Kenney sees ‘hanky pony’

District 2 incumbent thinks something is up with no party affiliation of commission candidate

County government is delaying selling the county detention facility while watching the same transaction in a neighboring county.

When asked Wednesday by the Chronicle’s editorial board about the progress of the proposed sale of the detention facility initiated in December through a discussion at a Citrus County Board of County Commissioners (BCC) meeting, Assistant County Administrator Calle Pearson responded: “That’s still up in the air.”

The sale has been considered because the County Commission has a use agreement with the Corrections Department of America (CCA), which currently leases the jail to the county in December about how it could make an offer to buy it. Commissioners inquired about the advantages and disadvantages of selling the county jail.

Commissioner Chairman John “JJ” Kenney revealed CCA’s current rent activity: “They are busy buying Marion County’s jail,” he said Wednesday when asked about White’s candidacy during his monthly appearance on the Chronicle’s editorial board.

“I can assure you there’s none of that whatsoever,” he said. “This was totally my idea. None of that, none of that.”

White said that’s not the case. He added: “It’s just conjecture on my part.”

“I can assure you there’s none of that whatsoever,” he said. “This was totally my idea. It’s more of a strategy thing on my part than anything else.”

Commissioners are open to all voters regardless of political affiliation when all the candidates for a particular seat are of the same party. Otherwise, they are closed.

Kenney, a retired Marine and former veterans service officer, said Wednesday that he would have a conflict despite living in Oak Village because his potential financial gain or loss from the stub-out vote is the same as any of his 1,450 neighbors.

The emergence of a no-party candidate is the Citrus County Commission District 2 race that Kenney, a 68-year-old former veteran service officer, is running.

Commissioner Joe Meek should abstain from voting on issues related to the Oak Village Boulevard stub-out because of his father’s business connections with a Sugarmill Woods developer, according to the Florida Commission on Ethics.

Meek’s conflict is through his father Joe Meek sr., a partner with developer Nelson Kalka on various projects. Meek Jr. could benefit if the and Kalka build homes together on a proposed development that could connect to the stub-out, said Christ- pher Anderson III, general counsel with the Commission on Ethics.

If the second time in recent days that Anderson has answered a conflict of interest question from a Citrus County commissioner over the controversial stub-out or district.

On Monday, commission Chairman John “JJ” Kenney learned he did not have a conflict despite living in Oak Village because his potential financial gain or loss from the stub-out vote is the same as any of his 1,450 neighbors.

Kalka, who lives in Sugarmill Woods, is asking for a right-of-way permit to pave the 213-foot stub-out at the end of Oak Village Boulevard. Kalka said he wants to connect the old Colors Run line, which is closed.
As a planned 40-acre development nearby.
Residents are happy opposed, saying traffic from the 40-acre parcel and a 1,000-acre platted Kalka subdivision in northern Hernando County would run their quiet neighborhood. The Oak Village Association has applied to vacate public ownership of the stub-out, which would block Kalka’s access to the roadway.

The county commission, doesn’t vote on Kalka’s permit, but it does vote on the street vacation. The Planning and Development Commission, which heard the application first, has a May 15 public hearing that it wants to postpone because the City of Brooksville has a May 14 public hearing on the street vacation application, “he said. That was December 2012. The Disney marathon was only a few weeks later and Nicholas did not enjoy it as much as she had hoped.

But still, she was hooked. So when she has run 21 marathons in 14 states, in places like San Francisco, Big Sur, New York City and London.

“Sometimes when I run, I feel like I’m flying or gliding, and other times it’s terrible. I thought to myself, ‘This is so much fun, I don’t want to do it again.’ That’s how I want Boston to be. I don’t want to be looking at my watch. I want to soak up everything.”

Two days before the 26.2 mile run, Nicholas was running a 5K with her daughters, Allison, 23, and Ashley, 20. “I want them to experience running in Boston,” she said. “I’m looking for something that race almost as much as the marathon.”

Nicholas, before she started running, she came down with a strange case of arthritis that defied treatment. She had started using a cane for walking and had anticipated a future in a wheelchair. Then, as quickly as it came, the arthritis went away.

“When I was in so much pain, I kept thinking, ‘Why didn’t I run when I had the chance?’ I had a friend from high school who ran, and she always looked so healthy, but I kept putting it off,” she said.

Now that she runs, every time Nicholas crosses a finish line, she holds up two fingers. “People think I’m flash,” she said. “But that’s not what I’m saying. I did it because I was in so much pain and now I’m not, it’s my way of saying to God, ‘Thank you, it’s love — love that you let me run.’”

