VOICE FROM BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

STRASSBURG, Aug. 19.

Frau Louise Schroeder, 63-year-old Deputy Mayor of the former German capital, addressed the Assembly in English in a debate on social questions.

"In Berlin we have to bear the consequences of war in an incomparable way," she said. Destruction, blockade, the removal of the capital to the West, a political split, two currencies and the high surplus of women over men left the western sector with 300,000 unemployed.

"Today it seems more than ever an International solution of the problem," she said, adding that social unity was everywhere a matter of international concern.
