SANFORD — After taking less than a week to call 18 witnesses, George Zimmerman’s defense attorneys rested their case Wednesday in the neighborhood where 17-year-old Trayvon Martin was shot and killed.

Prosecutors called their first rebuttal witness immediately afterward — Adam Fullkirk, the gym owner who had trained Zimmerman. Following rebuttal witnesses, prosecutors and defense attorneys will then work out the jury instructions before presenting closing arguments. The judge then will read the case to the jury.

Adults in parts of Lake City are sick and tired of young people hanging out on the street after dark, playing loud music and impeding traffic.

Those concerns were expressed at the June Breakfast with the Chief event, but city officials have heard many complaints since then, and Sheriff Washington, Lake City Police Department community relations coordinator.

As a follow-up, a community discussion will be held about juvenile issues this afternoon. The discussion will be at city hall, 125 NW Main Blvd., at 3:30 p.m. and will be conducted by Police Chief Argatha Gilmore.

The goal of the discussion is to keep children off the streets at night. Washington said

“Washington said several civic organizations and faith-based groups, along with officials from the Columbia County School District, state attorneys offices and public defender’s office were invited.

“We want to develop a positive, working relationship with everybody at the table,” Washington said.

BEHIND THE POLICE STATION on Main Blvd., across the street from the Five Points Elementary School, is a space filled with boxes, boxes, and more boxes.

Boxes, shelves and lots of exposed electrical wiring are the signs of change as several county agencies move into new offices in the Dural Place Professional Office Suites building.

The Columbia County Safety and Code Enforcement, Tourist Development Department, Cooperative Extension Service and Veterans Service offices, along with the American Red Cross and Suwannee River Economic Council, have moved from various locations around the county to the building at 971 W. Duval St.

Lori Regan, an administrative assistant with the Columbia County Tourist Development Council, moves boxes around while getting settled in new offices at Dural Place Professional Office Suites on West Duval Street (U.S. 90) on Wednesday.

Chantal fizzes; county officials relieved

Potential hurricane loses steam, easing concerns for state.

By TONY BRITT

Local officials breathed a collective sign of relief Wednesday after hearing that Tropical Storm Chantal lost its teeth and was demoted to a tropical wave, although weather reports indicate Columbia County may get some rain from the system.

Shayne Morgan, Columbia County emergency management director, said Chantal is now remnants of a tropical storm and the National Weather Service didn’t even update the projected path for the former storm Wednesday afternoon.

“The National Weather Service says Columbia County may still see some rain, but it won’t be too to the extent when Chantal was a tropical storm,” he said. “The best guess from the National Weather Service is if we see rain it would be in the 2- to 4-inch range.”

Chantal lost steam Wednesday afternoon as it skirted the southern coasts of the Dominican Republic and Haiti. The last report from the National Hurricane Center in Miami indicated the weather system could still produce heavy rains and gusty winds.

The storm’s remnants were about 280 miles south of the eastern tip of Florida.

Marin yellng for help. Convining the jury of who was screaming for help on the tape has been the primary goal of prosecutors and defense attorneys because it would help jurors evaluate Zimmerman's self-defense claim. Zimmerman's father, Robert Zimmerman Jr., was the last witness called by the defense on Wednesday, and he said it's his son yelling for help on the call.

Defense attorneys also called a former forensics pathologist who testified that the tennis shoe evidence supports Zimmerman's account of what happened. Zimmerman has pleaded not guilty to second-degree murder and says he shot the unarmed Martin in self-defense during a scuffle in the townhouse complex where he lived in February 2012. Martin was there visiting his father and his father's fiancée.

Council director, said people in the various departments knew about the move for a while, but they were uncertain when it would begin. He said about two weeks ago, the departments that were scheduled to relocate were given a tentative moving date. The moves began Friday and are expected to be completed by the end of this week.

"We won't have and color-coded rooms so you would know where staff goes and then with public works department and inmates in a room, they just have a terrific job of moving all the stuff we've got in about six hours," Campbell said. "This is the most amazing, um, what's that word, such task that I've ever heard of.

"With the conference room, we'll be set up where we could do tele-conferences and have TMC meetings here," Campbell said.

"What's the benefit? It's less cost for some of our facilities, such as the extension office and more space provided at less cost," she said. Some of the space vacated by the agencies will be used by other county departments for other purposes, she said.

"We're taking an active role," Washington said. "It's part of our philosophy on community oriented policing and community policing.

Washington said one parent has proposed forming a community group composed of city residents and members of the justice system to tackle the issue before it becomes a problem.

"We want to continue to make our community a safe place to live, work and play," she said. Washington said the department is seeking input from all city residents.

Motorcycle ride to support veterans

By AMANDA WILLIAMSON

Area residents can enjoy a country ride through Columbia County with a group of motorcyclists and support the American Legion Post 57’s Veterans Service Officers Fund with the All Gave Some, Some Gave All benefit ride Saturday at 11 a.m.

