ON CHILDREN AND SAINTS AND CHRISTMAS MASSES

By Joan Schap-Ekins

England, they say, is a land of country, where America, is, in fact, a far larger place. But in the small country in Europe, the children are not so large. They are not only suitable for tallies, superbly fitted out, and are well grown, children. It hardly seems fair that they should have to bear the weight of the world on their shoulders.

The Scro or German, says, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.

The Benevolent Society, still working hard to keep the light, is seen splitting. Amidst the mists, streets, and alleys, children are gathered, planning, their eyes sparkling with joy, for their greatest day. Christmas, or the Christmas Stars.