Islamic extremists release video purporting to show beheading of US reporter Steven Sotloff

Associated Press

BEIRUT — Islamic State extremists released a video Tuesday purportedly showing the beheading of a second American journalist, Steven Sotloff, and warning President Barack Obama that as long as U.S. airstrikes against the militant group continue, “our knife will continue to strike the necks of your people.”

The footage — depicting what the U.S. said appeared to be a sickening act of brutality — was posted two weeks after the re-emergence of video showing the killing of James Foley and just days after Sotloff’s mother pleaded for his life.

Barack Birtch, a spokesman for the family, said that the Sotloffs had seen the video but that authorities have not established its authenticity.

“The family members of this horrid tragedy are grieving privately. There will be no public comment from the family during this difficult time,” Birtch said.

Sotloff, a 35-year-old Miami-area native who freelanced for Time and Foreign Policy magazines, vanished in Syria in Aug. 2013 and was not seen again until he appeared in a video released last month that showed Foley’s beheading.

Dressed in an orange jumpsuit against an arid Syrian landscape, Sotloff was featured in that video with death unless the U.S. stopped airstrikes on the Islamic State.

In the video distributed Thursday and titled “A Second Message to America,” Sotloff appears in a similar jumpsuit and caption from the family during this difficult time,” Birtch said.

Speed trap scrutinized

Infamous town investigated over tickets

JASON DEAREN Associated Press

WALDO — The north Florida town of Waldo has long had a reputation as a speed trap, and it’s no wonder. A relentless search of highways that runs through Waldo, drivers speed up and slow down six times: 45 mph becomes 35 mph; to 45 again and even down to 35 mph. A AAA report this month between Jacksonville and Gainesville one of only two “traffic traps” nationwide, according to the Department of Transportation. The report found the town to be a “code yellow” status due to its many traffic tickets, according to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

On Friday, drivers enter the town of Waldo where motorists can encounter many speed traps in the town. The AAA report said that there are two “traffic traps” nationwide, one in Jacksonville and Gainesville one of only two “traffic traps” nationwide, according to the Florida Department of Transportation.

Pre-dawn clash snarls traffic in Inverness

INVERNESS — Citrus County Sheriff’s Office deputies were searching for a possible abduction suspect on Sunday when a traffic collision involving a Kia and a sub-carrier tanker occurred. The collision caused the sub-carrier tanker to jackknife, and the collision of the sub-carrier tanker was backing into the highway from Citrus Blvd., off U.S. 41. Inverness, according to a FHP accident report, the driver of the semi was attempting to back into the home of Citrus Blvd. from the median lane while facing north. As the trailer carrying soda made its way across the northbound and southbound lanes of U.S. 41, a white four-door Kia struck the trailer, causing it to be removed from the roadway. The driver of the Kia did not notice the trailer as it was entering the Citrus Blvd. intersection, according to a FHP report. Neither driver was seriously injured, but the driver of the Kia was transported by Nature Coast Emergency Medical Services to Ocala Regional Medical Center for non-injurious injuries and is expected to recover.

The government mailed letters in English and Spanish last month notifying about 500,000 people that if immigration and citizenship documents aren't submitted by Friday, they'll lose their coverage under the Affordable Care Act and will be liable for a $695 fine.

However, few seem to be responding. U.S. Health and Human Servces officials released information Tuesday that only 50,000 of the original 100,000 people who received the letters had filled the necessary paperwork.

Immigration advocates say the notices in only two languages don't take into account the wide variety of immigrant languages. They say many who received the letters already have filled the documents without knowing the English text, and the paperwork can be confusing, leaving them fear most who received a letter and didn't understand the gravity of the situation or think they have already complied. And they fear most who have processed the letters already have received the letters already have filled out the forms.

Of the 8 million people who signed up for private coverage through the Affordable Care Act, about 6 million immigrants origin-alized in the U.S. or naturalized citizens seeking help.

Nearly 100,000 in Florida received letters warning about losing their health benefits if they were not naturalized citizens, according to the South Florida Health Care Coalition Inc. in Miami. The coalition said it had been contacted by a number of people.

The government has been put on notice to translate the letters into at least ten very few phone calls have been made to help them keep their

NEW YORK — Concerns about slower global growth appeared to overshadow strong reports about the U.S. economy, sending the stock market to a tiny loss. Despite a gain in the Dow Jones industrial average — which, meanwhile, the dollar index rallied by a year-and-a-half high and pushed the yen.