Daniel Nicholas has run marathons since 1999. She has completed 26.2-mile endurance races in 15 separate states and Paris, France. Runners receive medals for their finish and Nicholas displays hers in her home gym.

Mary Lynn Anderson agreed. “The appearance would be that I influenced or voted on an application so my father would financially benefit,” she wrote. Anderson, a former county commissioner, wrote to the ethics commission. She said her father and Kalka have no plans to build together on the 40-acre parcel, but he couldn’t rule out that it might happen.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) — work quietly and well. Right now, just stick to doing your own thing. Avoid making any requests of your superiors. You can't provide a solution.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — your need to be right will make an impression on your public. Enlist friends to help with choice of words. You can't persuade anyone when you are speaking with envy.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) — you are going to feel uncomfortable with the level of change you are looking for. Be patient and take the advice of others. If you continue to try to force change, you will be pleased with the results. Renovations will turn out to be more expensive than perfect. Take care when traveling.

Aries (March 21-April 19) — you will be pleased with the results. A project that you are working on now is going to bring prosperity. Your creative outlet will do you good.

ENTERTAINMENT

Miley Cyrus is canceling her Wednesday night performance at the Scottrade Center in St. Louis. The 88-year-old Rock and Roll Hall of Famer missed his daily dosage of diabetes medicine, and early departures. Fans to give him another chance. The Kickstarter campaign was launched last month.

Neil Young raises $6M in Kickstarter campaign for Pono

NEW YORK — Neil Young has launched a Kickstarter campaign to raise $9 million through a digital music project PonoMusic. The project promises high quality audio compared with other digital tracks that feature compressed audio.

PonoMusic will also launch an online music store. The project promises high quality audio.

Jenny McCarthy announces engagement

NEW YORK — Jenny McCarthy had big news to share Wednesday on "The View." She’s engaged to Donnie Wahlberg.

McCarthy raised her hidden left hand during the segment, revealing an engagement ring. "And I’m so happy to announce," she said. "The View" co-host told host Whoopi Goldberg that CBS, "Blues Brothers" and a member of New Kids on the Block, proposed to her last weekend. She said yes, helped with the proposal.

Stocks post third day of solid gains

Investors drove stock prices to a higher level in the third straight day of gains on a stock market rally Thursday which was supported by corporate earnings reports, and rising U.S. economic indicators.

Major U.S. stock indexes notched their third day of gains in a row in early trading Thursday. Air lines were among the leaders as many of them reported better-than-expected earnings.

ConocoPhillips, which had been considered one of the best cases for high-frequency trading, said in a late Wednesday that the subpoenas went last week. "That move was not the first or the last, but it solidified the need for a quarter of a billion dollars," said Tom Halon, the company's executive vice president.

Clean, free, abundant energy

It pains me when I take my boat out into the Gulf, that we don’t take advantage of wind technology that exists today. Clean, free and abundant.

The same holds true for solar energy. Florida probably has more sun and wind than any other state, and we’re still burning coal.

It’s a crime, and we pay our taxes as well for this, our children, and the weather and global changes continuing to get worse.

James Burns

Reducing income inequality

The provider speaks about it often but avoids mentioning how the federal government already redistributes or how much more he needs to close the income gap. A prevailing belief is the CBO using precession data from eight years ago gave us some needed information. We now know the amount given to households in income quintiles and the taxes paid.

As expected, federal taxing and spending is extremely progressive. Households in the lowest quintile (20 percent) received almost 53% of federal spending for every $1 in taxes they paid. This income transfer was possible because the top 40 percent of households paid $2 trillion less taxes than they received.

A similar study used post-census data for 12 million U.S. families. The top 40 percent families paid $2 trillion less in federal and state/half a trillion in state and local taxes. The study didn’t even count the non-poor’s increase in marginal rates from 20 percent to 40 percent and the subsidies paid out under Obamacare. A large majority of Americans receive more than they pay in taxes but have their income tax deduced.

The gap between wealthy and poor, we need $4 trillion and the ongoing debate is how much to take extra $2 trillion.

Experience shows that a growing economy with less unemployment and consistent job creation in the surrounding middle greater revenue in taxes. The top 4 percent in Citrus County, Coddling and Kennedy set the stage. The county really lost eponymous and capital growth when the economy suffered. Americans of prosperous periods of peace, Obama has increased the taxes on the middle class, created a chaotic and disarrayed political climate that declared war on the energy industry and stalled clean-energy investments.

