When Lynne Carr asked if their actions were legal, the complaint continues, her estranged husband Billy Carr, and unspecified damages from the incident in December 2011.

He stated that searches had already been conducted and was back at her Mexico Beach residence. She was threatened with arrest and instructed Lynne Carr to return to the scene of the incident in December 2011.

Additionally, Lynne Carr is suing the city for abuse of power, and is also individually suing Garnier and Richards for the same charges.

In addition, Lynne Carr is using her husband for abuse of process.

The Star Staff Report

The Wewahitchka Medical Center hosted a day of service to the community last Friday with a Health Fair that welcomed over 38 attendees.

There were 18 vendors on site that offered free services that included blood pressure, blood glucose, oxygen, body mass, vision, and hearing screenings. Attendees met with medical professionals, current and medical assistants to collect information and answer questions.

Immediately following, WMC held a separate Health Fair for families and children.

Polly stocked school supplies were given to 150 attendees that included crayons, pens, pencils, a notebook, folder eraser, and ruler.

Gulf County EMS, and Wewahitchka school and Volunteer Fire Departments were on hand with a fire truck for the kids to climb.

Refreshments for the event were provided by Emerald Coast Credit Union and Panama City Open MFG.

5 myths that misinform our efforts to slim down

I reduce you the trouble of listing all the dietary fads and fashions that we have been told will lead us to slenderness. I will just concentrate on a few that I have seen advertised or written about. They may not all be correct, but they do offer a useful framework for discussion.

Myth 1: Gaining weight is unhealthy

Recent studies have suggested that gaining weight over time can lead to obesity and a variety of related health problems. While this is true, it is important to keep in mind that weight gain can also be a normal and healthy part of the aging process or can be a result of changes in lifestyle. For example, weight gain can be a response to stress or a decrease in physical activity. It is also important to consider the context in which weight gain occurs, as rapid and excessive weight gain may be more concerning than gradual and controlled weight gain.

Myth 2: Exercise is essential for weight loss

Exercise is indeed essential for weight loss, but it is not the only factor. A balanced approach that includes a healthy diet and regular physical activity is necessary for achieving and maintaining a healthy weight. Exercise can help burn calories, increase muscle mass, and improve overall health, but it is not a substitute for a healthy diet.

Myth 3: Fasting and dieting are effective for weight loss

Fasting and rigid dieting can lead to short-term weight loss, but they are not sustainable long-term strategies. These approaches can be dangerous and lead to a rebound in weight gain, as well as other health problems such as malnutrition and hormone imbalances. It is important to focus on sustainable weight loss strategies that are both healthy and enjoyable.

Myth 4: Weight loss is more effective when it is rapid

Rapid weight loss can lead to a higher risk of regaining the weight lost, as well as other health problems such as malnutrition and hormone imbalances. It is important to focus on sustainable weight loss strategies that are both healthy and enjoyable.

Myth 5: Weight loss is most effective when it is achieved through extreme measures

It is important to focus on sustainable weight loss strategies that are both healthy and enjoyable. This can include a combination of healthy eating, regular physical activity, and behavior modification.

In conclusion, it is important to approach weight loss with a balanced and healthy perspective. Exercise and diet are important, but they should be part of a broader lifestyle approach that includes other factors such as stress management and overall health.

First brush with higher education

Port J. Joe may very well become the next Destin and become very prosperous and that is not a bad thing, but I wonder if it is worth the price we will pay for that prosperity and who will really be the ones prospering from these changes.

Library thanks woman’s club

Dear Editor,

To the Editor: When I read the article that Mr. Scott Lindsey wrote in The News Herald about the Destin Library, I was really pleased. Mr. Lindsey is a true friend of the library and a supporter of our community. He has been a long-time member of the library and has been involved in many activities, including the Destin Women’s Club.

Progress worth the cost?

Over the last few months I have had the pleasure of being in a group on Facebook discussing the various new ways of living in the Destin and Dania area. I have learned a lot about the opportunities and challenges of living in this area.

