Annual Girl Guides Association Report

At the Annual Meeting of the Girl Guides Association on Saturday, the Hon. Mrs. G. H. Adney, in the person of the Leader of the Executive Committee, gave the following report:

The Girl Guides Association was first established in Barbados in 1910. It is an organization for girls, aged 7 to 16 years, who wish to develop their physical, mental, and social abilities through outdoor activities and group work. The Association is divided into Local Associations, each under the leadership of a Commissioner.

The Association is still growing, and there are now 341 members scattered throughout the island. The total number of members has increased from 272 in 1930 to 341 in 1951. The increase in membership is due to the active role played by the Guides in the community, and the efforts of the local Associations to attract new members.

The First Annual Conference of the Association was held in January 1947, and since then the annual conferences have been attended by representatives from all the Local Associations. The Conference is a great opportunity for the Guides to meet and discuss their work and future plans.

The Association is also involved in service work, particularly in helping the less fortunate members of the community. The Guides have played a major role in the relief efforts after the hurricane in Jamaica, September 1931. They have also been involved in various other community projects, such as the establishment of a nursery school and the construction of a school building.

The Association has recently purchased a new headquarters building, and the members have been actively involved in the move and the set-up of the new headquarters. The building is located in the central part of the city, and it will provide a permanent home for the Association.

The Association is also involved in the training of leaders and members, and a special Training Centre has been established.
