Control: Bank of England Notes.

The following relaxation on the import of sterling notes into the United Kingdom has been announced.

"From 30th September, 1954, Bank of England notes of £10 upwards and Bank of England notes of £5 dated prior to the 2nd September, 1944, all of which have ceased to be legal tender (but have remained payable on presentation at the Bank of England) may be sent by post from any territory to a banker in the United Kingdom for collection. None of these notes has a metallic thread such as appears in current £5 notes.

Notes should be despatched at the risk of the owner to the usual banking correspondents in the United Kingdom of the owner or of the owner's local bank. Authorised Banks are being given authority to credit the proceeds of notes forwarded from outside the Scheduled Territories to the type of account appropriate to the country of the remitter.

The position of all other Bank of England notes remains unchanged. The prohibition on the import of sterling notes (other than the notes which are sent under this relaxation and except notes carried by travellers to the value of £10 per person) remains in force."

The notes covered by these arrangements should not be taken to the United Kingdom by travellers.
No. A. C. 24/44.

Crown Land Applications

Applications in connexion with Crown lands are notified in the Gazette for the purpose of giving any person an opportunity of making any representation to this office in relation to any such application.

Such applications will be inserted in at least three separate issues of the Gazette before they will be dealt with by the Governor, so that applicants must be prepared for this delay.

The undermentioned application is hereby notified.
