Fish camp faces future

Pay Pamiheri Staff writer

The waiting may be over for Turner Fish Camp. The colorful remnant of east Citrus County’s culture and history takes a step today toward its future replacement. The fish camp, a landmark on the Withlacoochee River since 1850, is up for a land use change.

The Citrus County Planning and Development Commission will consider the request at today’s meeting and make a recommendation to the Board of County Commissioners. A decision is expected sometime in the next few weeks. The request is for a new public recreational spot for both the rural residents and visitors of East Turner Camp Road and Turner River users.

Located on two acres about seven and a half miles from downtown Inverness up Turner Camp Road, the property is on Booty Point, near the entrance to Potts Preserve. It bears a scenic stretch of the river with a county boat ramp and a couple of docks. Over the years, the fish camp has hosted several restaurants and bars. It attracted airboats and other pleasure craft from the river, families in cars, money-loving clubs, area neighbors and an occasional stray tourist. There were often live music or karaoke, with crowds packing the small eating area. Some patterns preferred being outdoors, sitting in a top patio wall or drinking at the adjoining bike bar.

School calendar hostage to state testing schedule

Beck Wright Staff Writer

This much is sure for school: Aug. 6 and ends May 22. But we’re the first to admit that is a little unknown, how Citrus County School District officials think they’ll get it figured out.

While the 2014-15 calendar still is not formally approved, district officials say parent can count on Christmas break Dec. 23 to Jan. 2 and spring break coinciding with the Citrus County Fair, March 28 to April 2. School districts in Florida are feeling the impact of approving new school year calendars because the Department of Education had not yet released final testing dates.

The Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test, or FCAT, is a thing of the past, replaced by the Florida Standards Assessment. ESE, Graduating-standards are higher and students will undergo more testing than ever before, said Patricia Simon, Citrus County School District director of research and accountability. Simon, who said the state released the dates on Friday, said the testing has several facets, including:

At the time, the fish camp was owned and operated by William "Stoney" Hall, who had inherited the business from her father. It remained open for a while with outside bar service, and there was strong community support for rebuilding. But just over a year later, the property went into foreclosure, and Brannen Bank became the owner in 2013. The remains of the fire-damaged building have been sealed off, but a large, faded sign on Turner Camp Road still advertises the restaurant. "We’re seven and a half miles from (State Road) 44 and there’s nothing close," said fish camp resident Charles Ritter. "There’s no place to camp resident Charles Ritter. There’s no place to go near here." The closest store closed a while ago, and many people for so many years, he said, "I hope they do something with it soon." Ritter has been around about a year ago. "It’s meant so much to so many people for so many years," he said. "I hope they do something with it soon." Ritter has been around for 14 years, including more than a decade as cook at the restaurant. Now he serves as the unofficial fish camp host, as people occasionally stop by to check for news about the site. The change would require removal of 18 permitted recreational vehicle spaces from the property, which is posted for the land use change. There is also cast of regulars, former customers who stop by to sit and chat. "It’s the river," he said. "The river is very important." Brannen Bank has requested a land use change for property from recreational vehicle park district to coastal and lakes commercial district. The change would require removal of 10 permitted recreational vehicle spaces from the site.

Two concept plans were submitted to develop the land. One includes 13 two-bedroom cabins. The other offers 17 recreational vehicle beds. The applicant also stated the change will support ecotourism use. "I just want them to get something going again," Ritter said. "This place could be a gold mine, if somebody put some money back into it." Contact Chronicle reporter Pat Faherty at 352-564-2924 or pfaherty@citronicleonline.com.

Tatum Fish Camp, situated on the banks of the Withlacoochee River, was once a thriving fish camp. The site is now desolate. "It’s the river," he said. "It’s meant so much to so many people for so many years," he said. "I hope they do something with it soon."

The News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE — A new study by the Pew Charitable Trusts finds Florida leading the nation in initiatives to reduce prison populations by granting clemency to prisoners.

The Pew study found that 64.3 percent of Florida inmates or 21,448 prisoners, were released in 2012 without conditions, monitoring or supervision.

The states with the next-highest rates were Maine with 64 percent and Minnesota with 65.3 percent, released, and North Carolina with 60.9 percent, or 7,870. The state with the lowest max- out rate was Vermont at 49.8 percent.

