For Hometown News
newlyt@hometownnewsmediagroup.com

FELLSMERE — Daisy Rios, secretary at Fellsmere Elementary School, has been selected as one of the top five state finalists for the 2019 School-Related Employee of the Year.

Mrs. Rios was chosen out of 71 district-level candidates throughout Florida. On May 16, school staff, students, teachers, and administration at Fellsmere Elementary School surprised Mrs. Rios on with cheers and excitement from hundreds of excited supporters.

In January, Mrs. Rios was chosen as Indi- an River County School District School-Related Employee of the Year. She then completed a state packet, which included letters of recommendation, a superintendent nom- ination letter, a statement of the nominating committee, continuing education or training courses, and commendations.

Mrs. Rios was interviewed by the district selection committee, and her supervisors submitted rating forms and supporting doc- uments as evidence of her contributions to students, school, and the district.

"What an honor to be chosen as one of the state finalists for Employee of the Year!" said Mrs. Rios. "This was completely unex- pected and a wonderful surprise! I am extremely proud to represent Fellsmere Element- ary, the surrounding community, and all our amazing teachers and staff in Indian River County. I am thankful for being rec- ognized among such an amazing group of educators and employees."

Principal Ramon Echeverria of Fellsmere Elementary School said "Today was nothing short of epic for Daisy Rios, our school, and our community. We are extremely proud to have Mrs. Rios represent our school and dis- trict as a state finalist for School-Related Employee of the Year. She is a great example of positivity, authenticity, and the impor- tance of human connection for everyone that enters our school."

"Daisy Rios represents the best of Fellsmere Elementary," said Superintendent Dr. Mark Rendell. "This school and commu- nity are intertwined and, as a former student and now employee, Daisy is an illustration of this. Not only is she an incredible employ- ee, she is also an incredible person. We are very fortunate to have her on our team. We are excited that she has been recognized as a state finalist."

Mrs. Rios will soon travel to Tampa to attend the State Board of Education meet- ing, where she will learn if she has won.

Meet Onyx
Onyx is a one-year old neutered male brown tabby mixed breed cat who came to the Humane Society in April. Onyx is energetic with a capital E. He is playful, especially enjoying the dragonfly wand toy. In his former home, he even played with the dogs! Onyx is also very affectionate, willing to sit in your lap and cuddle. He would love for you to come in and check out the softness of his fur. If you want a feline who plays hard and cuddles well, Onyx is the gem you’re seeking!

Meet Carson
Carson is a four-year old spayed female orange tabby mixed breed cat. She came to the Humane Society in April as a stray. Carson LOVES people; other cats, not so much. She tends to hang out in a corner or behind a cat bed, popping into view when someone enters the room and talks to her. She is very friendly, and she loves being petted or brushed. Carson is happily contented sitting by your side, hip to hip. If you’re up for some company, this gorgeous girl will gladly fill the bill (and a spot on your couch)!

Regarding “Most Voters agree to raise taxes for schools”

I was very pleased to see the results of the vote concerning increased funding for schools, and specifically for increasing the salaries of local teachers. I come from the olden days when teachers may not have been paid very much but at least they were respected members of the community.

Fast forward to today, when teachers need to know so much more than the teachers of the early 50’s, and it is obvious that they need to be paid more for their increased expertise and wider range of responsibilities. In addition, they need to be treated like the Professionals they are.

I could not help but notice, toward the end of the article, the statement by the Education Association President that local citizens have been voting to tax themselves more in order to support public schools, which one might think is a controversial subject by the way the legislature approaches it. Indeed, the article notes that the legislature lags far behind citizen support for local public schools (and is in fact directing tax money more and more toward “Charter Schools” etc.)

What that mismatch of priorities indicates to me is that the legislators are NOT reflecting, or even paying attention to, the values of their constituents, whom they are supposed to be representing.

Another example being the current push by the Legislature to prevent “Returning Citizens” from exercising their right to register and vote as was upheld overwhelmingly by the voters in the 2018 elections. An older example was the way the Legislature fought to keep the Gerrymandered districts which support their constant re-election from being made more representative which happened way back in 2014. I know people’s memories are short, but it is another example of the will of the people being ignored by the people which their votes put into positions of power.

I do not understand why voters keep putting the same people back in office every year and then often find themselves in disagreement with those elected officials. Do they not understand that they can vote for someone else who might actually care what they want and strive to represent the will of the people and not the will of the Special Interest groups?

