ALLIGATORS LOSE SERIES TO AUBURN

Florida Took a Game from Quincy but Failed to Hold the Fast All-Stars, but Luck was with Other Side.

FEATU-RES OF THE TRIP.

One of the notable features of the recent trip of our ball club was the Shakespearian Pageant rendered on the spacious campus grounds of the Women's College by the students of that institution. This pageant em -braced several of the best known plays of Shakespeare and the rendition of the various parts was in a class that is seldom seen on the amateur stage. All of the acting was admirable, and the pre -sen -tation this scene was struck by the artistic accomplishment which was displayed.

The "sweetest" time of all, however, is reported to have been last Saturday at the Junior Prom to which all students were invited. The prom was held in the spacio us parlors of Bryan Hall but immediate -ly after only some introduc tion of all the guests the young people adjourned to the campus grounds of the Women's College by the students of that institution. This pageant em -braced several of the best known plays of Shakespeare and the rendition of the various parts was in a class that is seldom seen on the amateur stage. All of the acting was admirable, and the pre -sentation this scene was struck by the artistic accomplishment which was displayed.

In closing, the Doctor emphas ized the fact that we usually figure with the best in the world, and that would hold out to those of different race. He quoted that his opponent's arguments. Then Dr. James M. Farr opened the debate by stating that the parameter of education was the ability of other individuals to make decisions. "The very important function it plays in the development of the individualsexisthe fact that it plays an important role in shaping the individual's view of society."

The debate unfolded with each side presenting their arguments. The affirmative side argued that government ownership would be more just and equitable, providing for the common good. The negative side countered with the idea that private ownership is more efficient and responsive to consumer needs. The debate continued with each side reinforcing their initial arguments, while also attempting to weaken the other side's stance.

The debate concluded with Dr. James M. Farr summarizing the affirmative side's position. "In conclusion, I believe that government ownership is the best way to ensure the common good and promote social justice. Private ownership, on the other hand, can lead to excessive profits and neglect of the public interest."

Several points of interest noted:

- The debate was held in the Student Council Chambers.
- The affirmative side argued for government ownership to ensure the common good.
- The negative side countered with the efficiency and responsiveness of private ownership.
- Dr. James M. Farr concluded the debate by summarizing the affirmative side's position.
APPRECIATION

It now becomes our duty to express the appreciation and gratitude that the University owes to the student body of the Florida State College for Women for their loyal and unyielding support of our team on the athletic field, and for their courtesies shown towards all members of the institution.

The seeker after truth shown during every moment of our team's sojourn in Tallahassee. The array of our team, the singing and songs for the occasion and degree holding students from graduate students and whose participation in undergraduate debates and giving us an opportunity of public speaking and debating. Under the present rules this is legal, but it is not fair. It can never be fair. The university which is composed and always will be composed of strictly undergraduate students and to compete with a society that is composed of a large per cent of graduate students and who hold a higher per cent of this class of students will continue to grow larger and more famous each time. Under these circumstances there can be devised some equalizing handicap.

In our opinion the Inter-Society Committee should by all means take steps to remedy this condition before another year comes around. A rule prohibiting all degree holding students from participating in undergraduate debates should in all fairness be passed. We believe that such a rule will be wholly acceptable to all concerned and that it would in no way warp a hard- ship upon anyone. This condition would not be objectionable if it were the case in any but one of the five societies that compete for the loving cup. But the present condition of the competing societies always will be composed of none but undergraduate students and the debaters from the fifth will probably always be composed of degree holding members. The inconsistency of the reality of the condition is apparent.

There is another point here, however. It may be claimed by some that this would eliminate all of our best debaters from the opportunity of public debate. This, however, does not seem to us to be the case. When an institution can produce such debaters as represented the John Marshall Society Monday night there can no longer be any excuse for that institution not entering into contests with other schools. It will be remembered that the debate at the times has been challenged by the best debating schools of the South, and that she has far in many instances not even taken the trouble to reply. We have the debaters in school, and we have the opportunity of meeting other institutions, why then do we not make the most of our advantage in this debate?

For our part we say give us an equitable adjustment of the rules for our inter-society debate and give us an opportunity of testing our ability with those schools who have already won their reputations.

The experiment Station seems to be quite popular with Jersey cattle breeders. During the past four months three Jersey bulls have been donated to us. Miss M. O. Chace, Vardals, Fla., described her Eminent Eos, a young bull richly bred in Eminent of Washington and Golden Fern last blood. In a former issue mention was made of Magnolia's Noble Fugio, donated by P. K. Young, of Mississippi. The last donation was from Edwill Farm, Spring Hill, Tennessee. This variety is richly bred in Landseer's blood. It is hoped that the Station will soon be able to purchase a few Jersey heifers equal in breeding to those bulls.