The study’s results dovetail the researcher’s findings about the criminal-justice system.

“Florida is one of the few states that are making serious efforts to fix this system,” said Elaina D’Amato, director of the Pew Charitable Trusts’ Justice Project.

You can go in from Florida to soli- darity confinement, to the state prison system, to the county jail system and even to a private prison,” said D’Amato. “Florida is one of the few states in the country that have a lot of foresight when it comes to these kinds of initiatives.”

A 2012 Pew study showed that Florida had the highest recidivism rate in the country, at 54.8 percent, compared to the national average of 37.7 percent.

On shelter, don’t be like cats and dogs

New one argues about the conditions at Citrus County’s animal shelter. A recent story in the local paper about the shelter’s staffsold on a failure to control dogs and cats. The animal shelter has been criticized for its failure to control the numbers of dogs and cats in the county, especially in Citrus County.

The issue: Is the Citrus County animal shelter doing a good job?

Our opinion: Find a better way.

The county is spending $4 million to build a new animal shelter.

Colin and Steven Roberts

The VA scandal is dangerous and scandalous. And it should be. But the solution, the military itself has lost clout. They are strong supporters of our veterans’ organizations and make contributions to banks and under your care and devotion.

The VA’s problems are hardly new. They were present even before the Civil War. But those vets are rapidly disappearing because of the endless partisan warfare. The VA scandal is dangerous for veterans, and useful skills in the military; devastation of their heads and members of many animal services organizations and sug- gest a unified effort to help finance a new Citrus County animal shelter with decision not want for want of care, but for want of proper care.

Unfortunately, only 17.5% of the county’s animal shelter needs are being covered by the county.

The building lacks air-conditioning and housing services. All of this, as former director and head vet Dr. Mike Arnold, said, is the problem.

What they argue about is the cost of building the shelter at $4 million.

The county commission is eying a new building to replace the old shelter.

TALLAHASSEE — Tallahassee lobbyists and lawyers are hooking up with investors, nursery owners and a variety of other businesspeople with leafy green stars in their eyes in the quest to cash in on Florida’s newest regulated industry.

With Florida on the verge of becoming the first Southern state to legalize any form of marijuana, lobbyists from large and small firms are pitching their regulatory expertise and inside connections with an eye not only on nabbing new clients but possibly ownership stakes in what, at least for now, may be a limited industry.

Gov. Rick Scott has yet to receive a bill, pushed by parents of children with a rare form of epilepsy, that will legalize a form of marijuana that purportedly does not get users high but which alleviates life-threatening seizures. Scott has said he will sign the measure (SB 1030).

Doctors are supposed to be able to start ordering low-THC substance for their patients on Jan. 1, meaning the Department of Health has less than six months to move forward with rules and regulations governing doctors and patients, as well as businesses that could act as growers, processors and dispensers.

Passage of the bill has generated a frenzy of activity on the part of investors, growers, pot-shop operators from other states and entrepreneurs looking to make a quick buck not only on the low-THC marijuana but on the “traditional” medical marijuana that could become legal in November. Voters will decide during the fall elections if physicians should be allowed to order pot for severely ill patients.

State erases plan for medically needy changes

TALLAHASSEE — After running into objections from the federal government, Florida has scrapped a proposal that would have required tens of thousands of people with debilitating illnesses to enroll in managed-care plans.

Gov. Rick Scott this week signed a bill that repealed part of state law calling for people in the “Medically Needy” program to participate in managed care and to pay monthly premiums. The Medically Needy program serves people, such as transplant recipients, who have costly medical conditions but do not qualify for regular Medicaid coverage because of their incomes or assets. Lawmakers included Medically Needy in a 2011 law that requires almost all Medicaid beneficiaries to enroll in managed-care plans — an enrollment process that is taking place now. But the federal Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services objected to the Medically Needy part of the law because of the proposed monthly premiums.

State Medicaid director Justin Senior told lawmakers as early as last September about opposition from federal officials, who would have needed to approve what is known as a Medicaid “waiver” for the Medically Needy changes to take place. Shelisha Coleman, a spokeswoman for the state Agency for Health Care Administration, said this week the federal government never formally denied the state’s waiver request, but AHCA stopped actively pursuing it.

