A COSTLY JAG
Gave Away Secrets That Cost Him $200,000,000

INTERVIEW HISTORY OF MEN WHO OWNED THE MONOPOLY

Bob Womack discovered gold on Cripple Creek. After years of prospecting, $10,000,000 was won. The fortune was lost.

The story is one of the most remarkable in Colorado mining history. How it happened is told by Mr. Womack, the discoverer of the gold.

"On a eternity," Mr. Womack said, "at an elevation of 11,000 feet above sea level, the gold was discovered." The gold was worth $250,000,000 at the time it was won.

HOW THE LORD BROUGHT GOOD OUT OF EVII

(Works for the Gold Banquet).

Two weeks before the gold was discovered, Mr. Womack was competing in a race with four other men. One of the men was a competitor, and he made the gold worth four times as much as when it was won. The man died, and the gold was lost.