Should Pit Bulls be euthanized?

First I would like to give my sincere condolences to the family that lost their mother by a dog attack at the Humane Society. Recently, I have visited both of the Humane societies in Ft. Pierce, including Indian River and Palm city. I was shocked by how over run all the Humane Societies are by these pit bulls and other aggressive large dogs. There would only be three or four small dogs and the majority of them adoption was already pending. Years ago I easily adopted two small dogs at the Ft. Pierce Humane Society the same day I visited. No one can adopt pit bulls if you’re a home owner for liability reasons nor do people want these dogs because their dangerous. My dad’s dog was killed by pit bulls. I have never seen anything like it in my life at the shelters. I even asked them “What the heck is going on?” Why all these aggressive dogs and no small dogs available.” So I’m going to say it like I feel. Pit bulls, need to be euthanized and a law in place that prohibits breeding any type dangerous dog. No more breeding hearts for large dangerous dogs period. These dogs are loving one moment and will turn on you in a second.

Not participating in food drive

After several years of leaving canned food out by my mailbox in a plastic bag for the post offices’ annual food drive and having the mail carrier refuse to take the food each time, I will no longer participate in the food drive.

Kudos to the Social Security Office

I am giving a great big kudos to the Port St. Lucie Social Security Office. We went in two weeks ago as there was a typo in my husband’s first name (yes, check your information, carefully. The typo probably occurred when he became Medicare eligible). We did arrive early as we could not get an appointment. The entire process took less than half hour. In at 9 a.m. and out before 9:30. We received the new Social Security card exactly one week later, and his new insurance card four days later.

Talk to any seasoned computer user and you’ll find that “copying and pasting” is a regular technique. It is used to move data from one place to another, even from one program to another. Many users would be lost without this powerful ability.

Repetitive tasks, such as filling in fields on forms, can be quickly streamlined by borrowing or “copying” data that has already been typed somewhere in your computer and inserting (or pasting it) wherever you like. Even Windows elements, such as icons, shortcuts, files and folders, can be moved around using copy, cut and paste.

The glue that holds the whole thing together is called the clipboard and this is the part that throws most people. That’s because the clipboard is hidden behind the scenes and you rarely ever see it. Since it’s invisible, you have to take it on faith that something is really happening when you copy. That’s where most people have trouble.

When you copy something to the clipboard, there is no obvious indicator that anything has happened until you go to paste, and then “pop,” whatever you copied to the clipboard pops into place wherever you paste it, sometimes minutes (even hours) after copying it.

There are actually three commands associated with this process: copy, cut and paste.

Cut and Copy are very similar with one difference. When you copy something to the clipboard, the original item stays put. But when you cut something, the original item actually deletes from its original location when you finally get around to pasting it.

This brings us to the third command: paste. Once you have a bit of data copied to the clipboard, whether it’s text, pictures, files, folders, icons or whatever, you can insert that data wherever you want just by clicking paste.

Even though you can copy and paste from different parts of Windows, there are some rules that govern the whole thing.

For instance, you can’t copy and paste icons and folders into programs. In other words, you can’t copy your My Documents folder and paste it into a Word document. It just won’t work.

You have to keep within loose boundaries. Copy text and paste it into areas that normally hold text, such as word processors and form fields. Copy graphics and paste them into places that usually manage graphics, such as image editors. Copy files, folders and icons and paste into places that support files, folders and icons, such as disk drives, folders and your desktop.

So, how does it all work? Let’s run through a quick scenario.

Let’s say you just downloaded an important .pdf file which the system automatically saved it in your downloads folder but you want to properly file it in your documents folder.

Or maybe it’s a picture you’ve downloaded and you want to move it to your pictures folder, either way it’s pretty straightforward. First you need to get to your downloads folder and find the file. On Windows machines you would click the little manila folder icon (File Explorer) on the taskbar and then look for the Downloads folder in the left hand window pane of the File Explorer window that just opened.

Next click the Downloads folder on the left and the contents of that folder should show on the right. Find the file you want to move and “right click” it. A menu should open with the Cut, Copy and Paste options. Click Cut or Copy. (If you want to move the file you would click Cut. If you click Copy then a copy of the file will be left in the downloads folder when you’re done.)

