The Sanibel Historical Village

The Sanibel Historical Village will hold its first Twilight Talk of the season from 7 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, January 16. The speakers will be Richard Johnson and Mary Mead Bailey Johnson. Representing the third generation of ownership and operation of Bailey’s General Store, Mary Mead, as her family knows her, is one of Francis P. Bailey Jr.’s five children. She grew up on Sanibel with her family, dogs, cats and birds. The “Homestead,” sometimes called the “Green House,” was her family home and she has many memories of growing up on Sanibel. Mary Mead graduated from the University of North Carolina at Wilmington with a degree in marine technology and the University of North Florida with a degree in environmental science. A relatively new addition to the community, Richard arrived on Sanibel just after Hurricane Charley, giving him an opportunity to see the island at one of its worst points, but the community itself at one of its best. Since then, he says, the island bug has bitten him (in addition to the no see ums). He is involved in the Sanibel community through various nonprofits. Richard graduated from Jacksonville University Davis School of Business with a degree in business management.

The cost for the lecture is $5; free for museum members. Tickets must be paid for and picked up prior to the event. Seating is limited. Tickets are available in the old Bailey’s General Store in the village during museum hours, Wednesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. To reserve seats or for more information, call museum manager Emile Alfino at 472-4648. The other scheduled Twilight Talks are:

February 26 – Betty Anholt, the island’s historian.
March 19 – Kristie Anders, Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation
April 9 – Deborah Gleason, chair, Sanibel Historic Preservation Committee

The village is located at 950 Dunlop Road (next to BIG ARTS). Admission is $10 for adults 18 and older; those under 18 and members are free. Docent-guided tours are available at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. at no extra charge, based upon docent availability. There is handicapped access to all buildings. The Year of Creeping Change

by Barbara Joy Cooley, president, Committee of the Islands

A year ago, I wrote a commentary called When the Small Becomes Big: Incremental Change on Sanibel (published December 14, 2013).

In it, I described the several factors that make it unlikely for major changes to happen on Sanibel. The island is almost at “build-out,” much habitat has been restored, and the People’s Choice charter amendments were passed. While these things seem to preclude much major change – and that’s a good thing – small changes are still possible. And small changes can accumulate, eventually resulting in a big change.

At this one-year point since that commentary, it’s time to check in: Have small changes started to accumulate? The answer, unfortunately, is “yes.” And the changes have come in the form of zoning variances from our Land Development Code being granted with ever-increasing frequency. Let’s take a look at this trend.

As part of its regulatory responsibilities, the Sanibel Planning Commission reviews and decides on zoning variances. By law, there are seven standards that must be met in order for the Planning Commission to legally grant a variance. This is as it should be because variances are, after all, excused violations of the Land Development Code. Lately, five of the seven planning commissioners have failed to see that these standards are met before deciding to vote to grant a variance.

Committee of the Islands board members have spoken at these planning commission meetings about the need to meet these legal standards for variances. Two of the commissioners generally do apply these legal standards; however, the other five commissioners generally do not.

While these inappropriately granted variances may not be individually significant, the result over time is a weakening of the Sanibel Plan and Land Development Code because these variances have a cumulative effect.

The Seven Standards

Here are the seven standards (contained in section 82-140 of the Sanibel Land Development Code):

1. A literal enforcement of the particular regulation would result in undue and unnecessary hardship to a property owner because the particular shape, size, location or topography of a lot or parcel, or of a structure thereon, would cause practical difficulties that would deprive the owner of reasonable use and enjoyment of such lot or parcel in the same manner as other properties similarly situated.

2. That the special conditions relate to usual conditions peculiar to the specific lot or parcel or relate to special conditions of the structure involved, and are not generally applicable to other lands or structures similarly situated.

3. That the special conditions and circumstances do not result from actions taken by the applicant or proposed by the applicant, and are not otherwise self-imposed.

4. That the applicant has taken all reasonable steps to mitigate or eliminate the requested variance by the acquisition of adjacent lands or the relocation or redesign of the structure involved.

5. That the development or use of the subject parcel in some other manner than that proposed, in accordance with the applicable requirements, is not feasible.

6. That the requested variance will not be adverse to the developed neighborhood scheme and will not adversely affect the plan and scheme set forth in this Land Development Code, and will not cause the proposed development to be inconsistent with the Sanibel Plan nor adverse to the health, safety and general welfare of the community.

7. That the variance granted is the minimum necessary to mitigate the hardship demonstrated.

Succinctly said, the variance must only be used to address a hardship that is not brought on the applicant by himself; rather, the hardship must be one that is incumbent with the property and its peculiarities and characteristics, preventing the reasonable use or development of the property. Also, the extent of the variance should be as small as possible – just enough to address the hardship.

