Gentlemen:

I am advised that Mary King, a student at Sweet Briar College in Virginia, has applied for admission to the School of Medicine. Miss King is a close friend of my daughter, now a student at Sweet Briar, and it is through her that I have knowledge of Miss King's qualifications.

I am impressed not only with the good academic record Miss King has maintained, but also with the fact that she has maintained this record in addition to employment in a number of activities for compensation and for her cultural development. I am impressed, too, with her motivation. As the granddaughter of a grandmother who is herself a physician, she has a personal example of the highest order with which she is emotionally involved to stimulate her.

I hope you will give her every consideration.

Sincerely yours,

Farris Bryant
Director
