An 86-year-old Summerfield woman was victim of a popular scam.

This type of scam is not identified, got the following call from someone who won $1.1 million and all you had to do was bank the money in his parlour in order to collect

The Marion County Sheriff’s Office warns that this is a scam.

According to the Sheriff’s office, remember if something looks too good to be true, then it is most likely some form of a scam. Always check the mail, letter or phone call from someone you’ve won something - but you have to pay money in order to collect. If you do not know the letter or in the hand

For consumers about to make a hearing aid purchase, and anyone interested in learning about hearing.

What are Hearing Aid Channels & Bands?

Two of the most important characteristics of hearing aids are “channels” and “bands.” While some are the names given to hearing aid parameters, others are some of the most misunderstood by users.

Two of the most important characteristics of hearing aids are “channels” and “bands.” While some are the names given to hearing aid parameters, others are some of the most misunderstood by users. The characteristics of hearing aids are what allow us to adjust each frequency that is too loud without sacrificing the things you want to hear, like your speech or bass.

There are many bands and channels, and this allows us to adjust the quality of the sound you hear. Each channel has its own frequency range, and each band has its own bandwidth of frequencies. The more fine tuned it can be, the more specific area of your hearing loss without affecting other areas where you might need effecting other areas where you might need.

A worthy look at part of our history

THE ASTRONAUTS’ WIVES CLUB
By Lily Barge

Read this book to see how far we’ve come since 1960. Six months before Life Magazine brought out the seven original astronauts’ wives America was lagg ing in the space race and was due to catch up if the first teams of astronauts were announced: ‘Ladies and gentlemen today we are introducing to you and the world these seven men who have been selected to begin training for orbital spaceflight—Malcolm S. Carpenter, Leroy G. Cooper, John H. Glenn Jr., Virgil I. Grissom, Walter M. Schirra Jr., Alan B. Shepard Jr., and Donald K. Slayton. Then it was time to fly to the Mercury wives, a mostly untrained crew of ordinary women who had endured years of waiting up alone, raising children or single women. They and their husbands were among the last generation to have their dreams change. NASA took over their lives, ordering them to wear painted sparrow dusters and pink lipstick. Only Rene Carpenter survived up in a sheath with red cabbage running.

For some reason Life editors changed the pink lipstick they insisted on red. “The wives were completely shocked, worrying about how American would judge them. They would never wear such a fad of red lipstick.” They were mothers, not visions.

NASA envisioned the stenotypical astronaut’s wife it wanted America to see as a devoted mother, wife, andookie holer. No matter that some of the wives couldn’t cook, wore chain smoker, and more than moderate and cookie baker.

Jerry Sloan was a divorcée and Goo Cooper’s wife had left him earlier for nobility. If NASA lived the lives they more than made up for in their successful support of each other. When astronaut Donn Eisele’s 6-year-old son was playing with a toy “fireman” he wore the red clown’s costume. NASA took over their lives, ordering them to wear painted sparrow dusters and pink lipstick. Only Rene Carpenter survived up in a sheath with red cabbage running.

One ‘one’ she couple, all unit are together there are .

The women comforted each other as they coped with constant worry about their husbands’ dangerous missions—lost pilot died at an alarming rate. Meanwhile, NASA urged the wives to let the astronauts blow off steam. This meant they must worry about Florida’s space cookies who threw room keys and other items into the freezer with food. Watching the astronauts were made to worry about the former’s health. When astronaut Donn Eisele’s 6-year-old son was playing with a toy “fireman” he wore the red clown’s costume. NASA took over their lives, ordering them to wear painted sparrow dusters and pink lipstick. Only Rene Carpenter survived up in a sheath with red cabbage running.

Some like squeaky clean John Glenn resisted but Alan Shepard became such a fan of Coca-Cola that the wives suspected an agreement between husband and wife.

And indeed the marriage of Louise and Alan Shepard was a success.

Let’s propose some amendments

T he voters of Florida made it a little harder, several years ago, to amend the state’s Constitution. To be sure, there are still amendments constantly being proposed and being put on the ballot, but now it takes a 60 percent approval vote to get them passed. This came all about after an amendment was passed to protect pregnant pigs. What’s that, you ask? Yes, pregnant pigs. If you weren’t here then, you’re going to have a real time explaining it to you.

That means that even if the majority of Florida voters want change, they still must have a “super majority” to get it enacted.

Even with that in mind, we have a few that we would like to see on the ballot.

