Community mourns in wake of tragedies

VERO BEACH — Handheld candles glowed in Riverside Park in Vero Beach last week during a solemn vigil to remember the lives of four women found dead allegedly at the hands of men in their lives.

The vigil was organized by friends of Vero Beach resident Diana Duve, a 26-year-old nurse at Sebastian River Medical Center, who was found dead in Melbourne, strangled and bruised on June 23, but also recognized Bridget Marie Feacher Music, 30, who was also found dead June 23, in a canal in Fort Pierce with her throat cut.

Two other recent domestic violence-related homicide cases on the Treasure Coast came to light the same weekend, including the June 22

Dogs for Life administration center complete

Obedience, service training classes coming soon

By Jessica Creagan

VERO BEACH — It has been a long time coming, but a local nonprofit with a mission focused on people and their furry best friends finally has a real headquarters.

Dogs for Life Vero Beach is certified to train hearing and mobility assistance dogs, as well as service dogs for military veterans with physical and psychological needs. Dedicated trainers also provide beginning and advanced obedience classes for the public. With the new administration and training center, more pets can be trained year-round, members said.

The new building is located on the site of the nonprofit’s off-leash dog park on 16th Avenue and 16th Street in Vero Beach. Previously, any training of animals and their companions would have to be done outdoors and was weather-dependent, or would take place in people’s homes, said Shelly Ferger, founder and executive director of Dogs for Life.

“Now that we are here in this building, we hope more people will see that we are available to many people, but the training that will be invaluable,” Ms. Ferger said.

Beth Stryker is a member of Dogs for Life and frequently brings her hearing assistance dog, a toy poodle named Tigger, to the group’s off-leash dog park for play time with other dogs.

Not only will the new on-site building provide indoor training that will be invaluable to many people, but the manner of Jessica Lashay Exantus, 22, stabbed to death by her boyfriend Tony Lamar Love, 25, of Riviera Beach, who surrendered to West Palm Beach police on June 23, and the June 23 murder of Grace Ann Assenza, 55, by her domestic partner Stephen Perdук, 50, in St. Lucie County. Mr. Perdук was arrested by the St. Lucie County Sheriff’s Office.

“All four of these cases have a common thread: domestic violence, which sadly has become an epidemic in our area,” said St. Lucie County Sheriff Ken Mascara in a press release.

In the homicide investigation of Ms. Duve, the Vero Beach Police Department has charged Michael David Jones, 31, Ms. Duve’s on and off-again boyfriend, with first degree murder.

Mr. Jones of 1620 42nd Square, Vero Beach, was first arrested by St. Lucie County Sheriff’s deputies on violation of probation charges, then was transferred to Indian River County Jail once the Vero Beach Police Department discovered enough evidence to charge him with murder.

Vero Beach Police Chief David Currey said Ms. Duve and Mr. Jones were last seen leaving a Vero Beach restaurant in the early morning hours of June 20, Ms. Duve’s last communication with her family indicated by text that she would not be coming home that evening.

Sometime that day, possibly within hours of that text, Mr. Jones struck her on her face and body and strangled her with his hands, killing her, Chief Currey said.

Around 6 a.m. on June 21, police believe Mr. Jones put Ms. Duve’s body in the trunk of her own vehicle, which he then drove to Melbourne, parked it, and called a taxi cab company to drive him back to Indian River County. He subsequently traveled to a Fort Pierce hotel, where he was arrested.

Law enforcement was able to track down Mr. Jones’ path through the weekend by using digital technology in his cell phone. When cell phones are used, they send signals to nearby towers and those signals, or pings, led law enforcement to the approximate area where Ms. Duve’s body was found and to where Mr. Jones was staying in Fort Pierce.

“This is a tragic case of dating and domestic violence by a weak, insecure, cowardly individual who felt the need to control his relationship with Diana Duve by way of verbal and physical abuse,” he said.

“Quite frankly, Michael David Jones disgusts me and is a very poor excuse for a man,” Chief Currey said.

Chieп Currey said Ms. Duve and Mr. Jones were interviewed by police on April 30 when a neighbor of Mr. Jones called about a noise disturbance. Mr. Jones attributed the noise to “rough sex” and Ms. Duve said everything was fine and that she was about to leave.

Ms. Duve apparently confided to friends that the neighbor’s call and police questions may have saved her from harm that evening, Chief Currey said.

