CONTEMPORARY PAINTINGS

THE Exhibition of Contemporary Caribbean painting at the Museum has provided a view into the new art forms that have evolved in the region. Among the artists featured is John Harrison, whose works are noted for their bold use of colour and their evocation of the Caribbean landscape.

Applications for imports of fisheries sources of Caribbean offshore waters were found in 1982. This joint effort of territorial and national agencies is the result of constant monitoring of fisheries, aiming to ensure their sustainability.

Scientist Versus Faker

In 1982, the art world was shocked by a revelation from Valerie Jarrett, who claimed his paintings were forgeries.
Her accusations were backed by experts using X-ray photographs to reveal the presence of glues and the use of synthetic resins.

ON FISHING EQUIPMENT

Removal Of Import Duty Of Fishing Equipment Urged

In 1982, the import duty on fishing equipment was removed, allowing for greater investment in the industry and increasing its growth.

LITIGATION

Mint Had No Money

Mint had no money in 1982, leading to the need for alternative financing methods.