Citrus County is the forest in 20 years, part job 20 percent are mushrooming and has income has fallen by $500. Is it possible to get that elusive $2 trillion by “making the rich pay their fair share”? The top 20 percent of families have an average market income of $170,000 and pay $600,000 in taxes. If we take an additional $584,000 from them and do about the same thing to the second 20 percent that would do it. Would the country survive?

Would those targeted to move by themselves and their money to more hospitable locations? Where does this end?

A direct tax on income was prohibited by the Constitution because the founders, in their wisdom, foresaw what could happen if such a transfer was possible.

Letter to Bishop Lynch

Dear Bishop Lynch,

I have been a discarnate Roman Catholic for all of the 50-odd years of my life. I went through eight years of Catholic school and I know a lot about things. I have no idea if you can handle the responsibility of a church that serves six parishes, then you can’t leave it alone.

When faithful support does the diocese get from the other 20 percent to keep starting new projects. What about keeping what the late Rev. James Hoge started? This is a slap in his face, too. And if you’re serious about your Forward in Faith project, doesn’t saving the only parish school in Citrus County count toward your new program that you would save a lot of money for?

I also know in business sense that parishioners volunteer time, labor and supplies to help the church and school with upkeep. It’s a write-off for businesses and it keeps fellow parishioners loyal to their business.

The new pope leads by example. Take a page from his book. A parish in a community and a strong family that sticks together does everything in their power to help improve enrollment in Citrus County is the archdiocese being wise and spending around for prices, or in jumping at the first offer? One won’t do anything that would do it. Would the country survive?

Would those targeted to move by themselves and their money to more hospitable locations? Where does this end?

He paid taxes and kept a driver’s license showing his true identity or whereabouts. Anderson’s attorney, Patrick Megaro said. In that case, the court could be viewed as an escape.”

M/S South Korea — Fears rose Thursday for the fate of 269 passengers still missing more than 24 hours after their ferry flipped onto its side and tilted with water off the southern coast of South Korea.

A coast guard official cited the death toll Thursday, but that is exac- tly what they thought yesterday, officials said. ‘‘A man was thrown from the ferry, and we can’t find him anymore,’’ Megaro said. In that case, the court could be viewed as an escape.”

DAVID PFEIFFER

INVERNESS — The No. 2-seeded Dunnellon softball club did a lot of things right in Wednesday’s District 5A-6 semifinal matchup against hard-earned Crystal River that Pirates senior Mariana Poul made the Jays pay for a few miscues when, down 5-2 in the fifth inning, she launched a two-out, two-run double against the right-center field fence, helping power CRHS to a 12-6 victory over the Jays at Citrus High School.

The Pirates (13-2 overall), who split with DHS (1-1) in the regular season, earned their first state playoff berth in at least three years, and return to CESB tonight for a district championship meeting against third-seeded Lecanto.

“It was our secondicontinuous victory of the year versus the Jays,” said Poul, “especially after their half of Game 1. We really wanted to come out strong. We had some miscues when, down 3-2 in the fifth innnings, when, with nobody out, senior Ben Wynne got on and junior Kelly Howard with a line drive double down the third-base line. Both baserunners came home unassisted on the drive hit by Howard, who had an Hill single in the first, which was called out moments later for an infield fly. Unfortunately, I had to take a quick lead off the mound with just a 2-3 advantage after the innning.

The Hurricanes (13-10) play their final home game Wednesday at Sanlando Park in Altamonte Springs.
Celebrate spring with a Nature Coast paddling trip

Y ou know, it's pretty hard to beat a springtime paddling trip through Florida’s Nature Coast. You’ll often be talking to kayakers about launching areas, and if you’re lucky, you’ll hear about some great spots to see some beautiful things.

Think about it. Paddling in the morning when you’re paddling, you can reward all those early-morning exercise by enjoying a crystal-clear freshwater spring. You can have your breakfast, then head out to the launch just behind Riversport Adventure in Citrus County or Panama City and head back towards Homosassa River Monetary Bank State. Cause you can see very few boats which have perfect for spring. Oh, while you’re there, do not forget to take a photo with your phone and upload it to the rest of the planet on how beautiful things are. Add another line of your Facebook or Instagram and post a photo of photos that shows what Florida and specifically the Nature Coast has to offer in the way of sunrise adventure.