The other case involving an Indian River County woman, Ms. Music, was handled by law enforcement from St. Lucie County.

Jacob Lee Music, 39, Ms. Music’s estranged husband, is incarcerated in St. Lucie County. For more information about the Vero Beach Police Department, or to hear news from the department, visit www.facebook.com/pages/Vero-Beach-Police-Department or www.vbpd.org.
Celebrating accomplishments

Once-homeless young adults persevere, achieve high school graduation

By Jessica Creagan
jcreagan@hometownnewsol.com

VERO BEACH — There was a party at the Youth Transition Center last week, complete with cake, balloons and tearful speeches, all celebrating seven residents who graduated with their high school diplomas.

For some, high school graduation is a time to celebrate with close family and friends that have seen them through all the report cards, tests, sick days and after-school circulars, but not all high school students have someone to stand by them, pat them on the back and say “well done, we’re proud of you,” said representatives of the Children’s Home Society of Florida.

Seven residents of the Vero Beach residential campus of the Children’s Home Society of Florida Youth Transition Center, achieved that step toward adulthood and higher learning when school ended this past spring semester, and members of the center’s board of directors, benefactors and employees held a small ceremony for the students to celebrate last week.

“They don’t have family to celebrate with, so that’s why we’re here,” said Matt Anderson, program director for the Treasure Coast division of the Children’s Home Society of Florida.

The Youth Transition Center is part of the Children’s Home Society’s program for homeless youth between the ages of 16 and 21.

Speed limit returned to 70 MPH on I-95 in St. Lucie County

For Hometown News

FORT PIERCE - The speed limit has been raised from 60 MPH to 70 MPH on all southbound lanes of the I-95 widening project from just south of Okeechobee Road (SR 70/Exit 129) to just south of Indrio Road (SR 614/Exit 138), Florida Department of Transportation officials report.

The speed limit along the I-95 construction corridor in northern St. Lucie County was initially dropped in early 2012 from 70 MPH to 60 MPH during major hauling operations to the median, and remained at the reduced speed in certain areas to facilitate bridge construction. Earlier this month, all northbound lanes returned to 70 MPH. As the widening work was substantially completed at the I-95/Kings Highway & I-95/Orange Avenue overpasses, the southbound I-95 70 MPH zone was extended throughout the project yes-

School supplies needed

By Jessica Creagan
jcreagan@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — For students out of school, it’s still the middle of summer vacation, but nonprofit organizations that work with them aren’t letting grass grow under their feet.

Now that it’s officially July, nonprofit organizations such as Operation Hope in Fellsmere, The Education Foundation of Indian River County and the Gifford Youth Activity Center in Gifford are beginning their collections for their annual school supply giveaways.

For families who are struggling to make ends meet during the rest of the year, the new items children require prior to starting school, such as new clothes, shoes, backpacks and miscellaneous supplies, can be overwhelming, said Jesse Zermeno, director of Operation Hope.

“I notice families, the parents have a hard time putting food on the table, and they don’t have to worry,” Mr. Zermeno said.

“We are asking the community to bless these families,” he said.

In Gifford, the story is the same, needy families can greatly benefit from the community’s help when it comes to getting off to a good start in August for school.

Both Operation Hope and the Gifford Youth Activity Center will hold special events to give away the physical supplies, while the Education Foundation of Indian River County is accepting financial donations that will be used to purchase the school supplies.

A $20 donation will help one student in need get a backpack with grade-appropriate supplies and will be distributed during school orientations and on the first days of school to economically disadvantaged students. The Education Foundation of Indian River County has a goal of 2,000 backpacks this year.

Common school supplies sought in the various drives include notebook paper, scissors, crayons, glue sticks, pencil sharpeners, rulers and folders.

Operation Hope’s backpack giveaway is scheduled for Aug. 9 at 1 p.m. on the Operation Hope campus in Fellsmere. Similar to previous giveaways, there will be food and entertainment onsite prior to the giveaway. “Backpacks are the No. 1 thing for us. For students from kindergarten through high school, for boys and girls,” Mr. Zermeno said.

Donations for Operation Hope’s drive are accepted at Operation Hope through the day of the giveaway. Donations can also be made to LoPresti Aviation and Vero Beach Presbyterian Church prior to the event, he said.

