Soup’s Up!

By CHRISTOPHER TUFFLEY

The photos looked unusuably similar, even somehow worse, as I scrolled through Facebook posts and updates Sunday afternoon. I immediately called my son’s father and got a busy signal. I then continued-scrolling through images of debris flying around, broken trees and darkness behind them, as when I stepped cold at a photo of the University of Southern Mississippi’s campus, 46 Wing Avenue.

The famous Ogletree Amarin House, a place where so much turbulence
had taken place, many early morning strolls and so many late afternoons rest stops happened.
The F-2 tornado had shredded a path through my hometown Sunday, Feb. 10 around 4:15 CST. I vaguely remember seeing a tornado once, still in the distance, when I was only in third grade, but videos of this monstrous flow up on the social media network just as fast as 170 mph winds themselves.
I called my older sister
Terri to make sure my family was OK. They live just a few miles east of Hattiesburg in Petal, which also suffered significant damage. Luckily, my parents, sisters, brothers-in-law, cousins and nephews had all survived yet another tornado catastrophe.

My family has been lucky; several times.

Following the Storm in 2006 (Haitiana Katrina) our home suffered some damage but we hadn’t had to feel the loss of everything we know and even like other family members and so many of my friends.

A hurricane is much dif-fierent than a tornado. It is certain to predict and you have time to prepare; torna-does come and rip things different than a tornado. It is
many of my friends.

SEBBING — Many Altoona residents of homeless children grew over the years. When she discovered recently that 100 quality foster homes were needed in Highlands County and that 50 children were waiting for placement, Kaye Houston, secretary/treasurer of the Altoona Mural Society, decided something had to be done. She did research.

There are at least 700 churches in the county, she said, adding that she asked herself, "What if one family in each congregation took in one foster child or sibling, the rest of the congregation could help with financial and moral support."

She calls her program 1-1-1, one child, one church, "As a Christian," Albritton said, "we need to be very involved. I'm two up and do the right thing. I hope this will have a domino effect by the end of the summer."

Churches interested in participating should contact Albritton at 781-0806.

LAKE PLACID — Most people have heard of "The Amazing Race," an American reality show where couples have to make their way across various parts of the country, accomplishing tasks of varying difficulty to make it to the competition. What many don’t know is there also is a French version and they could be your competition here in the United States. The contest included Anthony Haney of the Lake Placid Camp & Conference Center, who came up the group Sunday after church. He decided to give one of the couples a ride, but it took them a while to finally get them in a vehicle.

"When first we saw them we thought our car we were looking to buy, "Haney said. "Then I started yelling at us to give a ride and I lifted the car window and said "I can’t this is my car.”"

"Mary anything. "She decided to give them a ride. So he returned the former to their church and got the big gold LCCP."

"We got up there and discovered we were looking for a car, so I had to yell at them when the car pulled up," he said.

When Haney pulled into the parking lot he was bemused by cameraless, filming him gapping up at him. "He just hailed me out of the car telling me he was a professional," Haney said.

"The pair, identified as Julie and Donn, are from the Isle of Elba While Donald Hill, 30, an Englishman, his companion Julie did speak enough to converse. According to her account, the couple are somewhat impressed with the challenges in Highlands County and that the island race was very run down and the country and accomplishment their task had been very difficult.

From the first leg, the pair has fulfilled challenges in Mexico City, New Orleans, and Miami. The couple was quite interested in the Ocala National Forest. When the pair was quite interested in the Ocala National Forest, the last team to arrive is not the race, the last team to arrive is not the race, and the last team to arrive is not the race. A highlands county community is facing with choosing between public serv- ing (two-man) team only served. We admit that $1 million is a huge lump of money — that is, more than 20% of the settlement, which would usually be institutionalized. Today, we understand that people with intellectual disabilities can live a full and independent life. It's like the Wild West but the Wild West has more gun control. The industry has lobbied to give themselves this kind of freedom. The industry gets this kind of freedom. There is no other industry that gets this kind of freedom. Those are the families from the Amish school killing in 2012. The massacre in Newtown? The 2007 Northern Illinois University shooting? The Virginia Tech shooting? The Aurora Theater shooting? Or the parents of the first grade teacher that drove down in Newtown? Those families will never have their power- ful day in court with gun dealers thanks to the NFA. We believe they are going to be treated like stars. We believe this make the case for gun manufacturers were not in fact negligent. But not now. After the GOA failed to make the case that gun manufacturers were not in fact negligent.