The bill (HB 5201) signed this week by Scott is related to the state budget. While the bill repealed the proposed Medically Needy changes, people in the program will continue to receive services, with bills getting paid through a more traditional system known as “fee for service,” state officials said.

Nadal, Murray to French semis

PARIS — Briefly, and only briefly, Rafael Nadal was in a difficult spot in the French Open quarterfinals.

For the first time in this year’s tournament, the eight-time champion dropped a set.

And this one had to be on Nadal’s head. His opponent, David Ferrer, could present real problems.

“My game is not working, and he is working so well,” Nadal said in a statement.

Indeed, Ferrer was in a difficult spot in the French Open in Paris, France. Nadal won after dropping the first set, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Jays win for 18th time in 22 games

Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG — Denard Span scored on a sacrifice fly by David Price to help the Miami Marlins hold Tampa Bay to 5-3 on Wednesday night, extending the Rays’ longest losing streak on nearly five years to nine games. It was the second straight win in the major leagues this season.

Miami is 3-0 against the Rays in the season series, which could be significant down the stretch.

It was the first single for the Marlins, who won the first two games of a three-game home-and-home series in Miami, including Thursday’s 9-0 win on a rain-soaked field.

The win also came on a 6-4-3 double play that was the second out of the inning in relief of R.A. Dickey.

Dickey (5-6) won his third straight start, striking out seven and allowing five runners while getting only two outs in the ninth.

Marlins pitcher Dan Haren (1-5) allowed five runs while getting only one out in the ninth for his fourth loss in as many starts.

The Rays fell to 0-6 in interleague games.

Even before one sets foot in McLeod House Bistro, it’s apparent that the restaurant is something special.

Diners enter through a well-appointed porch with comfortable, classy seating for 38. The indoor seating also for 38 occupies a home that dates from 1915 — the McLeod House — from which the bistro takes its name. The McLeod family lived in the home from 1941 to 1998, and a variety of restaurants and businesses have inhabited the space before the bistro opened in February 2010. Owned by chef Michael Kulow, the small restaurant has a small staff to match — but they’re experts in both food and hospitality, working seamlessly together to accommodate guests from near and far.

The success of the restaurant is due in large part to the expertise of Kulow. Classically trained, he is the recipient of many awards for his cooking, including two Golden Spoons and several Taste of Inverness awards. This year, McLeod House Bistro won the People’s Choice and Best Vegan Entrée categories. The winning vegan dish? Stuffed beet with parsnip and carrot mousse on herbed lemon polenta with sautéed spinach and a balsamic glaze.

Born in Ohio, Kulow has been a chef for 40 years and has lived in Citrus County for 14. He prides himself and his restaurant on freshness and quality. He prefers to get his produce locally when he can, and to pick it out himself; fish and other seafood come from Tampa and Orlando.

“He’s very small,” said Kulow, “so when we prepare for the day, it’s for that day.” No thawing of appetizers or entrées here; some ingredients are so fresh that they have been recently picked outside. On deciding to become a chef, Kulow said, “Your profession finds you, you don’t find them.” After deciding that he’d found his passion, Kulow spent most of his professional life in hotels and resorts, and has worked for three certified masters.

While the menu varies little — “I think we’ve had almost the same 11 or so menu items since we opened,” Kulow said — he also takes a spontaneous approach to cooking. “If I wake up in the morning and I want to make something Asian, that day we have an Asian special.” This philosophy provides those who frequent the bistro with an excitingly unpredictable element. There are the classic, familiar menu choices, but there’s also always something new.

McLeod House Bistro is located at 207 N. Apopka Avenue in Inverness, just off the Courthouse Square. It can be found online at www.mcleodhousebistro.com, and reached by phone at 352-726-7700. The restaurant is open for lunch and dinner between 11 a.m. and 9 p.m. daily and accepts reservations as late as 9 p.m. Reservations are encouraged but not required.

HURRICANE DIRECTORY
I’m enjoying my beautiful hanging ploy of flowers on my porch. They were my Mother’s Day gifts. So far I have kept them looking nice with the help of my daughter. I seem to be able to grow all kinds of vegetables, but flowers are not my specialty. I love flowers, but I think I often overlook them or not enough.