A date for the school supply giveaway at the Gifford Youth Activity Center was not available at press time, but will also be held in August, a press release said.

Donations for the Gifford Youth Activity Center “Back to School Bash” can be dropped off at the Gifford Youth Activity Center from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays or at the following locations within the community: Disney’s Vero Beach Resort, Piper Aircraft, Holy Cross Catholic Church of Vero Beach, Northern Trust Bank in Vero Beach, Living Lord Lutheran Church of Vero Beach, The Community Church of Vero Beach, Indian River Medical Center, Ocunla Bank in Vero Beach, the HESS gas station and Hometown Grocery in Gifford and the Indian River County transportation department offices.

Janie Graves Hoover said volunteers are still needed to physically help fill the backpacks before they are passed out in August.

“Contact Freddie Woolfork if you are interested in volunteering to fill the backpacks in August. It is always a fun and rewarding afternoon,” she said in an email.

Mr. Woolfork can be reached at the Gifford Youth Activity Center.

Learning the hard way

As we all know, Florida is full of retired ladies and gentlemen, so scammers crawl out of their holes. Their destiny should be that scammers scam other scammers and it would turn out equal.

I was scammed in a surprisingly reputable store. I was in a hardware store and a fellow was soliciting shoppers, asking if we would like to have a special they were running on an air-conditioner tune-up for just $19.95. I have a soft heart and thought, well this fellow probably gets some kind of credit, so I said, “OK.” I signed my death warrant!

Fruity creations a favorite gift

By Brittany Llorente
bllorente@hometownnewsol.com

VERO BEACH — Whether it is a celebration or for consoling, flowers have been a quick and easy way to let someone know you care.

While pretty to look at, the flowers will wither away and all you are left with is a vase.

Thanks to Edible Arrangements, getting a beautiful bouquet of ‘flowers’ is still possible, but now the bouquet is delicious and made with melon, grape, strawberries and other fruits.

Now, not only does the recipient of the bouquet get brightly colored fruit, but it is also a healthy treat.

Each piece of fruit is cut and crafted into a bouquet by Sue Pilot and her staff at Edible Arrangements.

After receiving a few arrangements, Ms. Pilot’s daughter Maggie DePaolis and her husband, Ed DePaolis, opened the Edible Arrangements.

Since its opening in January 2010, the business has been growing and gaining a reputation for the tastiest gifts in the area.

The bouquets are hand crafted for any occasion from offering sympathy or celebrating someone’s birthday.

The arrangements can also be personalized or include a cuddly teddy bear, a Mickey Mouse vase for the Disney lover, or any of the more than 100 different arrangements available.

For men, there are several sports vases including a golf ball, football and even a race car.

Ordering is also simple and can be made online, by phone or by fax. The bouquets are arranged at the closest location and can either be picked up or delivered. The Vero Beach Edible Arrangements delivers to Sebastian and Vero Beach. Depending on the time the order is placed, some orders can be delivered or picked up the same day.

The summer months may be slower, but that doesn’t mean that Ms. Pilot and her team aren’t busy. They just made it past their busiest season with the trifecta of Mother’s Day, Graduation and Father’s Day.

“Mother’s Day is our busiest day of the whole year,” Ms. Pilot said. “We create about 500 pieces during that week.”

For those who can’t let their sweet tooth escape them, Edible Arrangements offers a variety of dipped fruit.

One of their popular assortments is the Elegance Platter of chocolate dipped strawberries. Another cute creation is the Swizzled Mixed Fruit Chocolate-Tini, which features several dipped fruits, ‘swizzled’ in white or milk chocolate, served in a large martini glass, dusted in white chocolate and coconut shavings around the rim.

The more popular bouquets are the Celebration and the Delicious Fruit Design.

Some of the creations feature popular characters, including the popular Hello Kitty which has pieces of Hello Kitty pineapple pieces and a Hello Kitty container.

So while a bouquet of flowers is pretty, a bouquet of Edible Arrangements is both pretty and delicious.

Edible Arrangements is open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and closed on Sunday.

The store is located at 2046 Treasure Coast Plaza, STE C, Vero Beach.

For more information, call (772) 569-9808 or visit www.ediblearrangements.com/stores/2046-Treasure-Coast-Plaza-Vero-Beach-FL-32960.
Dogs

Dogs for Life members are also thrilled about finally having an indoor plumbing restroom at the park, Ms. Stryker said.

