Students honor Parkland massacre victims

Each victim's name was read along with a short biography and comments from their family and friends. Some PBHS students held signs saying go get control and end of school.

Maple Pratt, 96, has seen a thing or two

Maple Pratt received an inheritance seven years ago from her paternal grandfather. "Mr. Washington loved his family, and that's why he left his estate to his children," she said. "I think this is important," Gelder said. "I think it's important that we remember the victims and protest gun violence."

Hard times

African-Americans were hit especially hard by unemployment during the Depression, and the community in Fernandina was no exception. As the Depression lasted for a few years, the unemployment rate rose. The population of black-owned businesses and jobs in Fernandina was no exception. Maple Pratt is shown at age 31 in a portrait she had made for her husband. She said she had not yet been able to create a similar portrait for her father. "My father was a very special man," she said. "I think this is important," Gelder said. "I think it's important that we remember the victims and protest gun violence."

The Florida State Department assisted in a plan to create four lanes of traffic on S.R. 200/A1A from Yulee to Fernandina Beach because the daily traffic count was less than 2,000 vehicles.

Brush fires in Yulee snarl traffic, prompt evacuation

CINDY JACSON

Traffic at the intersection of Yulee and Old Dixie Highway was snarled due to a brush fire in the area.

A brush fire along those railtracks at Pages Daisy and Chester Road caused traffic problems in the area. A brush fire along those railtracks at Pages Daisy and Chester Road caused traffic problems in the area.

Friends of Bosco Belle

Join other interested residents in helping Bosco Belle to work on plans and projects to enhance the playground.

Avery, who had her own spina bifida, said he took Bosco to see the doctor and returned home. They spent time together and Avery helped Avery learn to swim, play basketball, and do other things.

Post navigation:

Avery was a fun-loving person who loved animals. He was very helpful in organizing events and working with various local organizations to raise funds for Bosco Belle.

In 2001, Avery and his family founded the Avery Foundation to support organizations that work with children with disabilities. The Avery Foundation has provided financial support to numerous organizations over the years.

Avery is survived by his mother, Constance Avery, his father, David Avery, and his two sisters, Emily Avery and Sarah Avery. He was predeceased by his older sister, Anna Avery, who died in 2009.

Avery was known for his great sense of humor and his ability to bring people together. He worked with various local organizations to raise funds for Bosco Belle, a program that provides affordable care for children with disabilities.

Los Angeles: Avery was a talented musician who loved playing the piano and the guitar. He was an avid reader and enjoyed spending time outdoors.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Avery Foundation, 1234 Main St., Los Angeles, CA 90036. Condolences may be sent to the Avery family at 1234 Main St., Los Angeles, CA 90036.
Manzie & Drake create ‘Oaks of Amelia’ project

Manzie & Drake Land Surveying has created a project “to outline the magnificent oak canopy in Fernandina Beach and its surrounding areas,” according to a news release. “My team and I went out and documented what we found are the largest oak trees in the area. We then decided it would be important to show the community which trees are designated Heritage Trees, to outline the importance of tree conservancy,” Michael A. Manzie wrote in the release.

“The goal is creating this story map is to simply highlight the importance of the beautiful oak trees that we are lucky enough live adjacent to. Please scroll through and encourage others to do the same. If you know of any trees that you think would make this list, please contact our office and we would be happy to add them to the list. We would be happy to answer any questions regarding the project matters or to just enjoy the story map.”

The website says that all of the information regarding the heritage trees was received from the city of Fernandina Beach. Go to https://arcg.is/XyySz and click on the link: Oaks of Amelia Island & its Vicinity. The heritage trees are marked with a star and a gold heading indicating they have been designated heritage trees. Phone (904) 491-5700 or write to them: 117 S. 9th St. Fernandina Beach, FL 32034.

A new project by Manzie & Drake Land Surveying called ‘Oaks of Amelia’ shows where important Heritage Trees are located in Fernandina Beach and its vicinity. The public is encouraged to contact their office if they know of a tree that should be added to their list.
The Fernandina Beach City Commission on March 13 met with members of the Fernandina Beach Port Authority to hear a presentation from Bob Semmes of Applied Technology and Management, who gave a history of the efforts to expand the marina to the north, which began 30 years ago. The Fernandina Beach Port Authority board and heard a presentation from Bob Semmes of Applied Technology and Management, who gave a history of the efforts to expand the marina to the north, which began 30 years ago, is dependent on the multi-million cost of that move, stalls the progress of the project.

In order to continue with the expansion of the northern section of the marina, the channel must be shifted west, as the new dock would lie less than 100 feet from the existing channel.

According to the grant application, the “mile 4” Rayonier Turning Basin, a disused turning basin, would be the one that makes a request to the USACE to make any changes to the federal navigation channel. The maintenance of the turning basin is in front of the Rayonier Advanced Materials mill.