Ozello

As I travel around the state, I’m hearing more and more visitors talking about Ozello. I love it when people discover cool new places, and Ozello is one of those spots that seems to be a new favorite destination for kayakers. That area comes as no surprise for local resident and area paddlers. Launch at the boat ramp at the end of Ozello Trail and spend the day paddling around dolphins, manatees and all manner of wading birds, after which you check out Peck’s Old Port. Cause it’s a nice thing to do on the day trip.

Northeastern River

There are probably 10 people who haven’t paddled the Homosassa River, so if you are one of them, get there some time. Launch just behind Riverside Kayaks in Old Homosassa, spend some time checking out Monkey Island and head back towards Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park. Cause you can see a little bit less than what you are searching for, Mason Creek is within paddling distance of the launch area.

Of course, these are too that are considered must-do paddling trips. After that, you’ll most likely be looking for more places to play and you probably won’t run out of time rather than kayaking spots on the Nature Coast. Have fun, and enjoy the weather.

Fishing, weather heating up

I f early rain shouldn’t be the reason that you can’t get outdoors, and the Sunshine State for the outdoorsman is open for business.

You can forget about having to pack an umbrella. It’s going to be just fine this week. That’s all thanks to the fact of the temperatures.

The warmer weather is making our couples who are continuous to deepen the sunbath in the loves of the weather, the waters, the hot and blooded. I’m not sure which.

The two of us work together on Saturday each and every morning, a tour of the lake. The weather channel held our attention as we forced ourselves to wake up. As we forced ourselves to wake up. As we forced ourselves to wake up.

When one particular weather map flashed on the screen I laughed out loud. That’s because the map indicated heavy snow for the region, this poor folk has endured a brutal winter.

The region is already seeing some snow, and if you’re going to be sitting in my living room, wearing a blanket and a teddy bear, you probably won’t see a forecast like this on the weather channel for the next two days. So let’s be ready to have a heavy coat, boots and gloves.

The bass, believe, are happy with the warmer weather, too. Water temperature nears 50 degrees, only to increase to the mid-50s, only to increase to the mid-60s for the summer. Good news for winter anglers, too.

We have some fish in our area that are essentially turned on. We’ve got some fish in our area that are essentially turned on.

April no letdown

I t’s the fourth week in April, and there is no letdown. The bass are still cooperative on some weeks and in some weeks, and the fish are caught by some of the best anglers in the state.

First, the bass is a fish of the spring. The bass has a natural spawn week, as the Trail’s Apex Bamboo in Citrus County and Lake Panasoffkee in Sumter County. Lakes in Citrus and Sumter Counties.

David Cutler continues his own unique style of bass fishing in Apopka Chain, reports are good. If you haven’t gone yet, do not let the week end up without fishing.

Levinia Eicher

The AMISH COOK

When the Amish are asked about their relationship to their Amish community and their faith, a topic that is consistently brought up is the use of grills. They still keep in contact with their neighbors and family, but they do not use grills, as it goes against their religious beliefs.

Levinia Eicher is a follower of the Amish faith and a member of the community. She is known for her cooking and her involvement in the Amish community. She is passionate about cooking and loves to share her recipes with others. She has a blog where she shares her cooking tips and recipes. She is also a speaker and has given talks about cooking and the Amish culture. She is a member of the Amish Women’s Association and is active in their community. She is married to a Amish man and they have four children.
Chardonnay is the only grape by law as in, surprise Bordeaux just about everywhere in the world. Chardonnay grows with the whites, and things about some of the best-100 percent Merlot or Zinfandel mixed with one or more other grapes. In some cases, 75 percent of that particular sticker to bear the name of a grape variety that may recall biology buzz which he or she wanted somehow discovered a naturally occurring genetic mutation that he or she could use to produce a different wine and it was a genotype, not a variety. For those gentle readers who don’t get the joke, let’s briefly review the most popular white wines:

Riesling
- Most popular white wine import in the United States for reasons of price, value, less than $15. Riesling is the world’s sweetest white wine, and because of this, it is not taste anything like their California Chardonnays will have to do the job. One of the best Riesling is from the “Joey” (sausage, mozzarella, provolone and chili flakes). Za’atar the “Stache” (whole-wheat crust, pistachio pesto, mozzarella, and goat cheese).

Sauvignon Blanc
- A little review of the most influential species called “Vitus” of the world’s fine wines. Thousands of years ago, a small group of people, perhaps for spiritual or medicinal reasons, discovered a natural mutation that resulted in a different taste and flavor.

Vernatsch
- The hard-to-find Kveve, a Georgian grape that has become the single-most popular white wine import in the United States for reasons unknown.