“There are a lot of good things about the training center. I think when you train dogs in a group, the dogs will watch what the other dogs are doing, and the likelihood of more of them getting it is higher. But I do know all of us who come here a lot are very excited about the bathroom,” Ms. Stryker said with a chuckle.

Generous donations made by individuals in the community made the construction of the building possible, even after a period where it looked like the nonprofit was going to have to fold, Ms. Ferger said.

“Right now the membership basically pays for the maintenance of the park, that’s all. We see the dog park as our thrift shop, a place where we can get funds to keep our mission of service dogs going,” Ms. Ferger said.

Individuals interested in joining Dogs for Life can purchase a one-month membership for $85 if they want to dip their paws in water, she said.

Dogs brought to the park must be inoculated, neutered and social, according to the Dogs for Life website.

Some people in Vero Beach enjoy recreational activities such as boating, golfing or going to their children’s sporting events, but others find their joy in recreational activities with their dogs, Ms. Ferger said.

“The dogs are their recreation and that’s why they are willing to pay for membership to the dog park,” she said.

Members know that dog owners are expected to be aware of their animal at all times, cleaning up after them and checking to make sure they play appropriately, Ms. Ferger said.

“If a pup’s obedience and interaction with others isn’t the greatest, perhaps enrolling in a Dogs for Life obedience class could help, she said.

The basic class includes instruction on teaching commands such as: sit, stay, come, heel and down, and further instruction on how to have a dog become a certified American Kennel Club “good citizen,” she said.

“All of the dogs we train, not just the service dogs, all of the dogs we train, we would like to see become good citizens,” she said.

The obedience class schedule is not yet available, but should be out within days of the Dogs for Life center soft opening on July 7.

With the new building, the Dogs for Life board of directors have also decided to add staff for the office and for the training side.

“It’s exciting for me personally because I have been training dogs in Vero Beach for more than 30 years, but it had taken a backseat with Dogs for Life. Recently, it had been all about campaigns, raising money for us to keep going,” Ms. Ferger said.

“I am really grateful to the board for hiring a new person so I can go back to what I do best, and that’s training dogs,” Ms. Ferger said.

The new training and administration center of Dogs for Life Vero Beach is at 1230 16th Ave., Vero Beach, which is the same address as the off-leash dog park. For more information about Dogs for Life Vero Beach, call (772) 567-8089 or visit www.dogsforlifevb.org.

Motorists must obey the posted speed limits, and the Florida Highway Patrol is actively patrolling the interstate. As a reminder, speeding fines are doubled in active construction zones:

* I-95 in Fort Pierce from just south of Okeechobee Road (SR 70/Exit 129) to just south of Indrio Road (SR 614/Exit 138);

* I-95 in Vero Beach from the St. Lucie/Indian River County Line to just north of State Road 60 (Exit 147);

* I-95 in Vero Beach from just north of State Road 60 (Exit 147) to the Indian River/Brevard County Line.

In September 2013, the speed limit remains at 60 MPH until Fall 2014 is as follows:

I-95 southbound and northbound lanes along the northern four miles of the 7-mile-long widening project that runs from the St. Lucie/Indian River County line to just north of State Road 60 (Exit 147).

Work on this construction corridor includes adding lanes on I-95 in each direction; removing old asphalt and resurfacing the existing lanes; bridge widening; bridge replacement; interchange ramp reconstruction; sound wall installation along residential areas; and landscaping, traffic signals and highway lighting improvements.

Cleansing viruses has become an almost daily task. Hardly a week goes by where I don’t have to go head to head with yet another infected system and it seems like I hear the same questions just about every time. I thought I would gather some of the most common questions that I hear and (without getting too technical) try to answer them here.

First question: why do people take the time to create these things in the first place?

Well, outright theft is one reason. The rogue antivirus epidemic that has been going on for some time now makes a first attempt right off the bat to trick the end user into giving up the credit card number with the false promise of fixing an infection that doesn’t exist yet. Some viruses forward SPAM at an exponential rate by using infected systems as relays and one of the most widespread viruses will actually conscript your machine into a vast “zombie” army called a “Bot-Net” which then uses your infected machine running typical software there are certain security exploits that viruses will look for if you are connected to the network. Also, you don’t have to go anywhere unseemly to run into an infected advertisement.