What’s happening?

In reality, what is happening now is that pretty much everyone that applies for a variance is granted that variance – usually in a 5 to 2 vote of the Planning Commission. The granting of those variances has resulted in more variance applications being made.

That trend needs to stop. We need Planning Commissioners who will grant variances only in the rare instances when they are warranted, because doing otherwise will result in an erosion of the Sanibel Plan and Land Development Code. To keep Sanibel special, small changes must be controlled.

Creeping, incremental change... it could be a problem.

Or it could be positive, such as with the implementation of the Dark Skies rule on Sanibel. The outdoor lighting which is still not compliant with this rule must be changed during the next year (prior to January 1, 2015), according to the Sanibel code. For example, lights that shine upward on a sign or façade must be changed to lights that shine downward instead, to reduce light pollution at night. The changing lights that shine downward instead, to reduce light pollution at night. The changing...

More than 100 people gathered at The Sanctuary recently to hear Sanibel Mayor Kevin Ruane explain city council’s three, recently adopted goals for the coming year. The event was CASI’s (Condominium Associations of Sanibel, Inc.) annual kick-off breakfast.

One of city council’s goals is to continue to build financial stability. Specifically, council has been working to retire long term debt, to build up reserves and to identify policies that adequately track and better evaluate potential revenue. Because of such policies, council has been able to hold tax rates at the same level for the seven years Ruane has been on the council. The mayor pointed out that for every dollar paid in property taxes to the county, only 12 cents comes back to the city to fund expenses, another three cents goes to retire city debt. Sanibel intends to provide needed services while living within a carefully considered budget.

The need for reserves became clear after Hurricane Charley when the city had to borrow $15 million for restoration. At that time, the city only had $2 million in reserves. Today the city has $20 million in reserves. Council is exploring the re-instatement of revenue sharing from causeway tolls.

A second goal of city council is to develop a workable plan to encourage commercial district redevelopment. City council and the planning commission Steve Mackesy, Island Management, and Aaron Pruss, Becker and Poliakoff; Dina Craig and Andy Boyle, Ocean’s Reach; Lee Ellen Harder, BIGARTS; Dru Doyle, Ocean’s Reach.

Creeping Change

of each light fixture is a small, seemingly insignificant change. But add up all these small changes, and it will be even easier to see the Milky Way at night. Sanibel is one of the few remaining places where that is possible.

The power of incremental change over time is often underestimated. So we must be mindful of those small changes, and keep them positive. That’s how we can keep Sanibel special now and in the future.

want to ensure the stability and future success of the island’s existing mix of retail and office spaces. The city’s redevelopment emphasis began in 2010 with the resort redevelopment effort which was intended to encourage renovation and redevelopment in the resort housing district, where most condominiums are located. The current commercial district work plan will continue to examine whether modifications are needed in the Land Development Code to maintain the Sanibel Plan while allowing progress and fairness.

As part of the commercial redevelopment project, council is looking at a civic core concept. BIG ARTS, the Sanibel Community Association and the Center 4 Life are all considering expansion. The city hosted a series of conversions between those organizations to explore the possibility of a shared campus that would also encompass the library and city hall. Such a plan might maximize resources for meeting and event space, shared roadway and bike path access, and better traffic flow in the area. While the stakeholders would fund their own building costs, the city is pursuing grants for some of the funds it would need to enable connectivity and shared parking between these venues. This project would only move ahead if approved by Sanibel voters in a referendum.

The third council goal is water quality and quantity. Significant degradation of gulf water quality happened again this summer because rain in South Florida was 70 percent above average. Degradation of water and beaches from various sources are becoming more frequent, more damaging and more costly. There are three solutions for improving gulf water quality. Lake Okeechobee releases must better address the health of the estuaries. Septic systems along the Caloosahatchee basin and in Lee County must be functional and non-polluting. Responsible, science-based fertilizer use must be commonly practiced. Working with fellow committee members in the Metropolitan Planning Organization and as chair of the Lee County Tourist Development Council, the mayor built a coalition of local mayors and officials to join together in petitioning regional, state and federal officials for specific performance on water quality. While protecting the environment is a high priority, the city found that partners

Periwinkle Pines
Stakeholder In Civic Core Plan?
by Jeff Lysiak

During the first city council meeting of the new year, the conceptual plan for the proposed civic core master plan on Sanibel was discussed, including the suggestion that representatives from the Periwinkle Pines subdivision be included as a stakeholder in the planning process.