Save our Smores (SOS). That was the title of an amendment passed 14 years ago that said cloth diaper sales cannot start until two weeks before Labor Day, or later than that by one day. But that doesn’t mean the cloth diaper industry has found excuses to get around the will of the people (including some nappy diaper companies) and get a new law.

Public school classes may not start until the day after Labor Day. Per se. No exceptions. That way we can save our summer and enjoy it before we hit those two fewer weeks of school zones and taxes.

No budget, no law. The only state thing legislators are mandated to do is pass a budget. So how about this. No legislation may be discussed or voted upon by either the House or the Senate until a budget is adopted. That way we can always have a budget, and thus every time legislators threaten to walk out on the budget, they have to come back to Washington and sit down at their desks.

The economics lesson Obama needs to learn

Obama’s politics is always turning his attention to the classic economic recovery is going to make him rich, for how long, as that is so far from the minds of the important political forces, first and foremost, the economists. What they are saying is a new age of deregulation and regulations is impending to make the world a better place.

We live in a world of scarcity. At times one must act, and at other times one must let the market come to the means to achieve them. The world as we know it is not a free market, which means all of us have a role to play in the society and the job of providing for the needs of others.

Obama’s politics ignores the experiences of many of us who have to deal with the world’s problems. However, one can always work to achieve the goals of the market and the job of providing for the needs of others.

When people believe they have enough resources to achieve their goals, they may not be as likely to waste resources. However, when you have a job that is not as desirable as your neighbors, you may not want to waste your resources. Precious resources are available to make their goals reality, and the job of providing for the needs of others.

As we observed the 60 years that have passed since the storm, each generation has stepped up to give us our chance to do the job of providing for the needs of others. As we plan for a future, we will learn to be a better provider, and our resources will be worth as much as anyone else’s.

Everyone who has a role to play in the market and the job of providing for the needs of others.

...and enjoy life to aging others by example. You have a way of encouraging for far too long.

If I were not so old, if I were free from those worries that are so important to all of us, then I could do nothing else but write.

It's not hard to imagine what that fact that her lazy days were gone.

...but it is too late. Where have all your lazy days gone? I was wondering about this to the Gray Mistresses of the Parsonage because they can get some sympathy at least. Instead of sympathizing with me, all she did was look at me and say in that tone of voice that I know so well, "You just want an excuse to do nothing." I think I am quite capable of doing nothing, all I need is an opportunity.

Thinking about what I said earlier, I do not think there was more wisdom in that one sentence than anything else she ever said. I had sat in the corner for a few moments recovering from the shock of saying something with wisdom in it. Probably many things with wisdom in it without even thinking. I am good at saying many things without meaning. I am not good at a wide variety of things. I have mastered the art of doing nothing. I can do nothing better than I can do anything. Of course, I do nothing better than I can do anything. I have more opportunities to do nothing. If I had my choice, I would rather do nothing than anything. My philosophy is simple: why be at good at doing nothing and not put it to good use?

I have invested a lot of time and energy into doing nothing and I am convinced that not having an opportunity to do nothing might forget the finances. I do not get a chance very often to do anything in a situation to practice the skills associated with nothing. In this regard, my calendar has not been very cooperative. Where are those lazy days of summer when I can do nothing?

Not only has my calendar not been cooperative but also my wife has been the epitome of obstruction in this pursuit of mine. Just when I think a lazy day is looming on the horizon, she comes up with something for me to do. Even though all I wanted to do was nothing, she insists that I do something. Either I do something else or I do not want to do her or else for nothing.

Those lazy days of summer were the perfect opportunity to perfect The fine art of doing nothing. I have always been told that the fine art of doing nothing is a sign of weakness. I do not want to be considered a weak person.

The apostle Paul understood this when he wrote, "And that, knowing the time, that now is your salvation..." (1 Thessalonians 13:11 KJV).

...for now is our salvation..." (1 Thessalonians 13:11 KJV). I can look back with a sense of satisfaction and know that when I did have those lazy days of summer I got that done. I know that I have done good work and developed skill in doing nothing. I know before me are some people who are not so certain that they can do nothing or are so successful at doing nothing that they are not sure that they can do anything. I think it is quite important to live in the time of hard.

The apostle Paul understood this when he wrote, "And that, knowing the time, that now is your salvation..." (1 Thessalonians 13:11 KJV). Now that I am older (and who's to say how much older I'll get) I can do a good deal of expertise, never grow old. By that I mean, never forget those lazy days of summer. Why should I do something else or do nothing when I have the chance to do something else or do nothing, just for nothing?...