Next thing to consider is that new viruses are released daily but it can often take an antivirus company several days to come up with a definition leaving all of us vulnerable in the meantime.

And finally; how can I keep my system safe in the future?

Use an antivirus that works and make sure it is updating itself daily. Then keep your operating system up to date as many security holes are patched in the updates. Don’t load up on multiple security programs! More is not better; most security programs are bloated and they all expect to be the “final authority” on what goes on in a machine. They don’t share that responsibility easily and often will “cancel each other out.” One antivirus along with the operating system’s built in firewall is fine.

Be wary of any pop ups that appear claiming that you have infections or Registry Errors. No, you don’t want to clean them and no their program is not there to help you. Press “ALT+F4” to close the window or kill it with the task manager. Clicking in the pop up can possibly trigger an exploit.

Well, that’s just a few of the questions I get asked all the time, I know there are more. I hope I answered them to your satisfaction. If you have more questions or need clarification on something, email me; I’ll be happy to answer.

ages of 18 and 23 who have aged out of the foster care program, or who have been turned out of their family homes. The facility opened in Vero Beach in 2010 and can house up to 20 individuals at one time in apartment-style living arrangements, but also has space for non-resident individuals to be trained by life coaches and mentors on life skills, such as job hunting and budgeting.

Four of the seven graduates were able to attend the party, while three others had conflicts with jobs or education classes.

Carl, Amanda and Patricia all graduated from Vero Beach High School, while James graduated from Port St.
Lucie High School.

James, who has been a resident since January 2013, said he never imagined he’d be homeless, but he also never imagined one day he’d be homeless, since January 2013, said he never imagined one day he’d be homeless, even though his residency changed territories.

The law, called the McKinney-Vento homeless education assistance act, was a lifeline for James. Without it, he doesn’t think he would have been able to handle the stresses and challenges of school and living away from home and still graduate.

“Starting a new high school when I’m about to be a senior? Starting a new school is tough already,” he said.

James currently has a job and will be taking business management classes at Indian River State College this summer and fall.

Another graduate, Amanda, is planning on attending Valencia College and working in library while seeking a job as a flight attendant.

Patricia is interested in pursuing a career in the military and one day teach on a military base. Eventually, she wants to work with exceptional education students.

She is investigating the volunteer process of the Hibiscus Children’s Center in Vero Beach while she is still in town. She envisions coming back to the Youth Transition Center one day to share her story with future residents.

“I will never forget this place,” said Patricia, a resident since February 2013.

The third Vero Beach High School graduate present at the celebration, Carl, said he was very grateful for the opportunity the Youth Transition Center has given him, not only to continue studying to get his high school diploma, but also to help find work and to save money.

Driving his own shiny, black Camero is Carl’s dream and he is another step closer to that dream by having the support of the living program since September 2012.

Janet Baines, a longtime and generous supporter of the transition center and a board member, gave each of the graduates a personal note and gift and urged them to keep on learning and growing, even from circumstances and choices that weren’t ideal.

“I might have learned more from my mistakes than anything else,” Mrs. Baines said.

Sabrina Barnes, executive director of the Children’s Home Society, praised the graduates and challenged them to do the hard thing — never give up.

“It’s easy to give up, what’s hard is to get up the next day and try something again, and the next day, try again. Life is about getting up the next day and trying again,” Ms. Barnes said.

Of the three remaining graduating students, some, but perhaps not all, graduated through an accredited online education course, Smart Horiszons, Mr. Anderson said.

VERO BEACH — Lighthouse Art and Framing located at 1875 14th Avenue, Vero Beach will host the Hibiscus Children’s Center’s Annual Indian River County Advisory Board Summer Social, July 19 at 5p.m. In support of Hibiscus’ important work with children at risk, they will be raffling off donated original art the evening of the event. Raffle tickets are $3 each or $20 for a group of five tickets and are available for purchase all month at Lighthouse Art and Framing or at Hibiscus Children’s Center. Food and beverages will be provided by local food vendors, including Blue Agave Tequila Bar.

As an added special attraction, 8shikabbibes hand crafted boutique clothing will be hosting a trunk show at the rear of the store and will donate an item for the raffle.