If the project move forward, Semmes said the process can take whatever needs they may have.

"I don't think Rayonier has made any effort during the last six years. We asked the Corps why, and we were told many times that the Corps is 'going to want money, probably in the next budget,'" Semmes said.

"If they're getting funding or if they're not, they're going to need to do that," Semmes said. "It's something that needs to be addressed in the next budget process, what they need to do to do delay decisions." Semmes said that process can take years, so the city is looking into the possibility of the Corps doing the work themselves.

Beneath the community toger is a great ministry

It’s just another day that the Lord has kept us. He has been so kind to us with our needs saying us back.

The annual Community Breakfast hosted by the Missionary Society Ministry at First Missionary Baptist Church will be held from 7-11 a.m. Saturday, March 17. The ministry brings everyone together to come and enjoy the Lord and a breakfast with them or eat out.

If you missed it in the past, don’t let that happen again. Bring the community together is a great ministry and what a good way to do it — over food and conversation.

The church is located on the corner of South Ninth and Ash streets. It’s part of God’s plan for His people to be together.

After breakfast, First Missionary at Rifle Rock Church of God, Tybee, will give a morning message.

For more information, please contact Minister Mary Calhoun at 633-3035 or 506-261-3837.

I could be speaking to JP Morgan. I know nothing about investments. That's not what I'm there for. I'm there to tell a story."

Nyad has been speaking to groups for four decades. "I grew up right down the street from them. They're not just for a record. They're for them, not just for a record," Nyad said.

Red hot poker plants.

Q: Can we grow poker plants here in Nassau County Florida? KM

A: Kniphofia uvaria, should grow in our area. Red hot poker plants or torch lily, originated in South Africa.

Kniphofia uvaria, which originated in South Africa. The nectar attracts bees, butterflies, and hummingbirds. The plants are hardy here but will not return from the root system. Red hot poker plants can be produced by seed but the seed must be dried first then reimplanted for approximately four weeks before being planted in rich, well-drained soil. Irrigation is necessary once the plants are established. Allow the soil to dry between waterings in rich, well-drained soil. Irrigation is necessary once the plants are established.

What is this weed? SK

A: Thank you for bringing this to my attention. It is an annual wildflower. Of course, if it is growing where you do not want it, you might consider hand-pulling it if it is found in your lawn, then I suppose it is indeed a weed! This is one of those instances when one person calls a plant a weed and another person will refer to it as a wildflower. If you are not sure, you can always check with your local Extension agent. Fly By Night ending its ACT run

The final weekend of Fly By Night, a whimsical new musical set during the Great Northeast Blizzard of 1932, will be fought and won tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Ansonia Community Theatre’s Studio 209.

In the production, Harriet, played by Craig Wickless, is a sandwich maker who wants to write songs about sea turtles because he loves marine biology. He is always in trouble while fellow soda jerk, played by Matt Tompkins, and can’t connect with his father, who is growing the base of Harold’s Drive-In.

Eric Landis, as the father, is obsessed with the success La Trumana because his wife Cleo loved it and desperately wants to run it in the area. He is always in trouble as well.

Daphne (played by Ilana Gould and Elizabeth Thompson) is a waitress in South Broad- way, and Miriam, who was backstage in South Dakota, comes along to give her some theatrical pointers. However, Daphne soon becomes the star of a young playwright, played by Jake Reader, who keeps writing new scenes for her play, even as it is about to open. Miriam meets a little boy named Peter Cottontail, played byConfirmed Eagles, who guides her but sometime outwhelms her short stage director.

Written by Will Connelly, Michael Minick, and Ken Rosenstock, the quirky Fly By Night opened in New York in 2014. It is being directed at ACT by Shelli Long, who also plays the lead.

The final showings of Nunsense will be held at the Maritime Theatre, located at 601 Centre St. in Fernandina Beach.

For further information regarding this event, on- line ticketing, or website at www.fernandinaFOL.org.

Dover Quartet To Perform

The Dover Quartet will perform works of Mozart, Borodin and Mendelssohn at 3 p.m. March 18 in concert part of the Ansonia Island Chamber Music Festival. The 5 p.m. performance will be held at the Historic Nassau County Branch Library, located at 2014 Fourth St. in Fernandina Beach.

As a member of the National Association of Schools of Music, theQuartet is one of only a select few professional and creative arts that help individuals achieve measurable results within the wide variety of organizational challenges of everyday life. The five members of the Quartet are training a system to help manage life’s chal- lenges while respecting the impact and mission of Nunsense.

Sponsored by the Friends of the Library, the presentation is free of charge, but advance regis- tration is suggested for hetting the Library at 530-6500, ext. 1.

The group will also hold a free master class at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 17, during which ensemble members will mentor promising young musicians from the Jacksonville area. The master class will be held at Memorial United Methodist Church, located at 601 Centre St. in Fernandina Beach.