Now this is where people often get confused because it appears that nothing has happened. Have faith. The menu where we clicked Cut disappears and we’re back at the Downloads folder but a copy of whatever we just clicked is now in the clipboard.

Next we want to find an appropriate folder in the window pane on the left - “Documents” for things like .doc and .pdf files, “Pictures” for .jpg’s etc.

When you find the destination folder, right click it (the folder!) and then click “Paste” in the menu that pops up. Again, nothing appears to happen but when you open that folder (double click it) you should see the file you were trying to move.

Another way to access the commands is with “hot key” combinations. CTRL+C is copy, CTRL+X is cut and CTRL+V is paste.

Those shortcut keys are often available, even when there is no menu or any command to click.

FPC String Orchestra places first in competition

VERO BEACH — Teens with the First Presbyterian Church of Vero Beach String Orchestra won First Place with Superior Distinction in the Music in the Parks Competition held May 11 at Universal Studios, Orlando.

The orchestra consisting of 26 talented young string musicians headed to Orlando the night before to enjoy an evening at Medieval Times. On Saturday morning at Tohopekaliga High School, they played Serenade for Strings by Tchaikovsky for three judges. They were given the rest of the day to experience the Universal Studios and Islands of Adventure theme parks.

That evening, the group headed to City Walk, an area between the main gates to the two parks, to attend their awards ceremony on the main stage. They found the judges were impressed with their performance. They received an overall score of 97 out of 100.

The group won First Place overall with a Superior Distinction, the highest award given. After celebrating on one last rollercoaster ride, they headed home to display their trophy proudly in the Gietz Music Suite at First Presbyterian Church.

Jacob Craig, Director of Music and Arts at First Presbyterian, said “The trip was just outstanding. We really felt like we achieved a closer bond as a musical group and enjoyed our time so much that none of us were ready to go home at the end of the day. Overall it was a fantastic experience.”

The group is fundraising for a mission trip to South Africa in November. There, they will play music during workshops and performances.

The FPC Orchestra performs in the 11 a.m. service each Sunday at First Presbyterian Church, 520 Royal Palm Boulevard, Vero Beach. For more information, contact Ginger Lagemann, Music and Arts Administrator, at (772) 562-9088 or Ginger@first-presvero.org.

Would the City of Port St. Lucie please open a homeless shelter, preferable at the Civic Center on US1? It is a public building directly on the bus route, has restrooms with showers, and could be easily staffed with volunteers. There is a serious homeless problem in Port St Lucie - especially in St Lucie West. Homeless people are camping out at the 24 hour SLW Walmart and living in the McDonalds in the store, riding (and sleeping on) the buses and even one living out his car in the parking lot of CareerSource Research Coast on University Blvd.

Many of the homeless are veterans so veteran services could also be provided – since the VA is now offering mental health services to dishonorably discharged vets. Instead of ignoring the problem and pretending it doesn’t exist, please address it. The homeless problem is growing in Florida.
Fertilizer bans take effect June 1

By Mike Winikoff
mwinikoff@hometownnewsmediagroup.com

TREASURE COAST — From June 1-Sept. 30, it is illegal to fertilize your lawn anywhere on the Treasure Coast.

While there are some exemptions for specific businesses like golf courses and farms, and there are a few fertilizers that are safe to use during the summer, the general rule is to simply avoid fertilizing for a few months.

The purpose of the ban is to protect the Indian River Lagoon from the harmful excess nutrients that get washed from your lawn during the rainy season. The law also regulates what types of fertilizer can be used and when.

Fertilizer bans take effect June 1-Sept. 30, it is illegal to fertilize your lawn anywhere on the Treasure Coast.

1-Sept. 30, it is illegal to fertilize your lawn anywhere on the Treasure Coast.

Indian River County’s ban, which took effect in 2013, largely mirrors local ordinances adopted earlier in Fellsmere (2011), Vero Beach (2012), Sebastian (2012), Indian River Shores (2012), and Orchid (2013).

St. Lucie County passed its ordinance in 2014. The city of Fort Pierce has a similar ordinance, as does Port St. Lucie.

In 2021, Martin County’s ordinance took effect in 2011, amended and strengthened in 2014. The city of Port St. Lucie has a similar ordinance, as does Fort Pierce. Both were passed in 2014.

Martin County’s ordinance took effect in 2011, amended and strengthened in 2014. While the various ordinances contain some differences regarding exemptions, licensing, and specific fertilizer content, the general principles are the same.

