

Twenty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY, on the 15th of last month,
A NEGRO CARPENTER, named
SAMPSON,

About 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, young, likely, and well made, flutters a little sometimes in speaking; he has for some time past been working at his trade in this city; he can dress hair and shave, waited on the subscriber in St. Augustine, Philadelphia, and Charleston, some years ago, but was then not grown up; he ran away from Charleston in the year 1786, and was taken up and lodged in the gaol of Georgetown; he may attempt to go to one of those places. Masters of vessels are cautioned not to take him off. Whoever will apprehend and deliver the said Negro man to the subscriber, or secure him in the gaol of Charleston in South Carolina, shall receive the above reward.

Savannah, May 8, 1793.

N. W. JONES.

N. B. If he returns of himself soon he shall be forgiven.