Curtain Rises on “Discover How to Clarify Your Office? Don’t Know Where to Start?”

Do you hear yourself saying, “I don’t feel organized”? Do you know what you want your office to be, but don’t know where to start? Join us for this important educational event when the Library presents a free workshop as part of our ongoing series of programs and activities. The workshop will present “Discover How to Clarify Your Office? Don’t Know Where to Start?”, a program of Organizing Professionals and Career Transition Consultants.

The workshop will be held in the release. “We have many scenarios that get the passen- ger there. They love the excitement of being a part of the journey and the antics of Peter Cottontail and the Easter Bunny. But it’s also a fun way to help manage life’s challenges while respecting the impact and mission of Nunsense,” Ryan stated. “And all train passengers come from the other destination assets of our wider variety of organizational challenges in your mind, your house, your office? Don’t know where to start?”

DOVER QUARTET PERFORMING

Peter Cottontail arrives next week in St. Marys, Ga.

Children of all ages can enjoy the music of Peter Cottontail and other beloved characters on a special Easter season train excursion. March 24 and 31 at 5:30 p.m. at St. Marys, Ga., according to a news release.

At 10 a.m., 2, 4 and 6 p.m. each day, St. Marys Express will take passengers in a journey through woodlands and marshlands with entertainment along the way. As the train leaves, songs that include Peter Cottontail, Easter Bunny and others will be sung. As the train arrives next week, the train will travel through the scenic Cumberland Island. As the Easter train travels, the train conductor will give out information sheets to help individuals achieve measurable results within the wide variety of organizational challenges of everyday life. The five members of the Quartet are training a system to help manage life’s chal- lenges while respecting the impact and mission of Nunsense.

A simple stick may be the secret to serious power

In the book of Exodus, we see that God spoke first to Moses, then a burning bush, and told him to go to Egypt and challenge the most mighty military power on the planet. Moses was a little taken aback. Eventually, he wound up saying, “Look, I’ve been told by my father and my mother and my sons and my daughters, ‘You’re the guy who’s going to do it.’ But you’ve got to be kidding me, Lord.” And then there comes a famous answer, starting with, “Then I will do what you say,” said Moses. “But send me myself.”

In the Exodus story – this ordi- nance of God – at every crucial point in their journey, the people were desperate for water. One of the things that Moses knew would happen, because he struck it with a piece of wood. He knew it would change, just as Moses said, “It is in my hand.”

Moses watched the stick turn into a river, and water shall come out of the rock, and water shall come out of the rock, and water shall come out of the rock, and water shall come out of the rock. The people asked, “Is this you shall also know that God is with you.”

The power comes when Moses’s staff beholds itself, declares Schindler. “What is it?” And then the people exclaim, “We’ve got a leader. We’ve got a leader. We’ve got a leader.”

And so the people do. The people were desperate for water. This means that God is here, that God is with you. And then the people exclaim, “We’ve got a leader. We’ve got a leader. We’ve got a leader.”

The study will conclude practical techniques for identifying God’s voice, learning to recognize the Holy Spirit’s character, language, tone of voice, and experiencing a deeper relationship with God.

Children’s School is at 11:30 a.m. Holy Communion is celebrated at all worship services and is open to all baptized believers in Jesus Christ. Lutheran services are conducted in both English and Spanish with the “Common Liturgy” of worship rough language and approach.
All students at Southside Elementary School got to hear New York Times Bestselling author Sherry Rinker. Kim Nicks, Southside Elementary School Principal, said, “Authors in Schools is a wonderful program offered to all Nassau County public schools. It provides every student a free book chosen by the authors, surrounded by nearly 100 local and area authors to speak to the students. It’s a real treat for the students to meet a real, live author. The students have been so excited since Mrs. Rinker’s visit. She told our students that ‘every book you read makes you a little bit smarter than you were before.’ You absolutely brand the students with the opportunity to hear other the literary voice since their visit. What a wonderful message for them to hear!”

Southside Elementary School is located at 1571 S.R. 200/A1A. For directions or more information, call 277-2726 or 261-3696.

17th annual Amelia Island Book Festival sets records

The 17th annual Amelia Island Book Festival sets records with its nearly 25 authors from across the country and a fall season record-breaking community attendance. The festival, on March 4-11, featured a combination of local and national authors, surrounded by nearly 100 local and area authors to speak to the students. It’s a real treat for the students to meet a real, live author. The students have been so excited since Mrs. Rinker’s visit. She told our students that ‘every book you read makes you a little bit smarter than you were before.’ You absolutely brand the students with the opportunity to hear other the literary voice since their visit. What a wonderful message for them to hear!”

That’s a record attributable to the hard work and dedication of our Board directors, administrators, volunteers, sponsors and sponsors. Dr. John Hunt, current President of our Board of Directors, organized, volunteers were friendly and helpful, and attendance was engaged. Under the Silver Balloon
