The cheerleaders, football team, and members of the Student Government will also perform.

Reitz says Frosh Should Seek Truth

By JAY MERKET

Assistant Features Editor

"Best truth, breaks your backbone--we have patience with you, but we won't be patient much more," President Reitz said yesterday.

This is the president of the University, he said, who has the responsibility for seeing that the greatest number of students complete the course of study.

He also said that the University must be careful not to become too closely associated with the outside world.

The president continued: "We are not going to make the University too much like the world and we are not going to let it become too much like the world.

The University must be a place where students can learn and where students can get an education, but it must not become too much like the world and it must not become too much like the world.

We are not going to make the University too much like the world and we are not going to let it become too much like the world.

The University must be a place where students can learn and where students can get an education, but it must not become too much like the world and it must not become too much like the world.

No Secret Meets Needed

Students returning to the University of Florida this fall will find a great deal of change among members of the Administration. Over the summer months, new deans and directors and a host of staff members have been added or replaced.

Some, like John S. Allie, former vice-president of the University, have gone on to more challenging and lucrative positions. Others, like University Vice-President for Academic Affairs Harley Chandler, have landed in resignations, and left their posts in the University system the very same day.

In looking over these additions and changes, it is evident that the physical growth of students and programs, as well as the growth of the University, is a great deal more than on the outside.

The number of students returning to the University for the Fall semester has increased tremendously from last year, and therefore an expansion of the student body is imminent. The Alligator, in preparation for this event, is devoting several pages to the freshman class this week.

Here is to those incoming freshmen who have just finished their first week at the University.

Philpott Due Here Nov. 15

Dr. Harry M. Philpott, new executive vice-president of the University of Florida, is to arrive by air to assume his duties as the University's executive vice-president at 4:30 p.m. on Friday, November 15.

Dr. Philpott has been selected by the Board of Regents to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. John M. Crary, who left in May to become director of orientation at Florida State University.

Dr. Philpott will assume his duties immediately upon his arrival. He will continue to teach classes, supervise administrative work, and direct research projects as he has done in the past.

He is a member of the University of Florida faculty and has been a member of the board of regents for many years.

Dr. Philpott is a native of Florida and is well acquainted with the University's needs and problems. He has been active in many university affairs and is well respected by all who know him.

The University community is looking forward to his arrival and is confident that he will bring to the University a wealth of knowledge and experience.

Philpott has already made two trips to the campus, to discuss administrative problems. He is expected to spend the remainder of the month in other parts of the state, where he will continue to meet with faculty members and students.

He was born in Florida and attended the University of Florida, where he received his degrees in education and business administration.

Dr. Philpott is married and has two children, who will accompany him to the University.

He is looking forward to the opportunity of working with the University community and is eager to get started on his duties as executive vice-president.

WHY ARE THEY BUYING?

1. Our customers have found our Sample House Prices to be lower, even though...

   a. Some of these customers have been in the habit of buying at wholesale through big city stores.

   b. Some have complained our prices to "Fire Sales," some to "Warehouse Sales," and still others to "Grant Sales," and they still find our EVERYDAY PRICES LOWER.

2. They have found our furniture provides the usual retail furniture store guarantee even though identical items sell for a lot less here.

3. They find a large selection of home brands of true savings . . . up to $40.00 on every $100.00 spent.

WHY ARE THEY TALKING?

1. Because we have the newest, most modern retail method for selling furniture . . . just as we have the grocery super store market was 20 years ago.

2. Because we are selling fine furniture for less than anyone believed possible . . . but we say "We Dare You to Compare" prices on identical brands, quality and items.

3. Because, our customers are saying it's impossible to sell quality furniture at a price that is as low as we sell it. Our prices have been justified by doing a large volume, a rapid turnover, low profit per item sale.

Woodruff, Gators Face Tough Slate Of Nine Opponents

By LEE HOWE, Alligator Sports Writer

George Robert Dietzel is becoming a great deal to the seven seasons at the University of Florida, as he must try to develop a team for what he hopes will be a better season in 1956.

The Alligator's sports editor has moved from the local to the national scene as he has taken a position at the University of Florida. Dietzel is well known for his work with the Alligator, where he has served as a sportswriter for five years.

Dietzel's departure has left a void in the Alligator's sports section, and the staff is now in the process of finding a replacement. The Alligator is a daily newspaper that covers the University of Florida and its various sports teams.