Through the end of September, do not fertilize with any product containing nitrogen or phosphorus. Both of these nutrients are illegal during the rainy season for both turf grass and landscape plants.

St. Lucie County’s ordinance allows phosphorus products to be applied only if a soil test indicates a deficiency.

There are “Florida-friendly” yard products containing iron and other micronutrients that you can use, and you can compost. To be in compliance, the fertilizer must contain no phosphorus. The fertilizer content is listed on each label as three numbers. This corresponds to the percentage of nitrogen, phosphorous, and potassium, respectively, or N-P-K.

Another general rule is that fertilizer should never be applied within ten feet of any wetland or water body, or from the top of a seawall. Sprinkler deflector shields are required when fertilizing using rotary spreaders.

St. Lucie County’s ordinance is even stronger, requiring a 25-foot fertilizer-free buffer from all water bodies.

Fertilizer may not be applied, spilled, or otherwise deposited on any impervious surfaces. Fertilizer must be kept out of stormwater drains, ditches, and all water bodies. Grass clippings, vegetative material or debris must also be kept out of stormwater drains, ditches, water bodies, wetlands, sidewalks and roadways.

Commercial fertilizer applicators are required to carry in their possession evidence that they have completed a training program in the “Florida-friendly Best Management Practices for Protection of Water Resources by the Green Industries” offered by the Florida Department of Environmental Protection through the University of Florida Extension “Florida-Friendly Landscapes” program, or an approved equivalent.

Even outside the ban period, you should never fertilize before a rain. Rain does not set in fertilizer, it just washes it away. And you should only use fertilizers that contain at least 50 percent slow-release nitrogen and that contain no phosphorous. Florida soils are naturally rich in phosphorous.

Stormwater officials recommend fertilizing only twice a year, in October near the end of the growing season, and in April at the start of the growing season. Better yet, replace grass and exotic plants with Florida native plants that require little or no fertilizing.

INeDIAN RIVER COUNTY — If you've been spring cleaning, many of the items you've chosen to get rid of cannot be placed in your regular garbage. That is why the Indian River County Solid Waste Disposal District has periodic recycling events for electronics and hazardous household waste.

The next free Residential Recycling Event is June 1, 9 a.m.-noon, at the IRC Intergenerational (IG) Recreation Center on Oslo Road in Vero Beach. There will be giveaways and a chance to win a laptop.

Electronics and household hazardous wastes like household cleaners should never be placed with your regular garbage. They can contain corrosive, toxic, ignitable, or reactive ingredients that can be dangerous to health and safety if disposed improperly.

To keep these items out of the landfill, residents can bring all kinds of electronics and household hazardous waste to the recycling event free of charge.

Two certified recycling companies will be onsite to collect your materials. A1 Assets will handle all electronics and transport them to their warehouse to be safely and securely recycled. The SWDD says all data will be wiped from computers, laptops and hard drives so residents can be assured that personal information will be erased.

US Ecology will be at the event accepting a wide variety of hazardous household waste, including cleaners, polishes, pesticides and herbicides, pool chemicals, gaso-line, antifreeze, transmission fluid, propane tanks, flea repellent, lighters, fluid, poisons, disinfectants, and mothballs.

The following items will NOT be accepted: explosives such as fireworks or flares, bio-waste or electronics hauler.

If you can't make it to the collection event, you can safely recycle your electronics and hazardous household waste year-round at the main county landfill or at any of the five customer convenience centers at no charge.

The SWDD and Waste Management will host another collection event in the winter in the north part of the county.

For more information about recycling in Indian River County, visit www.ircrecycles.com or call (772) 770-5112.

Fire officials remind locals to burn safely

TREASURE COAST—Wildfire dangers are elevated this week due to forecast hot and dry conditions and the Florida Forest Service.

In some urbanized cities, open burning is prohibited; check with your local Florida Forest Service office before you burn. The Florida Forest Service can provide you with the specific requirements and burning hours before you strike that match. To burn yard waste you must at a minimum locate the fire 25-feet away from your house and 150-feet from any other occupied building, 50-feet from paved public roads, and 25-feet away from forests/brush.