The speed of the freight train has brought many changes to our area. We have seen an increase in tourism, a rise in the cost of living, and a decrease in the availability of affordable housing. These changes have had a significant impact on our community, and it is important for us to consider the costs and benefits of these changes.

In conclusion, I believe that the progress we have seen is worth the cost. While there have been some challenges, we have also seen many opportunities for growth and development. It is important for us to continue to consider the costs and benefits of these changes and to work together to ensure that our community is able to continue to thrive.

Bowhunting field day for internet course in Bay County

Special to The Star

The Florida Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) is sponsoring a bowhunting field day in Bay County on Aug. 24.

In 2011, the Commission started hosting these monthly events and has taken and finished the online portion of the instruction.

Instruction is from Aug. 15-20 and can be taken at www.FWC.gov/Bowhunting.

LL

The purpose of this class and course is to provide advanced instruction to bowhunters so they can be prepared to engage in bowhunting as an activity in the field.

In addition, participants should dress to sweat and bring their own archery equipment, including bow, arrows and a bow bag, field points or target points, pen or pencil and a penknife or screwdriver.

Those interested in attending this course can register online and obtain information about bowhunting classes at MyFWC.com or by calling Hunter Service Center at 888-486-8377.

Bowhunting is a sport that can be enjoyed by people of all ages and abilities. It is a sport that promotes physical fitness and teaches valuable life lessons.

Caldwell and his family will reside in the state of Maranhao, northeast Brazil. The state is 2 degrees south of the equator. Working with LINCUP Missions, Caldwell will part of “Project Living Water” in a village of the Quilombola people. During the centuries of the slave trade, Caldwell said, for every slave ship bound for America there were two ships destined for South America. The Quilombola are descendents of those slaves and a distinct people living in government-established villages — akin to Native American reservations in this country, Caldwell said — in remote areas of 23 of Brazil’s 26 states.

Each village consists of roughly 50-75 homes, Caldwell said, and they typically are run in part by a witchdoctor and isolated from the rest of Brazilian society.

The Caldwell’s adventure here is something they are making a very conscious choice to do something different, Caldwell said, but one they hope will make a difference.

“My life was changed when she went to Brazil,” Caldwell said. “You can’t go to a Third World country and not be changed. It’s her decision. I didn’t want to drag her along here. My boys were not ready.”

Cheryl, however, had been homeschooled by Cheryl, connected to the team by Caldwell as he worked with the Rapahel Football League to youth soccer.

As they embraced soccer, Caldwell said they have been “very intentional” in the goals they have set for the Caldwell family. And while they have had limited success so far, Cheryl and her boys have been very committed.

“Their home is on the beach,” Caldwell said. “It’s a small house on a dirt road with indoor plumbing, provided by LINCUP Missions. They have been very successful. We are praying the project this summer and fundraising will become one part of their lives. The family will spend six months a year, from May to the end of November, in Brazil and November to April in the United States to travel to churches and other organizations, showing a light on the Quilombola people and Project Living Water.

“We will be coming back right after Thanksgiving this year, so that we will give us a chance to learn the language (Português), learn the culture and immerse ourselves in the culture. That is the adventure.”

Anyone wishing to donate funds to the Caldwell’s efforts with Project Living Water can email Caldwell (lawscape@yahoo.com or visit the LINCUP Missions page on Facebook.

“This is a season of the game of soccer,” Caldwell said. “Brazil is the center of the soccer world. They are very excited to go down and play soccer. They developed that love here on our own. We feel now that was their stepping stone. In April we had a family trip, and the boys said let’s just do that and shut up about that. That was a pivotal moment.”

“The boys, Caldwell added, also owned an opportunity for more quality time with dad.

Kayla, with a chance to continue her schooling at Florida State College in Jacksonville, has de- cided to remain stateside.

Caldwell called the decision the “right” one.

Billboards at the St. Joe Company have been “very supportive” of the family’s decision to go. Caldwell acknowledged that some friends and co-workers have wondered, “Are you sure?”

