Tax Concessions For Colonial Ventures?
But Still Some Obstacles
For Investment In B.W.I.

LONDON.

Minor tax concessions made for firms operating in the United Kingdom on prior investments in the B.W.I. have somewhat forestalled some big developments. Now the Government is ready to make a larger step by giving financial aid to firms which are to come to the B.W.I. from abroad. This is the policy which the Government has to follow if it is to attract the large-scale investments which are needed to bring about the rapid development of the B.W.I. It is a recognition by the Government that the B.W.I. is a potential market for the United Kingdom and that it is in the best interest of the United Kingdom to see to it that the B.W.I. is developed.

West Indies In Commons

LONDON.

Mr. Peter Thorneycroft, President of the Board of Trade, told the House of Commons last week that the Government was ready to make a larger step in giving financial aid to firms which are to come to the B.W.I. from abroad. This is the policy which the Government has to follow if it is to attract the large-scale investments which are needed to bring about the rapid development of the B.W.I. It is a recognition by the Government that the B.W.I. is a potential market for the United Kingdom and that it is in the best interest of the United Kingdom to see to it that the B.W.I. is developed.

Do These Hands Belong To You?

Take a good look at this picture and see if you recognize these hands. They are the hands of a young man who has been working hard for many years to make a living. His hands are rough and calloused from years of work.

For the same reason, I have a great respect for the hands of other people. They are the hands that have made this world what it is.

A man without a job is a man without a story to tell. His hands are his best friend. They are his story. They tell of the things he has done, the things he has seen, the things he has experienced.

And these hands, they belong to you. They belong to me. They belong to everyone.

So let's do something about it. Let's get out and work. Let's make this world a better place to live in.