"Additionally, keep your yard waste fire no more than eight feet in diameter and create a fire break -- a bare dirt area around the burn area," explains Senior Forest Ranger Gary Davenport with the Florida Forest Service. "Keep your fire small by adding to the fire as it burns down rather than burning everything at once in one large pile." Before you ignite your fire, get a hose ready and keep a shovel and metal rake on hand. A shovel allows you to smother sparks and fire with dirt in an emergency while the rake allows you to quickly move logs or branches that roll off the fire."

The 33rd Annual PGA WORKS Collegiate Championship, held at the PGA Golf Club in Port St. Lucie, featured a familiar name at the top of the leaderboard.

For Bethune Cookman University taking home the hardware from this event has become as predictable as snow in Buffalo.

In what has become a “right of spring,” the Lady Wildcats dominated the competition for their eighth straight title and 16th overall. The ladies kept their foot on the gas as they cruised to a 52-shot victory in the 54-hole tournament over Texas A&M-Kings. Third place Chicago State was a mere 88 shots behind.

The ladies were so dominant that four of the top five individual scores came from Bethune-Cookman. Yudika Rodriguez paced the Lady Wildcats with a three-day total of 8-under par to win medalist honors. Her round of 67 on Saturday was the lowest of any golfer in the tournament.

Rodriguez’s teammate Caitlin Evans-Brand, along with Linda Wang of St. John’s each finished at two-under and were the only two other ladies to finish the event in red numbers. Wang won the Independent Women’s Division by seven shots over Ana Ferreyra Heit of Bethune-Cookman.

If the men of Bethune Cookman hope to eventually catch their counterparts in collecting trophies, they needed to hold serve and defend their own title.

They entered the final round with a slim four-shot lead over Florida A&M. Their lead expanded to 21 shots before thunderstorms moved into the area and the final round was eventually cancelled. The 36-hole scores were used to determine the winner and the Wildcats hosted the trophy for the fourth straight year and 11th time overall.

Rosario Falzone, of Tennessee State took home Division 1 medalist honors with a 36-hole total of three-under par. In his two official rounds he carded a total of nine birdies, and in his final round, the one cancelled due to the weather, he knocked in an approach from the fairway for a rare eagle. He led his team to a third-place finish, just three shots out of second and seven from Bethune-Cookman. Alabama A&M’s Paul San had a roll-coasted week on his way to second place in men’s medalist. He played the front nine in five-under for the week, but struggled on the back-nine, playing those holes in five-over par.

In Division II, Cal State-Dominguez Hills took home the title with a 32-shot win over Lincoln University. The Toros senior and team leader, William Yang won medalist honors. Livingstone University was third, 66 shots behind.

Logan Bryant and Zahidi Nathu each finished at even-par for the event and went into a playoff for medalist honors in the Men’s Independent Division. Nathu won, draining a 45-foot eagle putt on the first playoff hole. UCONN’s Nabeel Khan finished two shots back in third place.

Nathu’s play over the 54 holes of the event showed he can bounce back from a bad hole. The British Columbia University senior had 14 birdies, eight bogeys, three double-bogeys, and the eagle to win his playoff. Linda Yang took home medalist honors in the Independent Women’s Division with a 2-under par week to win by seven shots over Ana Ferreyra Heit.

In the NAIA Division, Houston-Victoria, led by division medalist Ian Lake’s seven-over week, took home the trophy. Governor State finished second, 40 shots behind.

The PGA WORKS Collegiate Championship is the most culturally significant championship in collegiate golf and combines top-level competition with a one-of-a-kind career development program.

Together with the PGA WORKS Expo, the pair are designed to cultivate the next generation of golf industry and business leaders, as participating student-athletes are exposed to internships and employment opportunities by leading golf companies.

How to control mosquitoes

H. everybody and happy Memorial Day! Baseball, apple pie and mosquitoes, all these things are synonymous with our American way of life during the summer months. Since we spend more and more of our free time relaxing outdoors, these pesky creatures can make life extremely uncomfortable and in some cases, dangerous. Mosquitoes can be more than just a menace; they can carry diseases such as Malara and West Nile Virus, just to name a few. West Nile Virus has been a menace for the past few years and its presence has been spreading yearly. As you can see, controlling mosquitoes in your yard can be both beneficial for your sanity as well as your health.