"It's the picture of U.S. businesses buying a product, while the rest of the world is buying less," said Jack Ablin, chief investment officer at BMO Private Bank in Chicago. The S&P 500 index dropped 1.08 point, less than 0.1 percent, to 2,402.25. Market gains that gave weight to smaller companies faced better news. Nasdaq fell 17.02 points, or 0.6 percent, to 3,312.36.

"We are going to have a very solid economic expansion, but the stock market isn’t buying much of it," said Anastasia Amoroso, Global Market Strategist at J.P. Morgan Funds. "U.S. government bond prices dropped, lifting long-term interest rates.

"The yield on the 10-year note was down to 2.10 percent, up from 2.35 percent late Tuesday.

In metals trading, gold fell $6.14 an ounce, also 1.7 percent, to $1,252.20 an ounce. Copper was flat at $3.10 a pound.

Home Depot probes possible credit card data breach

NEW YORK — The Home Depot may be the latest retailer to suffer a credit card data breach.

The Atlanta-based home improvement retailer told The Associated Press on Tuesday that it is looking into “unusual activity” and at least two card issues. According to online security firm Krebs on Security, a website that focuses on cybersecurity. Krebs said multiple banks reported evidence that Home Depot stores may be the source of a new batch of stolen credit cards.

Shoppers say chip cards are safer because, unlike magnetic strip cards that transfer a credit card number when swiped at a point-of-sale terminal, chip cards use a one-time code that moves between the chip and the retailer’s register. The result is a transfer of data that is useless to anyone except the parties involved. Chip cards are also merely impossible to copy exactly.

The possible data breach at Home Depot was first reported by Brian Krebs of Krebs on Security, a website that focuses on cybersecurity. Krebs said multiple banks reported "evidence that Home Depot stores may be the source of a new batch of stolen credit cards and debit cards.

Krebs said the party responsible for the Home Depot breach may be the same group of Russian and Ukrainian hackers suspected in the Target breach last year. krebs broke the news of Target’s breach.

Scott calls militants ‘evil in killing’

Associated Press

NAPLES — Florida Gov. Rick Scott on Tuesday called Islamic State militants “evil” and demanded that President Barack Obama destroy this “barbaric” group.

Scott launched a two-week re-election bus tour on Labor Day and planned on Tuesday to hold his second political rally of the election bus tour a day at a hardware store.

But during the stop Scott said he was canceling the event and instead asked supporters to give a moment of silence for the militants’ victims.

The Republican governor, who has criticized Obama for not having a “strategy” to respond to the militants, said he was canceling the event “for a reason.

EASTPORT — Big discounts. Six- or seven-year loans, in some cases 10 years, have sent some car buyers back to the showroom door. In some instances, the loans have been turned down in the past.

And yet, car producers are seeking to sustain their post-recession comeback by making deals to entice buyers to tattle that some execs were willing to lower prices to keep them in the market.

Vehicle discounts have risen 5-10 percent so far this year than a quarter of a new buyer is choosing to take and average loan rate is about 7 percent. High percentage. Auto companies have been luring in new buyers with loans to people with low credit scores. The industry is adding fac- tory capacity. And the average price of a car has risen, forcing some customers to borrow for longer terms to keep payments in check.

Auto annual sales in the U.S. should top 18 million for the first time in seven years. But the auto industry now faces more consumer demand that has driven sales of this loan. Sales are predicted to grow 5-5 percent this year, the same pace as the industry last year. This could be a major blow to the industry.

A new study notes that fewer than 15 percent of new cars sold in the country are 30 miles per gallon, and that could lead to higher gas prices. China could see more pop- ular and more fuel-efficient cars in the coming years. Nor- mally, the polar vortex is poised to hit the Arctic. But at times it ex- pands and winter storms, bringing with it a bit of heat from the south.

That can happen for several weeks, according to the new study that suggests one of the cases occurs when there are lingering stratospheric, leaving more snow in southern states. Normally, sea ice keeps the cold from escaping the ocean and warming the atmos- phere. When there’s less ice, more heat can be drawn into the atmosphere and produce a high-alitude rise of air, drawing cold air from Arctic as warmer air moves into the region. A team of scientists from the National Laboratory in Boulder, Colorado. Washington.