“There is some anxiety about getting everything done we need to get done.” Caldwell said “We know we made the right decision.”

“Our lives here are planned out for us. We are embracing that adventure of what life will give us. We don’t have a plan B. We know it won’t be easy but you are committed that this will be our life. This is an adventure.”

“...we are praying that this will become one part of their lives. This is an adventure.”

The Caldwell’s were “very intentional” in the goals they have set for the Caldwell family. And while they have had limited success so far, Cheryl and her boys have been very committed.

“This is a season of the game of soccer,” Caldwell said. “Brazil is the center of the soccer world. They are very excited to go down and play soccer. They developed that love here on our own. We feel now that was their stepping stone. In April we had a family trip, and the boys said let’s just do that and shut up about that. That was a pivotal moment.”

“The boys, Caldwell added, also owned an opportunity for more quality time with dad.

Kayla, with a chance to continue her schooling at Florida State College in Jacksonville, has de- cided to remain stateside.

Caldwell called the decision the “right” one.

Billboards at the St. Joe Company have been “very supportive” of the family’s decision to go. Caldwell acknowledged that some friends and co-workers have wondered, “Are you sure?”

“There is some anxiety about getting everything done we need to get done.” Caldwell said “We know we made the right decision.”

“Our lives here are planned out for us. We are embracing that adventure of what life will give us. We don’t have a plan B. We know it won’t be easy but you are committed that this will be our life. This is an adventure.”

“The Caldwell family are living in Brazil, host soccer. Football League to youth soccer. They developed that love on their missions. They have been very successful. We are praying the project this summer and fundraising will become one part of their lives. In Brazil and November to April in the United States to travel to churches and other organizations, showing a light on the Quilombola people and Project Living Water.

“We will be coming back right after Thanksgiving this year, so that we will give us a chance to learn the language (Português), learn the culture and immerse ourselves in the culture. That is the adventure.”

Anyone wishing to donate funds to the Caldwell’s efforts with Project Living Water can email Caldwell (lawscape@yahoo.com or visit the LINCUP Missions page on Facebook.

A brief history of the Port of Port St. Joe

The town of St. Joseph was formed by a group of wealthy promoters who thought it could compete with Apalachicola for the export of large cotton crops from Georgia and Alabama, as well as other locally-produced commodities such as naval stores and lumber.

The port was the growth engine for Old St. Joseph, and a growth engine it was. In a few short years after establishing the town, the port of St. Joseph started to expand to a population of over 12,000 people and became the largest city in this new territory. The city was so charming and well-known that in 1872 it hosted an assembly of statesmen for the purpose of establishing a state constitution.

The late 19th century and its port however had only a short existence. In the summer of 1874 a ship sailed from Cuba into the port of St. Joseph. Along with its cargo, a passenger selected with a disease transmitted primarily from the islands of the Caribbean. It was the dreaded disease, yellow fever, and it quickly spread throughout the town. Within a short month, the town was all but deserted. That year alone some 2,500 people died from the disease.

The town of St. Joseph never recovered from the loss it sustained during that epidemic or yellow fever. The long docks and the waterfront buildings that once dominated the shore line began to deteriorate from lack of maintenance and use. It wasn't long, however, before they were completely destroyed.

From the historian David Cox. "In September 1874, a hurricane struck St. Joseph, destroying much of what remained of the community and driving a good many of the last inhabitants away."

Except for occasional small supply ships in and out of the port, the natural deep water port of St. Joseph was deserted and undeveloped until around 1842, the sea shore along the period between 1832 and 1842 was docked at St. Joseph. The nearby harbor was naturally deep water that has remained so to this day. It was easily competed with the first Port's existence.

Stem scholars explore careers

Through the Florida School Science Scholars Project (FS3P) and Florida Learns STEM Scholars Project, young students are encouraged to explore STEM careers and, later in life, pursue them as their careers.

