HUNTING SEASON OPENS.

Today the Sportsmen Are Glad, and Many Have Gone to the Woods.

Today is the beginning of the gun season, and many of the sportsmen who have been enjoying their hunting and fishing excursions for the past few days have had themselves in the woods, where they hope to make big game records. A dozen hunting parties are ready to take up the chase as soon as this morning, and The Sun may have some remarkable game and fish stories to tell about their success.

Secretaries are a great many sportsmen from the North who will make their holidays in the woods and will return to their busy offices by the time the season opens. As the hunting is very fine this year, it is expected that the sportsmen will have a grand time.

In Time of Peace.

In the calm of the morning, when the sun is shining on the ground, and the birds are singing their sweetest songs, the idea of war and the horrors of battle are not far from the minds of men. But when war comes, all the sweetest songs of birds are stilled, and the only sound that can be heard is the roar of cannon and the scream of bullets.

JUDGE CARTER TO Ocala.

Will Represent Defendants in Case of Going Business Without License.

Judge E. L. Carter left Wednesday for Ocala, where he was to appear in the case of the State v. A. Reynolds, agent for the Thayer Universal Bank of Ocala, and H. L. Wilson, who is now soliciting business for the bank in this city. The case is similar to that which transpired in this county with the same person, the bank being located in the same block. The fact that Manager Reynolds refused to pay a rightly assessed license fee, and Dr. Crouch, who is also a solicitor for the bank, is also in the case, and in each case the Banker of Ocala led the prosecution.

The case is important, as it is the first time that the business of soliciting business has been prosecuted in this county, and it is expected that the doctrine of the bank will be applied to all similar cases.

The case may be tried in the next few weeks, and the outcome is expected to be of great importance to the business men of the county.