That happened related- ly often from 1980 to 1990, but since 2000 it's been rare. Some researchers have linked this to a stronger jet stream, which carries heat and cold air masses and can affect weather patterns around the world. Scientists have found that the jet stream is becoming more erratic and unpredictable, leading to more extreme weather events.

Hurricanes fall at home again to Eastside

Undefeated Rams top Citrus in four sets
C.J. REDMAN Correspondent

INVERNESS — The last time those two volleyball teams met in this gym, it required a major comeback by Gauntlet Eastside to eke out a win. And Citrus suffered the consequences.

Both teams have changed since then, each losing a large portion of those lineup from a year ago. But one thing hasn’t changed: The result.

In a rematch from last season’s regional finals, Kylea King, left, and Samantha Karow of Citrus get in position to receive a serve Tuesday in Inverness. The Hurricanes lost in four sets.

CRYSTAL RIVER — The lightning-strikeروف didn’t make much of a difference to Crystal River High’s Kyle Kidd Tuesday evening.

After a one-hour delay, he went out and fired a 35 to pace the unbeaten Pirates past Citrus. Kidd wasn’t doing cartwheels over his game, which included three birdies and a double bogey.

For Crystal River, Kyle Velasco hit a 39, Matt Allen a 42 and Adam Downey added a 43. Citrus’s Dakota Homan shot a 46. James Taulbee hit a 48 and Ty Carroll added a 50.

Citrus’s Brennen Bishop led his team with a 40. His team boosted its mark to 3-0 with a 159-184 win over Citrus.

Monfils into US Open QFs
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Gaël Monfils follows its own rules.

What Monfils has never done, despite all his talent — and in some cases, because he has appeared to value style over substance — is win a big match on a court, in the middle of a point, preferring the spectacular to the sensible, the offensive — to reach a Grand Slam final. He took a slow closer Tuesday at the U.S. Open during a surprising 6-4, 6-3, 7-5, 7-6 (7) victory in the fourth round over No. 2 seeded Grigor Dimitrov, a man considered one of the sport’s up-and-coming stars.

The 20th-seeded Frenchman will face Roger Federer for a spot in the semifinals.

Federer advanced in the U.S. Open quarterfinals for the 10th time in 11 years by eliminating 17th-seeded Roberto Bautista April 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 Tuesday night. Federer won the point on 31 of 52 trips to the net.

The other quarterfinal matchup on that half of the draw will be No. 6 Tomas Berdych against No. 14 Marin Cilic. Berdych beat 20-year-old Dominic Thiem 6-1, 6-4, 6-4. Cilic was a 5-7, 7-6 (3), 6-4, 3-6 winner against No. 28 Gilles Simon, who was treated for a back problem early on.

In women’s quarterfinals on Thursday, 5th-ranked Peng Shuai of China ended the precocious run of 17th-seededarella Belof of Switzerland 6-2, 6-4. Peng’s next opponent will be No. 10 Caroline Wozniacki, the 2009 U.S. Open runner-up, who overwhelmed No. 13 Sara Errani 6-4, 6-1 in a wind-whipped match Tuesday night.

Peng, 28, advanced to her first Grand Slam semifinal in the 25th major tournament of her career, only five women took enough to get to the final four of one of the sport’s top four events.

Tom Watson fills out his Ryder Cup team

Associated Press

NEW YORK — U.S. captain Tom Watson went with experience and a gut feeling Tuesday when he named the American team for the 2014 Ryder Cup.

The two other choices were no surprise. Even though Bradley has not been in a Ryder Cup for two years and missed out on three of the last four, he has rare presence. He has won three of his four matches this year and was on the 2012 American team. Bradley was in the final of the World Golf Championship at Doral in April, which may have helped.

Watson was more of a pick, though he is associated more with winning Major championships. Bradley was in the drive and putts that allowed Europe to re-group. Mahan was in the de-cisive match four years ago when Graeme McDowell made all the right shots in another European victory.

Mahan was left off the 2010 team, even though he narrowly missed qualifying. Bradley said last week at the Deutsche Bank Championship that he wanted to play. The other two choices were not so valuable. The American team is not as deep as the European team.

Not so valuable was recent success.

Europe has won seven of the last nine tournaments, and it will be heavily favored in September. European Tour chief executive Martin Slumbers selected Poulter, Lee Westwood, and Stephen Gallacher, who will be 39 when he makes his Ryder Cup debut in his home country.

