State earmarks $9.2 million for KMS construction

The Kate Smith Elementary School construction project received a funding boost Wednesday with the announcement that the school district will receive $6.2 million from the state for construction.

“We are excited about this news, and are especially appreciative of Representative Marti Coley and Representative Don Gaetz for their efforts to help make it happen,” said Washington County School Superintendent Joseph Taylor.

Bids are expected to go out within a few weeks for a construction manager to get the project off the ground after about two years of planning.

The construction project is expected to cost $33 million and will be funded over a three-year period with the state to help make it happen,” said Taylor.

The new school site will be located on a 22-acre tract between Brickyard Road and South Boulevard.

Having construction at the new site will mean no disruption of classes at the elementary school,” said Taylor.

“We are definitely looking forward to getting started.”

Courthouse project to receive $9.2 million

CHIPLEY - The Washington County Courthouse was one of three small county courthouses to receive funding from the Florida Legislature this week. General Appropriations Act House Bill 5001 passed Wednesday and was adopted Friday to provide for the restoration or replacement of courthouses in Washington, Jefferson and Calhoun counties.

Jefferson and Calhoun counties will receive $260,000 each, while Washington County was allocated $152,877.

The county is also expected to seek $103,000 from the Chipley Redevelopment Agency for the purpose of tearing down the old jail at the courthouse’s existing location, a measure commissioners plan on taking whether or not the new courthouse is built on site as currently proposed or relocated.

Bids are expected to be taken soon for architects and other services to begin preliminary planning.

EBRO — The small retention pond down the potted street didn’t stop waters from creeping to Jackie Casey’s door step. “It’s under there,” she said tapping the raised planted peppers with her foot, pointing to flood waters beneath it.

In 46 years at the property it hadn’t received so much rain in that short of period, Casey said. Ebro rain totals were on the cusp of 10 inches. “Now she’s down to the waters is almost unthinkable, said Casey.

Students unite to support classmate with rare disorder

By CAROL KENT

Ckent@chipleypaper.com

CHIPLEY — Karen Hudspeth, of Chipley, isn’t an easy person to explain. Unfortunately, neither is the rare disorder she was diagnosed with in 2002 at just three months old. Kimberly, a 7th grade Middle School student, is one of only 20 children living in the United States known to have “Ring14 syndrome”, a genetic chromosome disorder caused by a mutation in the 14th chromosomes.

“We have to work very hard with insurance companies, school districts, therapists, doctors, home nursing and other local agencies just to provide her with the things she needs to have to live a productive life,” said Karen. “There are many elements of her life that have to be considered at any given time, and even a simple trip to buy groceries can become a massive ordeal. Have you tried to push a wheelchair and a grocery cart at the same time while trying to keep your child from grabbing strangers who are walking by? Trust me, I have, and it’s not easy.”

Because of its rarity there’s not a vast market for medications to treat the disorder. Minimal economic reasoning means researchers are reluctant to conduct studies into treatments not likely to turn a profit.

“That’s where Kimberly’s EMS classmates come in,” said Hudspeth’s daughter, Karen. “The parents of the 21 children in the U.S. who have been diagnosed know Ring14 syndrome.