Back in November, architect Henry Woodruff outlined a plan that would consolidate BIG ARTS, the Sanibel Historical Museum & Village, Center 4 Life and The Community House onto a 25-acre site along with city hall, the Sanibel Public Library and the public works department.

At last month’s council meeting, several residents spoke in opposition of the civic core conceptual plan. Fay Carney called the idea of moving The Community House onto a 25-acre site along with city hall, the Sanibel Public Library and the public works department.

Hancock agreed with the suggestion of being included among the plan’s stakeholders, praising that decisions on the matter “aren't being done by five guys in a back room... it’s a well thought out concept.”

Former council member Peter Pappas supported the idea of keeping the development of the civic core plan relegated to city staff and stakeholders until it becomes fully developed. To present the concept to the public prematurely might result in the city staff and stakeholders until it becomes fully developed. To present the concept to the public prematurely might result in the plan being “lost before we can properly define its merits.”

“I’m satisfied as a citizen that I’ll be able to add my input when the time comes,” added Pappas.

In other business:
- Ruane read a proclamation declaring January 17 as Arbor Day in the State of Florida, then presented it to long-time island vegetation committee member Berdenna Thompson. Thompson thanked the council for recognizing the annual celebration, and noted that this year’s Arbor Day ceremony at The Sanibel School will take place at 11 a.m. on Friday, January 31. Recently passed island pioneer Francis Bailey will be honored with the planting of a new slash pine on the school’s grounds.
- Denham told the council that he has had discussions with two hoteliers who suggested that they would like to redevelop their properties, but are hampered by the restrictions in the city’s Land Development Code related to maximum room size. Both would prefer a 600-square-foot room size, which would require modifying the ordinance. Denham requested that city staff bring back a report investigating whether redevelopment that would allow build-back of larger rooms, but would not increase lot coverage, would be feasible.
- Barry Alan Roth, coordinator of the city’s annual New Year’s Eve Celebration, reported that 429 people attended this year’s festivities, with 60 to 70 volunteers working the event. He also called the fundraiser for the city’s Recreation Center Financial Assistance Program a “labor of love.” Final figures of money raised at the event will be presented at February’s council meeting.

Document Shredding Day

The Sanibel Community Association (SCA) will again be hosting a drive to shred your unneeded documents and papers on Saturday, January 18 between 9 a.m. and noon at The Community House.

The new year is the perfect time to organize your home or office. It’s also the perfect time to destroy the sensitive documents you no longer need. With identity theft a growing problem, you should securely dispose of unwanted financial and personal files so they don’t end up in the wrong hands. But, if the thought of tediously hand-feeding piles of personal papers into your home shredder makes it tough to get motivated, then the perfect solution is to let someone else shred it for you safely and quickly.

Bring documents such as bank statements, credit cards receipts, old checks, income tax returns or anything that contains personal information, and the professionals at Secure Shredding, Inc. will take it from there.

There is a fee of $5 for one or two boxes per car. If you have more boxes, an additional donation is requested. All proceeds go to The Community House operating fund so additional donations are appreciated.

For more information, visit online at www.sanibelcommunityhouse.net or call 472-2155.

Coalition Speaker To Address Democratic Club

On Thursday, January 16 at 7 p.m., Grey Torrico, detention and enforcement organizer, will address the Democratic Club of the Islands at the Sanibel Public Library, 770 Dunlop Road. The meeting is free and open to the public.

Torrico was born in Chile and brought to the United States at the age of 7. Growing up in Naples, Florida, she became aware of how harsh the treatment of immigrants was in the area. In 2008, while at the University of Florida, she founded CHISPAS, a student-led organization that united immigrant youth, both legal and undocumented, and helped those who were also in a fight for justice. Through this, Torrico became involved with the DREAM (Development, Relief and Education for Alien Minors) Act, and young undocumented youth throughout the state. She graduated in 2009 with a bachelor of arts in political science and Spanish with a certificate in Latin American studies.

IKKI MATSUMOTO

 Internationally acclaimed artist Ikki Matsumoto was born in Tokyo, Japan in 1935 to a well-known Japanese cartoonist and children’s book illustrator, Katsuji Matsumoto. He was the second child of seven and could not remember a time in his life when he wasn’t drawing. Art was in his blood from the very start. He died just one day shy of his 79th birthday.

In 1955, Ikki came to the United States and met his wife, Polly (Adamson)
Matsumoto, while studying at the Art Academy of Cincinnati, where he was studying under world renowned artist Charlie Harper. His talents led him to embark on a career in commercial art, newspaper advertising design and textbook illustrations. He had a two-volume book published by Rand McNally and later illustrated the bestseller The Joy of Cooking. In 1985, Nancy Reagan com-missoned him to design an Easter egg that is now part of the permanent collection in the Smithsonian.