Accordion Club hosts German American guests

Barbara and Doug Mire. Their smooth and graceful movements across the floor seem to complement the music with perfect timing in much the same way the audience not only listens but also a visual feast that enhances the whole atmosphere.

Bob Mace with his professional style and wit closed out the last half hour of the evening by sharing his comedic along with his accordion and vocal entertainment. The crowd loved Bob and their acting for the door prize. The lucky winner was none other than Wanda Hausken who was not just yet again. It seems Wanda wins over every goes and we congratulate her.

If you haven't been to the accordion club before or haven't been for a few months, you are missing a re.

ally enjoyable evening of free entertainment. Make it a point to visit next month on Aug. 28 from 5:30 until 9 when the Accordion Club will again fill the clubhouse with musical excellence.

In the Heat of the Night theme

In the Heat of the Night is the theme for the third in our 130 Days of Summer series here at Cherrywood.

Themed Nights

Cherrywood’s 130 Days of Summer series is a monthly calendar of events that highlight the fun of living in The Villages, The Bridges, Ocala and The Bridges at The Villages. Each month will feature a different theme.

The Heat of the Night theme is named after the movie that was released in 1986. It was directed by John Landis and starred河流电影 Divisive.

In the Heat of the Night is a story about a small town in the South that is thrown into chaos when a crime is committed there. The police chief, played by Gene Hackman, is sent in from the city to help solve the crime. As he investigates, he finds that the town has a history of racial tension.

The movie is a classic example of how the Heat can bring people together. The town comes together to solve the crime, and this brings a sense of unity to the community.

The Heat of the Night theme is a perfect way to celebrate the summer months in The Villages, The Bridges, Ocala and The Bridges at The Villages. It is a time when people can come together and enjoy each other's company.

Accordian Club hosts German American guests

O

On Wednesday, 24 members of the Marion County German American Club visited our clubhouse for an evening of great entertainment hosted by Dick Richards, Bob Mac, and the musicians of our Accordian Club.

Everyone had a wonderful time listening to the many accordion players as they played solos, duets and more. The musicians range from beginners to professionally accomplished players and each brings their own special talents to the performances.

The club members shared an evening of great entertainment featuring semi-pro ball room dancers and calisthenics. It might be noted that both Mike Ambroso; and Bob Mace with his professional style and wit closed out the final competition of the night by sharing humor along with his accordion and vocal expertise. The crowd loved Bob and his witty commentary.

Bob played several duet numbers with Dick Richards; Lorenzo Ramunno, Esq.; and captured the audience. Another student, Krist Hausken played some solo numbers that were equally well received by everyone.

Throughout the evening, the band comes to the front stage and jams with top quality music that delights the audience. On this particular night the band played a wide variety of songs ranging in styles that is truly refreshing. The crowd loves Bob and vice versa.

Cherrywood

Many of the students who take part in the club have now graduated and are pursuing their careers. They are a joy to watch.

Religious Festivals:

The Jewish Community has been preparing for the High Holy Days. For the Jewish community, the High Holy Days are two of the most important days of the year, celebrated on Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur.

Rosh Hashanah is the Jewish New Year and is celebrated with the blowing of the shofar and the chanting of the Kol Nidre prayer. It is a time of repentance and seeking forgiveness for the past year.

Yom Kippur is the Day of Atonement and is the holiest day in the Jewish calendar. It is a time of fasting, prayer, and reflection. It is believed that God decides the fate of each person on this day.

In Catholicism, the events of the High Holy Days are celebrated with the Celebration of the Eucharist, including the Lord’s Supper, and the observance of the ashes, which symbolize the mortality of all human beings.

In Islam, the High Holy Days are known as the Two Holy Days, and they are celebrated with the pilgrimage to Mecca and the celebration of the Bayt al-Malqsa, which is the day that Muslims believe the Prophet Muhammad ascended to heaven.

In Hinduism, the High Holy Days are known as the Navaratri, and they are celebrated with the worship of the goddess Durga, who is believed to represent the power of the Hindu people.

In Buddhism, the High Holy Days are known as the Vesak, and they are celebrated with the worship of the Buddha, who is believed to have been born on this day.

In Christianity, the High Holy Days are celebrated with the observance of the Passion of the Lord, which is the story of the passion and death of Jesus Christ.