No Opponent Located for Tenth Game

University of Florida football di-

tor Bob Woodruff has not yet found suitable opposition for the upcoming season. He has been searching for weeks to find a suitable opponent for the Gators.

The role of finding an opponent for the Gators is one of the most important tasks for the football coach, as it helps to prepare the team for the upcoming season. Woodruff's search has been made more difficult due to the fact that many teams are already committed to their schedules.

Woodruff has been in constant contact with other coaches in search of an opponent for the Gators. He has looked at several games that the Gators could attend, but none of them have worked out.

Woodruff is hoping to find a suitable opponent for the Gators soon, as he needs to start planning the team's schedule for the upcoming season. The team's schedule will be announced in the near future.

New Leagues Formed, Greeks Spectulate; Tight Races Seen

By MEYR INNIS

By now everyone on campus has probably had a look at this year's Intramural schedule. Judging by the cover, which the top should have been copyrighted, one would think that the 1957 Intramural schedule was absolutely brand new. Some of us who have been around a while have the sneaking suspicion that this is just the same old Intramural schedule as we've had the last few years.

If the devotees of the cover had expected last year's Intramural schedule to be divided into North and South Halves, they would have been disappointed, for on the contrary, the Intramural offices were determined to keep the schedule as uniform as possible.

The Intramural offices, in their wisdom, determined to keep the Intramural schedule the same as last year's in order to avoid a possible revolt on the part of the students. The Intramural offices didn't want to have the students up in arms because of the new Intramural schedule.

Florida Intramural programs are divided into six major categories, and one of these categories is the Greek Intramural programs. These programs are run by the Florida Department of Intramurals and Recreation, and the department as such was established in the late 1930's.

The program is run throughout the state of Florida, and the Intramural offices are responsible for running the Intramural programs. They are also responsible for running the Greek Intramural programs. While other colleges and universities throughout the country have similar programs, the programs of the Florida Department of Intramurals and Recreation are unique in that the programs are run by the Greek Intramural offices.

Promotion and Support of School Named Role of Alumni Association

The Alumni Association is supporting the promotion of the Florida Alligator, the official student newspaper of the University of Florida. The association will be providing financial support to help fund the newspaper's operations.

In addition, the Alumni Association is sponsoring several events on campus, including a lecture series and a series of community service projects. These events aim to foster a sense of community and pride among current and former students of the University of Florida.

The Alumni Association has also partnered with several local businesses to provide discounts and promotions to members. These partnerships help to support the alumni association's goals of fostering a strong sense of community and engagement among alumni.

Overall, the Alumni Association is playing a critical role in promoting the University of Florida and supporting its students. The association's efforts are helping to create a strong and engaged alumni community that will benefit the University of Florida for years to come.

UFR Libraries Offer Much for UF Students

The all-conditioned University Library is a "must stop" for any student who is in a hurry to find books, for the vast collection contains an almost complete collection on all subjects.

The library is well staffed with the main library located on the ground floor, the Humanities and Social Science Library on the second floor, and the University School of Business Administration Library on the third floor. These libraries are central points for the students since they contain an extensive collection of books on all subjects, and students can refer to the reference section for any information they may require.

Students can also access the library's electronic resources, including databases and online journals, through the library's website. The library also offers various services, such as interlibrary loan, document delivery, and plagiarism detection software.

When students need help finding specific information, librarians are always available to assist them. The library's extensive collection and convenient services make it the ideal place for students to find the information they need.

The library's mission is to support the academic and research goals of the University of Florida by providing access to information, fostering critical thinking, and promoting lifelong learning.

The S9 million hospital is the second unit of the University of Florida Health Center, and the completion will add a third floor to the University's 14 libraries. Reading Room facilities offered at the university's 14 libraries, contain more than 650,000 volumes and twice current and print periodicals.

The General Library, with four reading rooms and seating space for 1,200, houses the largest portion of the University's holdings. The second floor is open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday.

In addition, the facilities of the library include a borrower's room for international readers, lending services, research assistance, and computerized card catalogues.

The university's continuing efforts to expand its library resources have resulted in a 23 percent increase in the number of volumes and a 20 percent increase in the number of periodicals.

The library's services are available to all members of the university community, including students, faculty, staff, and visitors.