In the main gallery, the annual Light-house Student Show will feature works by many of the young art students taking classes at Lighthouse as well as members of the Wednesday night Open Studio group. They will be joined by young artists from the Hibiscus Children’s Center. All of the works in the exhibit will be for sale.

July is the perfect month to turn inward and focus on the Vero Beach community, for bringing residents together and rallying around a good cause.

This will be the third annual Student Art Show at Lighthouse and next month the gallery will feature the third annual Salute to Art Teachers exhibit.

For more information contact Megan Hosts at Lighthouse Art and Framing or Monica Cheslak at Hibiscus Children’s Center at 1145 12th Street, Vero Beach (772) 299-6011 ext 314.

Sandwiches paired with freshness, quality

By Brittany Llorente

VERO BEACH — When it comes to freshly sliced meats and cheeses on a wonderfully prepared sub, there is a superior choice. SUBperior Sandwiches sets themselves apart from the competition by priding themselves in perfectly crafted subs, sandwiches and salads, and delivering a taste above all others.

During the day, Meredith and Steve Rich, owners of SUBperior Sandwiches, make sure every hungry body that comes through the door leaves full and happy. The menu is incredible, with selections or any appetite or diet. Every customer is greeted by the family-like staff and more than likely, by first name. “We get to know everyone,” Mr. Rich said. “We have the same customers who come in and they’re all good people.”

All subs are served on a choice of either white or wheat bread. The premium subs are the best of the best in the sub world. The Super Supreme and the Super Steak are favorites on the menu by sheer value and content. The Super Supreme is a signature sub with turkey, ham, capicola ham, roast beef, salami, pepperoni and cheese. The sandwich is massive. I had the half portion and it was more than filling.

The bountiful layers of each meat were perfectly complimented by the incredibly fresh vegetables. The lettuce was crisp, the tomatoes freshly sliced and the pickles were a wonderful addition. There are plenty of other toppings available, including See SANDWICHES, page 14

A half order of the SUBperior Subs’ Super Supreme sub. The sub features turkey, ham, capicola ham, roast beef, salami, pepperoni and cheese with additional toppings to each customer’s preference. Also pictured is a side of pasta salad.

Sandwiches
banana peppers, onions, cucumbers, black olives, jalapenos, roasted red and green peppers, mayo, mustard, spicy mustard, ranch, honey mustard, house vinaigrette, salt, pepper, oregano and parmesan cheese.

Premium toppings include mushrooms, extra cheese, bacon and extra meat.

I also tried the hot pastrami, one of the specials of the week. Though it is not always on the menu, the popular sub is in high demand when available.

“The minute we mention that we have the Hot Pastrami or any of our special subs on Facebook, we have people coming in and looking for it,” Mr. Rich said.

It was no wonder that the Hot Pastrami is a favorite. Piled high with pastrami and melted cheese, it is definitely a sub to look for.

My guest’s sub was the Super Steak, a sub that he orders every time he goes to SUBperior Sandwiches.

It is loaded with steak, bacon, mushrooms, onions and peppers, with a choice of cheese. My guest’s choice was the cheese sauce.

With each bite of each sub we tried, freshness was the key to the taste.

“A lot of (the flavor) has to do with the bread,” Mr. Rich said. “Everything is fresh, hand cut and hand sliced. All the meats and cheeses are hand sliced every day.”

Though the subs are the heart and soul, there are also salads and sides including mouthwatering pasta salad and coleslaw.

For Mr. and Mrs. Rich, the shop is a home away from home.

“We are here all the time, my kids live here,” Mr. Rich said.

He was quickly followed up by Mrs. Rich, saying that they were grateful that they have a place like this, and here we are.

Sometimes the couple’s children, Jake and Josh work on the weekends and Mr. Rich’s father, Warren, works on the weekends and Mr. Rich’s son, Josh, works on the weekends.

For Mr. and Mrs. Rich, the shop is a family restaurant, where even the customers feel like family.

Several of the frequent customers have brought in decorations for the shop making it a scrapbook of memories. Everything that hangs on the wall has a story, whether it is a drawing, some Lego figures or the boats and pictures.

The family hopes to build more memories with more customers in the shop as they keep up with the demand for their amazing subs.

One week in March they made 564 sandwiches. Each one of those subs was made with the promise that you will come back for more.

SUBperior Sandwiches is located at 308 Old Dixie Highway, Vero Beach.

Their hours of operation are Monday to Thursday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. They are closed on Sunday.