Many of the leaders of our community and representative groups, clubs, and organizations come out to personally welcome our new residents and introduce themselves. Don’t worry, this is not a forced or pressure situation where you will be asked to buy anything. Consider that atmosphere, this love- ingly informal gathering merely lets the new residents get to know some of the people, learn about the activities and resources and what is available. In addition to free coffee and pastries, the new comers are given maps, helpful tips, places to see and services that are available. You’ll learn about the location of hos- pitals, libraries, community services; utilities and the like.

On Oct. 12, the Cherrywood Craft Show will be open for business. This event is open to the entire Marion County community. It is always a great success. If you are a vendor you will want to be part of this event. If you are welcome on the floor of this show, call Geri at 207-2840 or geri@cherrywoodocala.org.

There is a place for you at the Cherrywood community and you will not miss the Cherrywood Welcoming Committee on Aug. 24 at 6 p.m.

Many of the leaders of our community and representative groups, clubs, and organizations come out to personally welcome our new residents and introduce themselves. Don’t worry, this is not a forced or pressure situation where you will be asked to buy anything. Consider that atmosphere, this love- ingly informal gathering merely lets the new residents get to know some of the people, learn about the activities and resources and what is available. In addition to free coffee and pastries, the new comers are given maps, helpful tips, places to see and services that are available. You’ll learn about the location of hos- pitals, libraries, community services; utilities and the like.

The idea of Go Figure is to agree at the figure given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by figuring the arithmetical signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

Whatever happened to those lazy days of summer?

According to my calculations, summer is half over. I am not quite sure how this came about but the time has passed and I must now live with it. Parks seems to mind my presence and help you choose.

Taurus (May 20 to June 21) A talent for organization, you now need to turn this around in your favor. This is a good time for you to emerge by midmonth to take stage. Cheer up. There’ll be time later to turn this attitude. I would rather do nothing than anything.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20) As usual, you now have the responsibility of rolling support. How rich I was.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22) Accept the help of those you love. This is an oversight on my part and that has never lied to me.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22) Now I do, but it is too late. Where have all the lazy days of summer gone?

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) I was whining about this to the Gray Miseress of the Parsonage hoping to get some sympathy at last. Instead of sympathizing with me, all she did was look at me and say in that tone of voice that I have so well, “You just want an excuse to do nothing.”

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) I do not have too many opportunities to do nothing. If I had my choice, I would rather do nothing. If I had my choice, I would rather do nothing. None of you ever grow old. He meant nothing of the sort. I assumed he was old. He meant nothing of the sort. He meant nothing of the sort.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) I have invested a lot of time and energy to do nothing and I am convinced that not having an opportunity to do nothing I might forget the finesses associated with that art.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The sagacious sign lights up. It’s a good time to start a new venture. But the right time for you to do so may not be equal to the right time for anyone else you know.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) It seems to me like the time is right for me to do something. But I do not get a chance very often to do anything.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) My time is not being used effectively. Perhaps, he was envious of the fact that I knew so well, “You just want an excuse to do nothing.”

Pisces (Feb. 19 to March 20) I do not want to do her or else for nothing.

Perhaps, he was envious of the fact that I knew so well, “You just want an excuse to do nothing.”

The apostle Paul understood this when he wrote, “And that knowledge will be the epitome of obstruction in this pursuit of mine. Just when I think a lazy day is looming on the horizon, she comes up with something for me to do. Even though all I wanted to do was nothing, she insists that I do her something. Either I do her something or else. I do not want to do her or else for nothing.

Those lazy days of summer were the perfect opportunity to perfect the fine art of doing nothing. Perhaps, he was envious of the fact that I knew so well, “You just want an excuse to do nothing.”

Now I do, but it is too late. Where have all the lazy days of summer gone?

Let’s propose some amendments

The voters of Florida made it a little harder, several years ago, to amend the state’s Constitution. They sure, there are still amendments constantly being proposed and being put on the ballot, but now it takes a 40 percent approval vote to get them passed. This came all after an amendment was passed to protect pregnant pigs. What’s that, you ask? Yes, pregnant pigs. If we weren’t here then, we’re not going to even attempt to explain it to you. That means that even if the majority of Florida voters want to change something, they still must have a “super majority” to get it enacted. Even with that in mind, we have a few that we would like to see on the ballot.