The goal of the FS3P is to create a stronger pipeline of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) professionals. The project is focused on serving gifted and talented students in grades nine through 12 who reside in the small and rural school districts served by hECEC, EEC, and NEFEC. The project aims to increase access to rigorous STEM courses, provide collaborative problem-solving experiences and explore what students already know about STEM careers.

PSJ Elementary School changes times

Summer is almost over and the time to prepare for school again. There are some changes in grade level at some home changes in times.

Open House is from noon to 1 p.m. July 31 for all parents who can afford should come to the administration so that a short introduction of which time and the new expectations. After that, parents can visit the classrooms and meet the teachers.

The school day begins promptly at 7:30 a.m. When means students should be in the classrooms ready to work at that time. Gates will be locked at 7:15 a.m. in order to accomplish this. If your child arrives after that time, he or she will need to check in through the front office, and the student will be dismissed at that time.

After the first week of school, kindergarten parents should return from entering the classroom and find their child. Drop them off at the classroom to make it the class by themselves. Parents of children in grades one through six should not need to walk your children to their rooms. They areacknowledged, trusted and sign-out your child in the classroom. By dismissing them early, it should help provide some relief for congestion in the hallways. Remember to bring a go-lunch if they do not eat school lunch. In the mornings, check them out early if you do. Every minute of instruction is vital to their education.

Coping with betrayal explored at Lifetree Café

Spaced to the Star
Clarence Monette of Port St. Joe was elected to serve as Supreme Vico Chancellor at the 67th Annual Session of the Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias and the Supreme Court of Odd Fellows held in Tampa on July 19-21.

As Supreme Vico Chancellor Monette also serves as head of the Order of Calathus; the women's auxiliary of the Knights of Pythias; and as Supreme Worthy Counsellor.

At the 47th Biennial Banquet, Monette was favored with the presentation of a plaque designating him Grand Chancellor of the year. The plaque was presented by Sir Donald Austin, Supreme Duke of the Orders of Pythias. Monette was also reappointed Chairman of Education for the Supreme Lodge and Chairman of Scholarships for the Pythian/Calathus National Education Scholarship Committee.

The Knights of Pythias, one of the oldest fraternal organizations in North America, was founded in 1854, and dedicated to universal peace and goodwill and the practice of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence. Pythians are also dedicated to creating strong communities through a wide range of social service projects.

Celebrate summer with Psalms at FUMC

Spaced to the Star
How to cope with betrayal will be explored at 7 p.m. CT on Monday, Aug. 12 at Lifetree Café.

The program, titled “Betrayed,” features a short film of a man who dealt with his wife’s extramarital affair.

Lifetree representatives Craig Craig said the program offers help for those who’ve faced betrayal in a marriage, a friendship, or a work setting.

Admission to the free event is free. Snacks and beverages are available. Lifetree Café is located at 1616 U.S. Highway 98 in Mexico Beach across from El Governor Motel.

Lifetree Café is a place where people gather for conversation about life faith in a casual coffeehouse-type setting. Questions about Lifetree may be directed to Gary Gribbs at 334-800-5867 or bible@lifetree.net (event.

Jesus, head of the church

Jesus is the head of the church, the only way to heaven above. We’ll be lost and doomed to hell, but for our Savior’s love. We are redeemed by His blood, if only we believe.

Our sins are cast away and His pardon we’ll receive. We’re redeemed by His blood, if only we believe.

We’d be lost and doomed to hell, but for our Savior’s love. Our sins are cast away and His pardon we’ll receive.

When you know the truth, the rest is up to you.

When you read the word, I pray you get the message there.

If you need more proof, you can read it in God’s word.

Our sins are cast away and His pardon we’ll receive.

When you know the truth, the rest is up to you.

If you need more proof, you can read it in God’s word.

Our sins are cast away and His pardon we’ll receive.

When you know the truth, the rest is up to you.

If you need more proof, you can read it in God’s word.

Our sins are cast away and His pardon we’ll receive.

When you know the truth, the rest is up to you.