Our family had a very nice running Memorial Day weekend. We left at 4:30 a.m. on Saturday morning bound for Mackinac Island. We stayed at a motel in St. Ignace on Saturday night. Sunday morning we took the ferry over to the island and spent the day there. It gave us some history lessons. One of our highlights was driving over the Mackinac Bridge that runs between Lake Michigan and the Upper Peninsula. We soon parked our rental car at the top of the island. The ferry ride was chilly, as we were on the top deck. It was a different experience than the bridges of God’s creations. We have often heard of the Mackinac Bridge and Island, but not until we took the ferry can you see the wonders of it. When I asked the children what they thought of the trip, I got different answers as such as the ferry, the bridge, the pool at the motel. I don’t think anyone mentioned the island as their favorite part.

Lovina was very upset from all the walking. Finally, we talked to the man at the ferry terminal and he let us rent their brand new van. And a big workhorse. The wagon had three seats and could usuall yseat six people, but after that and ride around the island for two hours.

When we arrived back to St. Ignace, the children wanted to go swimming again. The pool is not as crowded as it was in the beginning.
The opening reception of our new, permanent exhibit in the Bramen Family Gallery, titled "Changing People, Changing Springs: Chasahoshoakah Revisited," will be from 3-5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 2. A $10 donation at the door is required.

The artifacts are coming home from the preservation labs to our new gallery. Chasahoshoakah has been described as a typical Seminole Fort site starting with the Palimowinds, who arrived here some 10,000 years ago, to recent tourists who arrived by steamship. We have left behind a record of their stories at the springs by the artifacts that have traveled to the three wars, which ended in 1858. The artifacts are coming home from the Fort site in the Withlacoochee River area.

The Harmony in the Streets day camp for children ages 7-12 is a way to welcome children to lunch and have the opportunity to explore different food and dessert options. The Power of the Purse event is a fun way to support the local community.

We hope you enjoy the stories and artifacts from the Fort site in the Withlacoochee River area.

Stop by this summer and see one of the most complete reviews of this important Florida history told in an interesting narrative, complete with period photographs and illustrations. A Hurricane season is upon us and for all of us who are near the area, read on to find out no is it goes with us.

For good recipes requiring no power, check out the book "The Storm Kitchen" by Eliza Hinckley. A mace could survive a storm better than a can opener. winged Wonders is mentioned as tasty options. A storm could be better for many things including storms.

Artifacts from a fort site in the Withlacoochee River area. Find these criteria to stay in your neighborhood, including building your own take-home box. Food. Fun and Fitness is offered to a funded day camp exploring different foods. Youth will participate in nature walks, exploring different healthy food choices and different ways to stay fit in your neighborhood. Contact Citrus/UF Extension for pre-registration, at 352-726-3913 or 352-344-0779 for more information.

Looking for something fun to do this coming summer for students aged 8-14? Three Week Camp is available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Hernando Heritage Museum. The Hernando Heritage Council will offer a variety of structured programs beginning with the Paleoindians, who arrived here some 10,000 years ago, to more. The instructor is Mary Ann Lynn, a retired Art teacher. Call 352-726-3913 or 352-344-0779 for more information.

Some of the very significant finds are a late Prehistoric through the Archaic, which continued into the Paleoindian period. Dear Annie: I’ve always heard that my kids’ mother, Norma, makes some food at home with her kids and I think she’s gone too far. I’m not sure if it’s a simple one or if it’s a real one. I recently discovered that she’s been using a notary’s services to pay for some of the things she’s been using. I’m reallysure this is not paid for. I’ve heard from people that have overcharged and undercharged their own mother to get them out of a jam. My mother is 82 and hasn’t had any money in her savings account in over 10 years. I think this is a very serious problem and I would like to talk to her about it. She is not very responsive to my questions and she won’t even speak to me on the phone when I call her. I don’t know what to do.

Should I try to force Norma to go to a lawyer? I’m not sure if she needs one. I’ve been trying to get Norma to do things the right way, but she won’t listen to me. I’m really worried about her and I don’t know what to do. Can anyone help me?

Dear AM: It’s really hard for me to believe that your mother is not paying for the food she’s been using. I think you should try to talk to her about it. You can try to explain to her that you’re not sure if it’s a simple one or if it’s a real one. You can also try to explain to her that she should be paying for the things she’s been using.
