Millions Affected
By Intestinal Worm

NEW YORK May 13—The human race has been and still is afflicted by a harmful parasite of the type known as ascaria-lumbricoides, the common roundworm. It is found in practically every part of the world, infecting millions of people. In the Orient alone, nearly 500 million are infected, and in China three hundred and fifty million, or about 78 per cent of the population. Nearly sixty million Europeans are infected, and in Africa are infected by this worm. It is estimated that in the United States about 400,000 children are infected, and in one instance where W.H.O., especially in such fields as public health, has been unable to demonstrate the existence of the disease, the number of adults infected was incredibly high—almost a million! In Haiti twenty-six infected patients were treated for four weeks, and during that time the patients' absorbing the toxic by-products of the parasites.
