Russia Returns To Security Council As "Champion Of Peace"

(Or MICHAEL FOX)

LAKELAND, July 30

THE Soviet Government, when it returns to the United Nations Security Council next Tuesday is expected to launch a powerful three-point peace campaign to end the war in Korea on certain terms. This was the opinion of some of the most experienced diplomats here today, including experts on Eastern European countries in close touch with Russian tactics in the United Nations for many years.

They pointed out that the Soviet Union was at present spearheading a world-wide campaign around its so-called "peace appeal". The Soviet attitude towards Korea, they added, should be judged in the light of the Kremlin's overall internal and external policy—towards the champion of peace. Against America... lari.igt n