Bradley and Simpson are among seven players who were left out. The others are Jim Furyk, Zach Johnson, Matt Kuchar, Keegan Bradley and Simpson are on that U.S. team that was on the losing end of the "Miracle at Medinah." The others are Ryan Palmer, Zach Johnson, Matt Kuchar, and Stephen Gallacher, who will be 39 when he makes his Ryder Cup debut in his home country.

Bradley said last week at the Deutsche Bank Championship that he was not thinking about the Ryder Cup. He was looking for a great cause.. The American Cancer Society. Three Categories

Academy of Environmental Science among best of Florida schools

Nestled in this beauty is a unique, stilted school where local students think outside the box and use their scenic surroundings to better understand their academics. It is listed as the Academy of Environmental Science, but many call it home. Not to be confused with the Marine Science Station, the AES is also sponsored by the Citrus County School District, but houses students for semesters at a time. The school started offering its in 1999. "We have the same calendar, same holidays," Stofcheck said. "We are employed by Citrus County School District. We follow all of their rules and guidelines."

Just what makes the AES program so desirable and what contributes to its high ranking in the state? Stofcheck cited a number of factors.

Student attraction

For many students, the environment surrounding AES is an added advantage to their family-like school. "Many students, when they get out here, they become a close-knit family," Stofcheck said. "They still have quizzes and tests. They get graduation credits just as if they were at their base high school. But the first thing kids will tell you is that they will miss the family. They get to know each other real well. We have the same teaching staff; therefore, students use theirancias; however, good weather days find them wandering elsewhere to the picnic tables or the dock by the water. "I tell the kids to relax and forget about school for a half an hour," he said. "Go enjoy time with your friends and enjoy the gorgeous scenery. We have had dolphins and manatees that come up during lunch hour."

With 116 students currently enrolled, Stofcheck said there is a waiting list of 50 to 120 kids every year. Just what makes the AES program so desirable and what contributes to its high ranking in the state? Stofcheck cited a number of factors.

AES FAST FACTS

■ AES was selected twice as one of the "Best High Schools" in the United States by U.S. News & World Report.

■ Gov. Rick Scott sent a personal message to the school congratulating them on ranking No. 2 out of 451 high schools and No. 4 out of 4,117 schools in Florida.

■ During the 2012/13 school year, AES students had 100 percent proficient in biology; 90 percent proficient in algebra 1.

■ At the 2012 Regional Science Fair, all 10 high school projects selected for State Science Fair Completion were by AES students.

■ The environment, attracting students here," Stofcheck said. "Also, it is not overcrowded. We have a small teaching staff and they get to know each other real well. We focus on trying to make subject materials relevant and hands-on to the real world for the kids. They still have quizzes and tests. They get graduation credits just as if they were at their base high school.

‘Too Good’ for drugs, violence program targets students

The Citrus Hi-Fi-Program is a partnership between Eck- yard Youth Alternatives, Part- ners for a Substance-Free Citrus, Lecanto Middle School and Inverness Middle School, and will focus on addressing un- desired drug use by providing a variety of programs and interventions. ‘Too Good for Drugs’ and ‘Too Good for Violence’ are designed to target all sixth- grade students at Lecanto and Inverness middle schools, the Citrus Hi-Fi-Program will de- liver weekly classroom-based curriculums called ‘Too Good for Drugs’ to an estimated 600 students in these two schools combined. In addition, students at greatest risk of underage drinking and other drug use will be more likely to participate in smaller, more intensive group interventions utilizing the ‘Too Good for Drugs and Vi- olence’ curriculum. The pro- gram will also work to increase parental involvement and use of alcohol and other drugs for underage youths through the communication and delivery of family workshops. In addition, Citrus Hi-Fi will work with the Anti-Drug Coalition of Citrus to imple- ment a proven social marketing plan called ‘Friday Night Done Right’ which provides positive messaging to youths for abstain- ing from alcohol and other drugs. The objective is to in- crease knowledge among youths of the dangers of alcohol and other drug use and to re- frame a positive social norm of abstinence from substances.

Sports “Students arrive back at their base schools by 2:20 p.m. so they are able to ride buses home,” he said. “But this also allows them to play on athletic teams and participate in extracurricular activities. “I have a couple of students right now playing on the Crystal River football team, it is a nice combination for the kids, as they don’t have to give up all of the connections to come out here.”