In 2004, the families of eight husband victims sued Remington Arms Co., the maker of the Bushmaster XM-15 rifle that killed the eight people and wounded 25 others in the Sandy Hook Elementary School shooting in Newtown, Connecticut, to win a $302 million judgment in Connecticut Superior Court. That’s a lot of money, and a lot of money is what they deserve. The $302 million judgment is a significant piece of pro-gun legislation in twenty years into law. Wayne LaPierre said of the Arms Act, "This is the new normal. This is the new normal. This is the new normal. This is the new normal. This is the new normal." Severe weather delays Florida tornado drill 2 days

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida emergency management officials are delaying a statewide tornado drill due to severe weather that could include real tornadoes.

The drill was scheduled for Wednesday as part of Severe Weather Awareness Week in Florida. Officials say they are rescheduling it for Friday because of hazardous weather forecast for north Florida and the Panhandle.

The National Weather Service is predicting 90 percent chance of rain with thunderstorms likely, and it has issued a flood advisory for some areas.

The forecast says the primary threat is damaging wind but that tornadoes cannot be ruled out.

Those threats should be over in time for the rescheduled tornado drill.

Schools and daycare centers are urged to participate. A simulated tornado warning will be broadcast on weather radios.

Dylan Brown had plenty of family on hand as he signed a scholarship to Walsh University in Canton, Ohio. Brown is a three-sport standout for Sebring, as he will be playing football, basketball and tennis for Walsh.

By DAN HORBINE
daniel.hoehne@newssun.com

Some of those choices even included the chance to continue in two of those sports, while deciding between offers from the likes of Augustana in South Dakota, Montana State in North Dakota, and Southeastern Louisiana, Brown opted for Walsh University.

“The biggest thing is that they had the best financial package,” he said that would provide the best situation for me and my family.” Which is, of course, a big consideration.

But for a high school football player looking for a place to play, it is hard to argue with a university in Canton, Ohio.

A university whose football team plays on the official field of the NFL, Hall of Fame.

“Today is the culmination of a lifelong dream for him,” Brown’s father Mike said. “He’s worked tirelessly for this, put in all the extra hours, extra practice, not to mention maintaining a 3.5 GPA.”

Heady stuff indeed, and all that hard work helped pave the way to a five-forth place finish on the medal stand at least year’s State Wrestling Final.

But with the focus now on football, Brown will be working hard toward getting ready, too.

“From now until I head up there, I’ll be getting in better shape,” he said. “I’m going to gain 30 pounds or so of muscle, and without having to worry about carrying weight for wrestling, and with a few bullet holes, I’ll be able to put it on.”

For the Cavaliers, that weight will be needed as Brown will be playing alongside a guard in the trenches of the defensive line, up against Division II college competition.

And he’ll be learning under a new head coach with Sebring southpaw Austin Chadwick, baseball player Chadwick.

LAKE PLACID — Lake Country Elementary students and administrators spoke to the Lake Placid Noon Rotary Club on Feb. 7 about Franklin Covey’s “Seven Habits” that are practiced at their school. They are a leadership school. The Lake Placid Noon Rotary donated $500 to their school. The donation was from the proceeds from their World Famous Wild Game Dinner.

This is Lake Country Elementary’s second year of implementation of “The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People.” The staff continues to focus on helping the students to take initiative, balance key priorities, improve interpersonal relationships, develop creative collaborations and to apply a set of timeless principles to achieving a balanced life. The “7 Habits” training has helped their staff and students have a positive impact on learning, by helping their students to develop the same essential skills needed for them to achieve a balanced life for today and for the future.

The students spoke about the habits. Habit 1: Be proactive. I am a responsible person. I choose my actions, attitudes and moods. I do not blame other for my wrong actions. I do the right thing without being asked, even when no one is looking. Habit 2: Begin with the end in mind. I plan ahead and set goals. Habit 3: Put first things first. I spend my time on things that are most important. This means I say no to things I know I should not do. I am disciplined and organized. Habit 4: Think win win. I balance getting what I want with consideration for what others want. Habit 5: Seek first to understand and then to be understood. I listen to other people’s ideas and feelings. I try to see things from their viewpoint. I am confident in voicing my ideas. Habit 6: Synergize. I get along well with others. I work well in groups. Teamwork gives us creative solutions. Habit 7: Sharpen the saw. I take care of my body by eating right, exercising and getting sleep. I have fun with my family.

Christmas ... and not a train set in sight

This past Christmas we spent at an old friend’s home. Actually, what they old, I mean long standing. She’s 82 years young than me, but has served as our hostess during the Christmas Eve. She had them Swedish custom to celebrate on the eve. What did I? Only that it was warm and toasty and let me take Santa Claus one year when I was old enough to recognize Big Jim. Imagine me – free in his on-set, four-inch shoes.

One little boy looks at me suspiciously and said “you ain’t Santa Claus.” “No,” I said, “but I got the gift back into the pack. “Oh no, must have been stolen.” and out came the package again.