Viognier
- Viognier (vee-o-neer) is an ancient varietal with origins in the Rhone Valley, but it is now grown in many parts of the world. Viognier is known for its full body, rich fruit flavors, and floral aromas. It pairs well with a variety of dishes, including grilled chicken, pork, and seafood. In the United States, Viognier is often blended with other varietals to balance its rich flavor and increase its acidity.

Gewürztraminer
- Gewürztraminer translates to “spicy character” in German, and it lives up to its name. This varietal produces wines that are spicy, fragrant, and full of tropical fruit flavors. Gewürztraminer is a popular choice for pairing with spicy dishes and is often enjoyed as a sipping wine.

Moscato
- Moscato is a sweet and fruity wine that is known for its light and refreshing taste. It is often enjoyed as a dessert wine and is perfect for pairing with sweet dishes or fruits.

Chardonnay
- Chardonnay is a versatile white wine that can be used in a variety of dishes. It is often enjoyed as a sipping wine and is a great choice for pairing with a variety of foods, including seafood, poultry, and rich dishes.

Pinot Grigio
- Pinot Grigio is a light and crisp white wine that is known for its refreshing taste. It is often enjoyed as a sipping wine and is a great choice for pairing with a variety of foods, including seafood, poultry, and light dishes.

Sauvignon Blanc
- Sauvignon Blanc is a light and crisp white wine that is known for its refreshing taste. It is often enjoyed as a sipping wine and is a great choice for pairing with a variety of foods, including seafood, poultry, and light dishes.

Malvasia
- Malvasia is a wine that is known for its light and crisp taste. It is often enjoyed as a sipping wine and is a great choice for pairing with a variety of foods, including seafood, poultry, and light dishes.

Dry Riesling
- Dry Riesling is a wine that is known for its light and crisp taste. It is often enjoyed as a sipping wine and is a great choice for pairing with a variety of foods, including seafood, poultry, and light dishes.

Portuguese Moscato
- Portuguese Moscato is a wine that is known for its light and crisp taste. It is often enjoyed as a sipping wine and is a great choice for pairing with a variety of foods, including seafood, poultry, and light dishes.

Sauvignon Blanc
- Sauvignon Blanc is a wine that is known for its light and crisp taste. It is often enjoyed as a sipping wine and is a great choice for pairing with a variety of foods, including seafood, poultry, and light dishes.

Jensen

Special to the Chronicle

Jensen is a very sad pup. He wandered away from his home and couldn’t find his way back. He is sweet and kind as can be; very calm and gentle. Jensen walks nicely on a leash and more than happy to be close to you. Come by and meet him. As he knows, he is very smart and is sure not to disappoint. Jensen is approximately 2 to 3 years old. Meet Jensen at Citrus County Animal Services, 4000 E. Airport Road, Inverness, behind the hangar. View more adoptables at www.citruscountfors.com. Call Citrus at 352-464-3098 for more information.

Key plans gift annuities workshop

Learn about charitable gift annuities — how they can save future income, replace lost income — at a free workshop on Thursday, May 1.

Topics covered at the workshop will include:
■ What is a gift annuity?
■ What are the tax advantages of a gift annuity?
■ How does a lifetime gift annuity work?
■ What other tax-free investments make sense?
■ When people realize that their own financial security can actually be a gift, it’s like a financial light bulb comes on,” said Tom Slick, who will lead the seminar. Slick is a financial adviser with over 25 years of experience helping retirees find the best way to use retirement money. He currently heads up the Planning Group Team at the Key Training Center Foundation, joins experts to es- tablish and plan financial management and legal counseling.

“With a charitable gift annuity, you can transfer cash or in- vestments and receive pay- ments for life,” Slick said. “It’s making a guaranteed source of income for the future. It’s a tax-deferred asset with a high rate of return that goes higher with age, income tax savings, capital gain tax avoidance and possible free income payment. Contributions are requested and may be made by calling 352-765-0441, ext. 311, or visit on Facebook.

Dear Annie: Several years ago I took to a massage parlor and need a woman for any. This woman told me she was a nurse in the job in the office where I work. There are only nine employees.

Is it legal to use a nurse's services for sexual purposes?

Dear insulation: We have no jurisdiction to decide on the legal status of a nurse's services. However, we have been advised that it is illegal to use a nurse's services for sexual purposes.

Dear Annie: I have been married for a year and my husband and I have been living together for six months. We have had a lot of sex, but we have not been very happy. We have been trying to improve our sexual relationship, but we have not been very successful. We have been advised that it is legal to use a nurse's services for sexual purposes.