Over-the-counter meds “At our orientation we told the kids that if they wanted to be out on the water to have a friendly relationship. “I’m glad it is open because there aren’t many kids in this county that have never been out on the water to have an appreciation for this environ- ment,” Stofcheck said. “We are always working together. If they need a help they lend them out. Or if we need one of their boats, they lend them to us. We have a great working relationship.”

Ideal student for ADS “We get students who love the out- doors and just don’t feel comfortable in the larger settings of their base high school,” he said. “They feel com- fortable here, like they belong. Also, with us being a small school it allows the teachers to have a more one-on-one relationship with the students.”

“We are here, come see us if you are not comfortable attending the academy,” he said. “We are here, we have been successful and we would love to have you.”

The summer reading program at the Citrus County Library System was a tremendous success. Throughout the summer all children, children of all ages took one chance per week during an eight-week span to enter their names into a daily drawing. The drawings were held at the end of the summer. Half-Mar of Humanae donated the books and the winning book was donated by the local community. The summer reading program came to an end and the five winners were: Lilis Olson, Central Ridge, Inverness; Christina Martin, Citrus Middle, Inverness; Aliesah Schultes, Floral City; Caleb Osborne, Floral City; and Alyssa Heavrin, Citrus County Civic Center, Inverness, and Shauna Bell, Lakeland Region.

Enrollment is up for Citrus school district

BEHIND THE NUMBERS

■ Citrus County School District officials projected 34,350 pupils for the 2014-15 school year. These projections were updated in June to 34,584, reporting 14,584, parents have enrolled.

■ Last year, at this time, 14,633 pupils were enrolled in the CCSD.

Ervie Worthington Staff writer

Enrollment numbers are slightly up from projections for the school district and officials believe it proves to be a good start to a successful year.

“We are still enrolling kids, believe it or not,” said Mike Mullen, assistant superintendent of school opera- tions. “From what we projected to what we have en- rolled, we have about 50 more students from what we anticipated. We are off to a good start.”

Each year, Citrus County School District officials esti- mate the projected number of students that will be at- tending a school. “We have never been out on the water to

Some of the new students that we enrolled were kids moving in with grandparents,” Bidden said. “But there isn’t anything that we are aware of that attracting new families to our area as far as our opportunities. Trends, the economy and census date all come into play.”

Meet Megan Fox

Megan Fox stars as April in the new “Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles” movie. She was born in Camarillo, California, in 1986. She has modeled and acted in both children’s shows and in the new “Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles” movie.

In college, the offense tries to put the ball in the opponent’s end zone (10 points) or kick it through the goal posts (2 points). The defense tries to prevent the offense from doing so. For example, the offense has driven a team to the opponent’s 15-yard line, but the defense forces the offense to punt and the resulting kick is returned for a touchdown (6 points). The defense also gains points if they force a turnover (fumble recovery, interception). The defense has 40 points, and the offense has 20 points. The defense has won the game by 20 points.

JUMBLE

Dear H.:

Please listen to your doctor. He said your immune system is weak and you should not have a wedding in the near future. It is best if you just get married and go on a honeymoon next year. Your family and friends should not be presented with the burden of caring for a sick person who is going to get worse.

Dear Addie:

I am a 28-year-old married woman and would do anything to keep my husband happy. I know he would do the same for me.

The problem is I contacted an old friend after my husband had died. This guy was my first love. I only reached out to him to offer my condolences. But then the conversation went further, and we ended up reminiscing about the past.

Since then, we’ve been talking and texting regularly. I began to talk about having sex, and he said he didn’t know what to say.

I want to give him a chance, but I’m afraid he might not want to be with me. My friend has not pressured me, but I feel uncomfortable about it.

Sincerely,

Nameless in the USA

Dear Nameless:

You should delete his phone number from your records and stop talking to him before you make a mistake of your life. It is not unusual to fantasize about another partner, but a lot of married people do, because marriage can become routine, and an old flame adds excitement.

But you need to live up to the commitment you made to your husband to “forever all others.” Having an affair would hurt him terribly and possibly lead to divorce. Put some of that extra energy into regaining the passion in your marriage. If you cannot do that, please consider counseling.

Answer to Previous Puzzle:

38 is ahead of 22.

Dear Addie:

Two years ago, my mother died. I am now living with my boyfriend, and I feel guilty about not always being available to him.

He says he understands why I feel this way, but I don’t think he does.

Sincerely,
