Dear Colonel Von Weller:

Thank you for your letter of August 29. This is my first day in the office since its arrival.

Our budget has been reduced significantly and it is just not possible for us to increase our staff. For that reason I regretfully advise you that at this time no pursuit of this activity would be useful.

I shall be alert for any opportunity for this agency or another to employ you, but at the moment I know of none.

Sincerely,

Farris Bryant
Director
