Harlan was about to credit those seniors who left, those seniors who focused attention on our poor facilities by quitting, as the spark that was so badly needed.

The Hurricanes are powerful in the pool, they will have a good team with depth," Potter said.

Miami, last year’s third ranked team in the NCAA, visits Saturday afternoon. The Hurricanes are powerful in the pool, they will have a good team with depth," Potter said.

Miami, last year’s third ranked team in the NCAA, visits Saturday afternoon. The Hurricanes are powerful in the pool, they will have a good team with depth. Miami is always Gun on a roll when it comes to results in 75 singles matches.

In those singles matches, Juan Diaz of UF downed Rick Owens 6-2, 6-1, Dave Presly beat John Anderson 6-3, 6-1, and Chad Brown disposed of Bryan Dickey 6-2, 6-4. John Hurley battled Jim Wast 6-1, 6-0, Mike Borling took a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Steve Barry. Jim Oeschler blanked Valdosta State’s Dave Burgette 6-0, 6-0.

UF Coach Bill Potter rested several of his regulars in the doubles matches, but the results were much the same. The Gators’ Brown and Borling defeated Owens and Anderson 6-2, 6-4. In No. 2 doubles, Kunnen and Oeschler defeated Dickey and Wast 6-2, 6-2. For UF in No. 3 doubles, freshman Jody Staph and sophomore Cory Bradburn came in and completed the shutout, beating Campbell and Burgette 6-1, 6-1.
Keys disdains pro tennis tour
By NICK PUGLIESE
Alligator Sports Writer

It may come as a surprise to some followers of the UF women's tennis team, but Una Keys has no intention of turning professional after graduation this year.

In fact, the current number two seed on the team disdains the women's professional tour.

"I'M NOT interested in going into the women's pro tour. It's way too restricted. You have to give up everything," Miss Keys said.

It seems that she would rather compete in European tournaments as she did last summer on an amateur basis.

"It's a great way to see Europe, and meet different people while playing tennis," the senior history major said referring to the European tournaments.

Una ("It's a family name"), who was born and raised around the Boston, Mass. area, started playing tennis at the early age of ten with the prompting of her mother.

"My mother started playing tennis with me. Then, a pro came around, and I took lessons from him.

"He said I should compete in tournaments, and so, from the age of eleven on, I've been in tournaments starting at the local level, then the New England area, and soon the national level," the freckled brunette noted.

She didn't play much high school competition, and had to complete her own because "tennis is not that big of a sport where I come from, and not that many kids want to play on a team."

"In Florida, the high school teams are pretty big," she said in regard to the popularity of tennis down here.

But it was not the popularity of tennis that brought Una to UF.

"My mother grew up in this area, and a lot of relatives went here to UF. Actually, I wanted to go to Princeton, but I ended up at UF. I came in thinking I would transfer, and I ended up staying," she explained.

She has been a member of the gal's tennis team for the past four years.

IN HER first and second years, she was ranked No. 2 seed, then moved up to the No. 1 post last year, before dropping back to the second spot this year.

"I definitely think I'm playing better, but the people on the team are getting better. This is my last year, and so I want to give it all I can," Una explained.

"We've a much, much better team this year. Now, they can give scholarships for women's tennis so that they can recruit people," she noted regarding the team's chances this year.

THE GALS currently sport a 2-3 record, their most recent outing leaving them with third place in the Florida State Invitational tournament. The Lady Gators will play their first home match against Alma College Thursday at 11:30 a.m. on the varsity tennis courts.

Una noted that Margaret Court was her favorite tennis player because, "she's very composed on the court, and doesn't always blab like Billie Jean (King)."

She feels that while Ms. King has done much for women's tennis, she does carry her equality antics "to an extreme."

AS TO the small controvery over women's sports in the Alligator, Una feels that the gals got better coverage the last few years.

"We had much better coverage over the past three years. I'll agree that the majority of people are going to read about the men's sports, but I also think that people are interested in women's sports."

"It's absurd. We represent the school, and, at least, should be noticed for it," she commented.

Overall, Una feels that you should always keep the sport of tennis in perspective.

"I guess that's why I like Margaret Court. She's able to keep tennis in the proper perspective. After all, it is only a game."

In the Student Wives Badminton championship game held Monday night, Judi Hitebee and Peggy Tharp took first place. The second place team was Nancy Schoeder and Katie Wallace.

Finals for Men's Dormitory Tennis will be held today on Bowdard courts. Competing teams will be Graham area-Arkins; NE area-South 2; SE area-Jennings. Independent League Tennis Finals for men will be held this week between the Fur Ousts and Broughahla. Schedules may be picked up today for Independent League Bowling. Persons willing winter quarter events may pick up their plaques at the IM office. 229 Florida Gym.

FULL SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITY

Now, full scholarship assistance for your junior and senior years, plus chance to become a leader in the nuclear energy field.

Tuition, books and educational fees are all included in this new NROTC Nuclear Propulsion Candidate program. Along with $100 a month to help you with your living expenses. And on top of that you have an opportunity to build a rewarding career for yourself in the fast-growing nuclear energy field.

To qualify you must have completed one semester each of calculus and physics, or two semesters of calculus and have a B average or better.

Depending upon your performance you will be interviewed during your senior year for the Navy's Nuclear Officer Program and for training as a Navy Nuclear Officer.

If you can qualify for the demanding yet rewarding nuclear field you can anticipate five years of employment as a regular Navy officer.

For full details on this new NROTC Nuclear Propulsion Candidate program, phone or see your local Navy recruiter.