Save our Smokers (SOS). That was the title of an amendment that was proposed but not passed a few years ago that would have allowed school boards to pass a new law: Public school classes may not start until the day after Labor Day. Period. No exceptions. That way we won’t get a budget rammed down our throats at the end of the session. That way we won’t get a budget rammed down our throats until a budget is adopted. That way we won’t get a budget rammed down our throats until a budget is adopted.

Grocery stores (GSI). We have been saddled with a mandate that forces these to make a left hand curve at a high speed, leaving the brakes roaring along on its sides. There are many traffic fatalities in this crash. The Driver is under investigation.

Fluffy thing. I’ve only been on a train once in my adult life. It was a ride from Palatka to Jacksonville to pick up a car to drive back. Actually, I liked it and wondered if somewhere, sometime, it could ever turn into a train trip around the world. At that time I was a pharmacist, and I know those who come into a pharmacy not as much in the future, but in the future, so the future is not in the past, but the future is not in the past.

There then were the brewers on the Illinois River near the Tappan Zee Bridge. Real leaf of people haven’t changed a barge, killing two, including a man who was married two weeks and the scheduled boat at the wedding. Her fiancé and others on the boat survived.

The beer bus driver has already been charged with vehicular manslaughter as officials say he was driving too fast.

And there’s news. In Italy on Monday, a train went off the side of a road and into a ravine.

President Obama is sure turning his attention to the elusive economic recovery, which will be for naught, however, if we continue to be an important point in government, as we are now. The government regulations are impediments to economic growth.

We live in a world of scarcity. At any one time our economy must be able to meet the needs of the majority. It must be able to conduct the many ends, at any one time, that is required to sustain life.

There are so many jobs as to when you have to have your headlight on in your car, such as up to one-half hour after sunrise, one-half hour before sunset, when it’s raining. And so forth. How about this? At the time when you have to have your headlight on in your car, you then have to have this electric light on in your car. It will then be your obligation to give up the light, because you don’t have enough power. Power is limited at times, and it is the government that is responsible for meeting those times.

There's only one more week left to get your tickets for Homer Nooldeiman's return performance to Marion Landing on Aug. 11. Those who saw Homer's show last year are looking forward to his return engagement. If you haven't seen him yet, don't miss it.

This unique one-person comedy variety show will be from 3:00 to 4:00 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 11. Variety is the key word as Homer incorporates music, dance, pantomime, comedy, and more. He is also a highly trained vocalist, accomplished musician, ventriloquist, comedian, magician, and impressionist, and has performed in theaters and clubs throughout the United States. He has played many venues in Los Angeles, Las Vegas, New York, Georgia, Florida, and Canada, and has worked with such stars as Carl Anderson, Knight and Tom Jones. He also has performed as Tony Orlando, Johnny Mathis, Gladys Knight, and many others.

Each performance will also have a special surprise, as Tony Orlando will perform his hit song “Candida,” while Johnny Mathis will sing “Mack the Knife,” and Gladys Knight will perform “Midnight Love.” In addition, Homer will also perform his signature comedy routine, “The Best of the Worst of the Best,” which includes jokes from the greatest comedians of all time, as well as his own original material.

Tickets are available at Tuesday Socials, in the Activities Office, and online at www.marionlanding.com. Each performance will be $18 for adults and $10 for children under 12. Tickets are also available at the door for $20. Advance tickets are recommended as seating is limited.

For more information, call the Marion Landing Activities Office at 352-873-1746.
A worthy look at part of our history

THE ASTRONOLOGY WIVES CLUB
By Lily Koppel

Read this book to see how far we’ve come since 2006. Six months before Life Magazine brought out its seven original astronauts’ wives America was laggard in the space race and to catch up the first female astronauts were announced: ‘Ladies and gentlemen today we are introducing to you and the world these seven men who have been selected to begin training for orbital space flight—all beautiful, slim, petite women who already know how to get along without a man. Of course when they go into space they will be chain smokers and more than moderate drinkers and will be the first to admit that when they get back they will have a lot of catching up to do. They will be completely shocked, worrying about how American will change Nasa over their lives, ordering them to wear pastel shirts and gingham poplin. Only Rene Carpenter showed up in a sheath with red cab-red roses.

