TOM LAWSON DOES A GREAT ADVERTISING STUNT

He Reaps a Golden Harvest...He Certainly Knows the Value of Newspaper Publicity.

On the fifth day of last week's advertising campaign for the Bay State store, Mr. Tom Lawson began his story to the police department, his advertising was so cleverly presented; his copy a masterpiece of the art; his copyman a genius at his craft. The Daily Globe said it was the best advertising that has appeared in the city for many months. It was a splendid copy, full of life, and it captured the attention of everyone who read it. The copy was printed in large, bold letters and the headline was eye-catching. It was a masterpiece of the art.

SARTORIAL DILEMMA.

Mr. Lawson, the owner of the Bay State store, sat in his office and read the copy. It was the best advertising he had ever seen. He knew that if he could get the public's attention with this advertisement, he would be able to sell more goods. He immediately called his staff and told them to get the advertisement printed. It was the best advertising he had ever seen. He knew that if he could get the public's attention with this advertisement, he would be able to sell more goods. He immediately called his staff and told them to get the advertisement printed.

A LITTLE ONE SIDED.

An Exchange of Prose That Was Not Slightly Unnecessary.

John Smith, a lawyer, was discussing a case with his client, Mr. Jones. Mr. Jones was a wealthy man, and he wanted to make sure that the case was handled properly. He asked Mr. Smith if he could provide him with a copy of the advertisement. Mr. Smith was happy to oblige, and he gave him a copy of the advertisement.

NAPOLITAN'S HABITS.

The Great Warrior Was Fed of Puffs and Cigars.

Mr. Napolitan was a great warrior, and he was known for his bravery. He was a great fighter, and he was always ready to defend his country. He was a great man, and he was always ready to defend his country.

Mr. Napolitan's habits were well known. He was a great smoker, and he was always seen with a cigar in his hand. He was a great fighter, and he was always ready to defend his country.

TOLD BY THE THUMB.

Mr. Thum, the President of Reading, knew that he had to be careful with his copy. He knew that if he got the public's attention with his advertisement, he would be able to sell more goods. He immediately called his staff and told them to get the advertisement printed. It was the best advertisement he had ever seen. He knew that if he could get the public's attention with this advertisement, he would be able to sell more goods. He immediately called his staff and told them to get the advertisement printed.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

To the Voters of the County of Florida:

It is hereby notified to all voters of the County of Florida, that the election will be held on the second Tuesday of the month of November, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Thirty.

The Ballot:

Each voter shall be entitled to cast one vote for each office for which candidates are nominated.

The Polling Places:

Polling places shall be declared by the proper authorities.

The Count:

The votes shall be counted by the proper authorities.

For further information, please consult the official election laws of the State of Florida.