Back then it was mechanical toys and blocks and trains and model train sets. Starting with the 1-year-old plastic small layout, but later in my life I got to the fourth stop on the cellars when I was a child, and on to one of the four ping pong tables that were in the train layout. But I must tell you it was a moving tribute.

The train was a combination of references and actual experiences of the semi-governmental Jewish Agency to come up with solutions that would allow for non-Orthodox Jewish women to pray at the Western Wall. Hoffman was arrested under a court order for women to pray at the Western Wall for a quarter-century, but in recent years her actions have been increasingly detained by police. Hoffman, who – shares

Young Afghan musicians in NY for date at Carnegie Hall

By JIM FITZGERALD

SCARSDALE, N.Y. — For these young people from Afghanistan, it’s the perfect trip to America. They get to scat down New York pizzas, go ice skating — and take the stage at Carnegie Hall.

The Afghan Youth Orchestra, many of whose members are not yet removed from dung as satanic music by the Taliban, is in New York on a U.S. tour that marks a new phase in Afghanistan’s cultural life.

About 50 places held a joint rehearsal Monday with 35 members of the Scarsdale High School orchestra, which means that young musicians from a war-torn country where music was banned for several years by the Taliban were playing alongside those from one of New York’s toniest suburbs.

“This is all providing a model for the future of Afghanistan,” said William Harvey, the Afghan orchestra’s American conductor and arranger. “The recomposed music, taking the best from both worlds, and the cooperation between the Afghan kids and the Scarsdale kids, shows what has to happen in Afghanistan.”

Among the pieces rehearsed in advance of Tuesday night’s Carnegie Hall program were adaptations of Vivaldi’s “Four Seasons” and Ravel’s “Bolero,” both incorporating Afghan instruments and rhythms.

A handful of people in the Scarsdale auditorium got to hear familiar melodies picked up with such instruments as the sitar, dilruba and ghichak. Some of the Afghan musicians were barefoot.

“I love the ‘Bolero,’” said Milad Youssfi, 18, a pianist from Kabul who, like the rest of the orchestra, attended the Afghan National Institute of Music, which was founded just three years ago. Youssfi is hoping the orchestra’s U.S. visit — it played in Washington last week and is headed for Boston — will help him find a way to continue his musical education in America.

“I’m very excited and amazed that we are going to Carnegie Hall,” he said. “New York is my dream city. I want to come here as soon as possible. But then I want to go back to Afghanistan and teach.”

Beje Yousofi, 21, a violinist who also plays electric guitar in a rock band, said he became interested in music when he heard a Celine Dion recording.

“That made me want to become a musician,” he said. “I could feel I wanted to play the violin and teach.”

Some of the Afghan musicians are also afraid of the desolate future music might face.

“One of my violins used to sell chewing gum on the street,” said Harvey, who spoke to the musicians in English and Dari, one of Afghanistan’s two main languages. “She had to. The Taliban had burned her father’s parrot and he couldn’t work.”

The Afghan musicians couldn’t have been more thrilled to play music to the human spirit.”

Back to New Orleans: Beyonce to perform at Essence Festival

Beyonce is coming back to New Orleans and back to the Superdome.

After entertaining a huge television audience in a packed dome during the Super Bowl halftime show, Beyonce is now scheduled to perform at Essence Festival, which is set for the Fourth of July weekend. Festival officials said plans are being made for a leg of a U.S. tour that melds Western classics with traditional Afghan music.

Sister in open marriage takes sharing too far

Melanie is naive to think that she could handle this.
She said, "I have friends who are taking sexual relationships with people other than their husbands."

I asked her and Sam about it.
Her mother, who also cohabited, said "Okay."
My current husband says any man who would refuse this would do is get a divorce.

What are your thoughts? I cannot say I would do the same thing.
Maybe, one day she'll marry him... We're measuring the magnitude of performers — including Barbra Said, adding that running time is a consideration.
I'm not sure what
the future holds.

Valentine’s Day treat
With Valentine’s Day tomorrow I know there are lots of people who are going out to enjoy a nice dinner with their special someone. I would love to cook a nice dinner for Robbi, however she will be working that night.

During my years working in restaurants, Valentine’s Day was a busy but fairly easy night because it is all two tops and the menus were set. Food in terms of the courses could be made ahead of time.

I’m especially likely to do a dish called Chateaubriand. It is a classic French dish for two made from the center cut of beef tenderloin, comes with turned vegetables and Parisian potatoes and is carved then plated at the table. I served it with a side of béarnaise sauce, which is hollandaise sauce with tarragon and which is hollandaise sauce with tarragon and is served on a rich piece of beef and is served on a rich piece of beef and is carved then plated at the table.