Before we talk about ways to help control these pests, here are a few mosquito facts. Mosquitoes have four stages of development: the egg, larva, pupa, and adult. Their larva and pupa stages are spent in water. When the adult mosquitoes emerge into the adult stage, the first thing they want is your blood. Keep in mind that only the female will bite. The blood supplies the mosquito with the protein they need for the development of her eggs. The cycle then begins all over again. You can see that if this continuous cycle were allowed to go unchecked, you would be in for a miserable summer. This year will probably be a bad year for infestation because of the heavy rains we have had the past couple of months. There is plenty of standing water for these critters to breed in.

There are, however, many steps you can take to help control these pesky critters. The first thing you need to do is walk around your property and try to remove any old tin cans, containers and old tires. Clean your gutters so they are not clogged and hold standing water. If you have birdbaths and fountains, change the water twice a week to keep the water from getting stagnant.

There are also other steps you can take to control the infestations such as spraying the perimeter of your yard with a designated mosquito spray. These sprays can be purchased at most retail garden centers and come in spray containers that can be attached to your hose. Use and follow label directions carefully!

If you don’t like to use insecticides, there are a number of natural ways you can utilize to make your outdoor activities more enjoyable. One that works really well for me is a combination of lining the perimeter of your recreation area with garden torches. Not only are they functional, but they also add a great atmosphere to your evening entertaining. Another great idea is to use your chiminea. Lighting a fire is not just for wintertime. The smoke from the fire is a natural deterrent to mosquitoes and it also adds a warm feeling to your outdoor palace.

There is yet another way to help deter the pesky critters. You can line your outdoor area with Citronella Geranium plants. These plants are an annual that can grow to be as large as 2 feet. The plant has a distinctive citronella scent. The scent is readily released when you rub or crush the leaves of the plant. It has been said that the plant can deter mosquitoes but I have not been able to actually prove it. Since the plants are attractive, it is worth trying. The plants are easy to care for, plant in full sun and in an area where it will get good air circulation. The plants require a steady source of a good fertilizer to keep the leaves from turning yellow. The plant is in the geranium family, as you will see by the leaf structure.

That’s all for this week and I hope you enjoyed the column. I will see you next week with more garden tips and information.

The secret to peeling eggs

I started thinking about this article and I got into a little disagreement with my wife when she told me she wanted to boil some eggs. Knowing her cooking ability, I said to her, “You don’t know how to boil eggs” and immediately wished I hadn’t said that out loud. Her response was not lady-like. That’s when I began to back-peddle and proceeded to explain that most people don’t know how to boil eggs. Chefs boil eggs a certain way. Boiling is not the problem, though, it’s the peeling that seems to baffle everyone. There is plenty of information available on the internet about how to boil eggs. This includes scientific theories as well.

Do they all work? Well sometimes they do and sometimes it’s just frustrating after tearing up half a dozen boiled eggs.

Most chefs agree fresh eggs do not peel as well as an egg that is a few days old. How can we tell the freshness of eggs? That’s another secret as well. Eggs are supposed to be delivered to grocery stores two to three days after they are laid, giving egg farms a chance to wash and crate for delivery. In Florida, the dating of eggs is not required. When you get them home, they are probably old enough to boil, unless you raise your own or go to a local farm to get eggs.

Oh, by the way, those eggs will stay fresh without refrigeration for a few days because the protective layer has not been washed off. Grocery store eggs must be kept refrigerated at 40 degrees or a little lower to keep their freshness. Thought you’d like to know.

Now that we know we have eggs a few days old, how should we boil them? I think this is the most important step. Place eggs in a pot and cover with cold water about 2 inches above the eggs. Some people add a little soda bicarbonate (baking soda) because this will raise the Ph in the water, causing the egg skin to pull away from shell. We’ll see if that works.

I boiled 5 eggs in cold water with about 1 tablespoon of baking soda and 6 eggs in cold plain water. I brought them to a boil for about 6 minutes. I cooled 2 baking soda eggs and 2 plain water eggs in ice water. I let the other eggs cool on the stove and I place two eggs in plain water eggs in ice water. I let the other eggs cool on the stove and I place two eggs in water at 40 degrees or a little lower to keep their freshness. Thought you’d like to know.

Here is what I found. Oh, you have to wait until next week for the results – just kidding. The eggs cooked in regular water peeled as well as the eggs cooked in the soda water. Both peeled fairly well. Crack the egg on each end, slightly roll before peeling. If the eggs are cooked properly and peeled, they should only be kept 4 to 5 days in the refrigerator.