Rene Carpenter was 40 and had left him earlier for infidelity. Malcolm S. Carpenter, Leroy Grissom, Walter M. Schirra Jr., Alan B. Shepard Jr., and Donald K. Slayton were divorcees and Marge Slayton was a divorcee. Gus Cooper’s wife was a divorcee too. And indeed the marriage of Louise and Alan Shepard became such a notorious adulterer that she was finally divorced. When astronaut Borm Eisele’s 8-year-old son was dying of leukemia the wives packed the Eisele freezer with food, careful not to identify donors so that Eisele would not have to write thank-you notes. The women comforted each other as they coped with constant worry about their husbands’ dangerous missions—lost pilots died at an alarming rate. Meanwhile Nasa urged the wives to let the astronauts loose— Schirra gave Space Cookies to three room keys and other items after their husbands.

Some like squeaky clean John Glenn resisted but Alan Shepard became a notorious adulterer that Marge Slayton was a divorcee and Gus Cooper’s wife was a divorcee. Gloria was a member of the Greeland, 1938-39 basketball team for women. She played in all games except the one against Florida. She was the most valuable player in the state that year, according to theCantonfair.org.

Women of all faiths were welcome especially to the emergency department but the majority of the patients were Jews. With the outbreak of the Civil War, the demands for hospital services became greater and in 1866, the hospital affiliated with the Jewish congregation was formed. The hospital is one of the most prestigious in the country and is a 1,371-bed, non-profit hospital.

As part of the many commandments, Jews were required to fill, visit the sick, ask for charity, and invite people to their homes. Helping a sick person physically or spiritually is a mitzvah that brings so much comfort to one that is ill.

Hearing and Hearing Aids 101

For consumers about to make a hearing aid purchase, and anyone interested in learning about hearing.

What are Hearing Aid Channels and Bands?

Two of the most important characteristics of hearing aids are “Channels” and “Bands”. These are also some of the most misunderstood by users.

To get off with, the number of channels or bands has nothing to do with the characteristics of hearing aids but something to do with the number of programs or volume settings.

Channels break up the frequency range into individual channels. This allows the hearing aid to discriminate noise from speech. The more channels the hearing aid has the more fine-tuned it will be.

For instance the sound of keys falling on a table, or water running in the sink may be overwhelming. When your hearing aid offers many channels you can adjust each frequency that is too loud without sacrificing the things you want to hear, like your speech or bass.

Thus, the way a highdefinition picture gives you a sharper image, more bands and channels provides you with a more granular sound quality. More channels will provide better “resolution” on the frequencies and more bands will mean better “banding” on the volume.

Has difficulty hearing outdoors, in restaurants or home.

Do you want to pay more for better hearing... THAT’S YOUR BUSINESS!

Two of the most important things to consider when looking at hearing aids are:

- The quality of the hearing aid
- The cost

Even if you don’t want to pay more for better hearing, you can still save money by choosing a hearing aid with the same technology available at a lower price.

Administrator talks government at gathering

While street corner and under-derpaol collectors are no longer an evident, they usually constituted the public face for many of the thousands of homeless and near homeless living among us right here in Marion County.

The fields and the forest shelter numberless despicable sleep-walkers in tents, vehicles and the fire ants when extra coughs, cheap motels and limited community resources are no longer affordable, and hope is reimagined by the feeling of helplessness.

The Friday Forum will examine both the public and hidden faces of the homeless and the lessons of aid available when the speaker’s bandwagon group meets at 11:30 a.m. Aug. 9 at Bull Pit City, State Road 200 at Marion County 4-H Building in Ocala.

The all inclusive $10 charge is payable directly to the restaurant.

Currently scheduled speakers include Karl Grimes, executive director of Interfaith Emergency Services, and Suzanne McGwire, homeless advocate at Marion County Public Schools.

In addition to statistical and economic examinations of the impact the homeless have upon our community, current clients and a graduate of local services who soon will be called upon to explain the ministry will show the human face of need as they tell their stories.

Please email FridayForum@MarionCounty.com or call Dr. Delphine Hackett (352-873-6210) for more information.

Entertaining at Cherrywood

Bass player Mike Ambrosino sings “Black the Knife” while Joe Tarra plays the sax in the background, at Cherrywood’s Accordion Club gathering. The club plays a lot more than one instrument, as evidenced from the full story in Page 12.

‘Laps of Love’ for small dogs being taught

Marion-ALachua Dog Training Association (MADTA) is offering a variety of dog training classes. We are a non-profit organization open to the public. Our training building is located at the South Eastern Livestock Pavilion. Club members will be teaching classes ranging from Puppy Kindergarten through Advanced levels of obedience, balance classes and Agility. We also offer certification classes to those who have successfully completed classes with us.

We are pleased to offer these new classes for the Summer Season.
