The Racing Year in Barbados

It is difficult to write a review of racing in Barbados without mentioning the season that ended in March, because the two have become so interrelated. Although the circumstances of this article, it would be found to be more appropriate to review the racing year as a whole, intended to make only limited reference to the year that ended in March. Trinidad had some very exciting races, despite the fact that there was little excitement at the Cross Roads in both this and the previous year. There was little change in the form of Watercress and Brelas, but there were some very good efforts in the three-year-olds. The first four-day fixture at March was won by Jester, who had won the Breeders' Stakes with his best form. This was the 1951 race, and the meeting was held on Sunday, December 16.