Contest to discover who has the most beautiful toes

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

PALM CITY — Do you have the most beautiful toes in North America? The makers of America’s only unbreakable VacPortT built in dust pan with LED illumination is sponsoring a contest to find beautiful toes to feature in its VacPortT advertising. Known for its innovative designs and outstanding engineering, InterVac Design has revealed the first ever sweep inlet valve that doesn’t require a spring to operate the mechanism. “It’s unbreakably simple and so easy to open and close you can use your bare toe to operate it,” said Peter Schlapkohl, the inventor of the new VacPortT. Because VacPortT is unique, Mr. Schlapkohl’s company, InterVac Design Corporation is looking for the Most Beautiful Toes in North America to star in ads for the VacPortT.

“If you think you have the Most Beautiful Toes in North America, send a photo or video of your toes and we may select your toes to be in our advertising. We’ll fly the person we think has the Most Beautiful Toes in North America to South Florida for a weekend stay complete with a photo shoot and dinner with our interVac Design CEO,” added Mr. Schlapkohl.

Details about the Most Beautiful Toes competition and how to submit your beautiful toes photos or video can be found on the interVacDesign website at www.intervacdesign.com under the News section of the site. Entry deadline is Aug. 1.

Improvements at PGA Village make golfing enjoyable

When I first moved to Port St. Lucie, back in the mid-1980s, the place was buzzing about St. Lucie West Country Club. Opening in 1988, it was one of the first up-scale clubs that the public could get onto without being a member.

The PGA of America purchased the club when it built the PGA Village in 1995 on the west side of I-95. The club name was first changed to “The Tradition.” This name lasted all of a couple months before “PGA Country Club” became the name it holds today.

In the years after the PGA of America purchased the club, course conditions deteriorated. The small greens even smaller. Fairways and greens were overrun with weeds and other grasses not meant for the course. To put it nicely, the agronomy at the club was marginal at best.

In the fall of 2012 the PGA of America decided to renovate its private country club. The clubhouse would be updated. New paint, flooring and furniture, even new plates, glasses and more were purchased. Saying “good bye” to the 80s and in AM after 12:00.

I didn’t hit the ball all that well, but I had chances to recover and save par. I didn’t know a member or call in a favor. The course was in great shape. The fairways are firm and fast and those new greens are something as they are about perfect.

Now for the best part. Over the next month and change, the PGA Country Club is open to the public again. With the Dye and Ryder Courses at the PGA Village closed until the second week of August, there was a serious need to find tee times for the golfers who depend on the PGA of America’s facility to play and hone their game.

For a limited time, you can enjoy the old St. Lucie West track without having to know a member or call in a favor. The course is in great shape. The fairways are firm and fast and those new greens are likely to make many courses jealous.

One recent trend in course renovation is where the areas around the perimeter of the holes are cleaned up and thinned out. Not having thick clumps of palmettos to gobble up slightly errant shots serves a pair of purposes. First, it speeds up play and, second, it makes for a less frustrating round for the average golfer.

Years ago, when I last played PGA Country Club, the greens were quite small, the fairways very narrow and the palmettos were plenty. Now the greens are a tad larger, the fairways are still narrow, but the palmettos and other scrub are missing. While this helps in most areas, there are still a few spots where I would have preferred the old look.

Some of the homes and adjoining tee or fairway areas that used to be hidden from view, now catch your attention. The entire area between the ninth green and tenth tee has been completely thinned. The palmettos that used to shield someone on the 10th tee from a wayward shot, as well as block the noise from groups on that tee opening beverages and bags of chips, from bothering those on the ninth green are gone. While I appreciate being able to find your ball much easier, I think it hurts the definition of the ninth hole.

In most other places, I welcomed the new look. I didn’t hit the ball all that well, but I had chances to recover and save shots. That’s something you would have not been able to do here just a year ago. If you walk off the 18th green at this course with a lot of fairways and greens hit, you had a very solid ball-striking round. If you missed a fair share of fairways and greens, chances are you found some brutal bunkers and some plusher rough to hit from.

PGA Country Club features five sets of tees playing from as short as 5,049-yards to as long as 6,591-yards. Water or wetland areas come into play on at least a dozen holes.

If you remember the Country Club from back in the day and have wanted to see just how it has evolved, now is your chance.