"Our veterans, when they raise their hands to take their oath, essentially write a blank check," said Bill Huggins of Riders with Caring Hearts, the ride's sponsor. "The ride is their way to live their lives in service.

Registration for the All Gave Some, Some Gave All benefit ride will be from 9 to 11 a.m. at Rountree Moore Toyota, 1232 W. U.S. Highway 90. Starting at 11 a.m., participants will make the 5-mile ride from the Florida Highway Patrol and Columbia County Sheriff's Office.

To participate, the cost is $100 per rider and $5 per passenger, plus a nonperishable food item.

A United States Senate that routinely blocks votes on legitimate presidential appointments is not a healthy sign of senatorial leadership. Women now make up at least a majority of the Senate chamber, the move is a surrender to Washington's hopeless gridlock.

Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., the Senate majority leader, has proposed changing the Senate rules for overriding a filibuster through a majority party controls decisions. Democrats may force McConnell’s hand by bringing some nominees before an up-or-down vote on nominees. Instead, Democrats may maneuver to try to fix things....

Sen. Reid, majority leader of the Senate, says they won’t confirm any nominee as Attorney General Eric Holder’s pick for Andrew Cuomo as director of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, even if his Senate committee hearing was well attended and his testimony well received. But that should be a debate over senators, not the president’s, prerogatives. But that should be a debate over senators, not the president’s, prerogatives.

The specter looms this week thatfed-aware Senate Democrats may use an ill-advised procedural maneuver to try to fix things — If Senate Democrats reject the president’s nomination and then block any replacement nominees to the position of Attorney General of the United States, the president’s ability to fill a vacant position in the executive branch will be threatened. No hype, just work

If either Columbia High head coach Brian Allen or Fort White High head coach Demetric Jackson were planning on letting their teams ease into the season, they aren’t giving any hints.

After returning to summer conditioning on Monday, both coaches said it’s business as usual, although each coach admitted the first day was a little rough for some players.

“It’s going well, but the first day wasn’t easy after a week off,” Allen said. “We’re doing our own stuff this week, business as usual. The majority of the kids are in their third year with me and we’re pushing them to the limit every day. We don’t have to pick up the intensity.”

Despite having the week off, Jackson said there was an extra push from the last week of practice prior to the break. “Some guys, you could tell were a little rusty from the break, but we took right back into it and it’s going pretty good,” Jackson said. “You could tell some guys didn’t do anything, but it. But the attitude was pretty good overall. Guys come back in and we’re building up as we go each week. This week was week four and we kind of built from week three even though we had the week off.”

Jackson said this year has been extra taxing after he admittedly took it easier on the Indians the past two years. “Our philosophy has been to turn up the heat. It’s worked in our favor. We’re in a lot better shape than we are in the last couple of summers.”

The conditioning has made a difference for the Indians, especially for the offensive linemen according to Jackson. “Our linemen have shown some improvement in their footwork,” Jackson said. “On Monday, we do an Indian Mile. We’re making the stadium and jogging the curve. Most of our SUMMER continued on 6B

DEAR ABBY

Woman says pot use is clouding friend’s mind

Hi Abby,

I am a 22-year-old woman, and I have a friend named Susan who is starting to make me sad. She used to be my best chum, and we have been best friends off and on since childhood. In fact, we are in our 50s and 60s, and I am the oldest one. We have been best friends for as long as I can remember. But now, she seems to be on the outs with my parents and others to me. She is starting to make me sad. I called the other woman, and after she regaled her comp. sure and heard she is a mistress, she told me everything. She gave me the answers I desperately needed, and I am thankful for her honesty and - surprisingly - compassion.

Now I need to move forward. I am crushed, and even though he can’t explain why he cheated, I still want to know why she says he’s going to counsel, which is something I have been begging him to do since I had a miscarriage last summer. Will he change? Or should I continue to pack the house and move on?

Sincerely,
[Signature]

P.S. Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

fort white high

Fort White High (left) and Columbia High’s football teams prepare to enter the field during the spring game in May. Both teams returned to the field this week after a week off of practice.

SUMMER:
Teams enter second half of workouts for upcoming season

Both teams are preparing for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes football camp in Deland, which begins on July 21. Although Columbia and Fort White won’t be competing against the same teams or on the same dates, both teams feel that the FCA camp is a useful tool for preparing their teams for the upcoming season.

“It gets us well prepared for the upcoming season,” Allen said. “The camp is a great opportunity for us all.”

Jackson said one of the important things the Indians can do is show up for the FCA camp in shape and ready to go. “One of the things we try to do is as much conditioning as we can, because we don’t want to get down there and have guys going to see the trainer since they aren’t in shape,” Jackson said. “We try to prepare them for three days of hitting.”

But it’s not all just conditioning for the Indians.

“There’s also a lot to be learned from the camp. “We look at what teams are running,” Jackson said. “We know our style of defense and work on what kind of offenses give us a hard time. We focus on those things and try to build against it. We know our type of opponents.”

Madison, for instance, will run a Wing-T and spread. Everyone’s running a different offense. There isn’t a whole lot of time to scheme and prepare for it. You just go.”