Ikki and his family moved to Sanibel
Island, Florida in 1975 and he channeled the beautiful scenery of the island into his artistry. His colorful works of native birds and animals captured the essence of a southern Florida style with his unique Japanese flair.

Ikki is survived by his wife Polly, two sons, Bin and Tai (Bonita), and a daughter, Amy. He was also blessed with six grandchildren. Family and friends around the world will always remember him for his internal light, his talent, and his love.

A public memorial will be held on Thursday, February 6 from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Alliance for the Arts in Fort Myers, Florida, 10091 McGregor Boulevard.
In lieu of flowers, donations can be sent to Hope Hospice “In loving memory of Ikki Matsumoto” to 9470 HealthPark

NANCY ANN (GEBHARDT) BONSER

Nancy Ann (Gebhardt) Bonser, 80, of Sanibel, Florida and Bloomington, Indiana passed away Tuesday, December 31, 2013. She was born September 30, 1933 in Springfield, Ohio, the daughter of Carl and Edna Gebhardt.

She graduated from Bowling Green State University in 1955 with a major in education and speech therapy, and was active in her sorority, Gamma Phi Beta. Growing up with a love of dance, Nancy continued dancing in college, performing in several Bowling Green modern dance productions.

On July 3, 1955 she married Charles F. Bonser. Early in their marriage, Nancy taught speech therapy in North Carolina, Louisiana and Texas while Charles was in the air force. In 1959, they moved to Bloomington, Indiana. In Bloomington, she turned her love and energy to raising their children while also volunteering in the community and in the local schools. She especially enjoyed her work with special needs children in the schools.

Nancy was also an important partner and support for Charles during his years as professor and dean at Indiana University’s School of Public and Environmental Affairs (SPEA), hosting many events for the school as well as visitors from around the world at their home, always with her bright smile. She was particularly involved with supporting the many programs the school conducted internationally.

Nancy enjoyed her time traveling the world with friends and family, always eager to see new places and meet new people. She also took time volunteering in the local schools while living in Australia, England and France. Her favorite spot to relax, however, was Sanibel, Florida, which she and Charles first visited in 1965, and bought a home in 1974. On Sanibel, she enjoyed tap dancing, biking and attending performances at BIG ARTS. She was a member of PEO, active in her church and a volunteer at BIG ARTS. One of her greatest joys and blessings was being a grandmother to her four grandchildren.

She is survived by her husband of 58 years, Charles F. Bonser of Sanibel, Florida and Bloomington, Indiana; her son Andrew (Heather) Bonser of Greenwood, Indiana; and her grandchildren Matt Neal, Meagan Neal, Emily Bonser and Jordan Bonser; her brother Carl (Sheila) Gebhardt of Duarte, California.

She is preceded in death by her parents, son Jeffrey Aaron Bonser and brother Richard Gebhardt.

Nancy’s beautiful smile and generous heart will be missed by all who knew and loved her.

Celebration of life ceremonies will be held on Saturday, January 18, 2014 at 3 p.m. at Sanibel Congregational United Church of Christ with a reception following at The Community House, and on Saturday, February 1 at the Indiana University Foundation in Bloomington, Indiana at 3 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions can be made to the following organizations important to Nancy: Sanibel Congregational United Church of Christ, 2050 Periwinkle Way, Sanibel, FL 33957 or Barrier Island Group for the Arts (BIG ARTS), 900 Dunlop Road, Sanibel, FL 33957.

Temple Bat Yam Has New Rabbi

Temple Bat Yam has announced that Rabbi Myra Soifer will assume the leadership of the congregation this month.

Soifer was one of the first 10 women ordained as rabbi after Reform Judaism accepted them in 1972. Born in 1950 in Miami, Soifer attended Lawrence University in Appleton, Wisconsin, earned a master of arts in Hebrew Letters at Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati in 1977 and was ordained there a year later.

She served as student rabbi at the Jewish Community Center in Union City, Tennessee and at Temple Beth Shalom in Charlotte, North Carolina, before becoming assistant rabbi in New Orleans in 1978. She served Temple Sinai in Reno beginning in 1984 until she formally retired after 25 years there. Then she returned for a short time until the congregation hired a new full time rabbi last year.

During Rabbi Soifer’s tenure, Temple Sinai completed a huge building expansion project and the congregation tripled in size. She has been very active in interfaith work and is considered an outstand-

FISH Visitation Program

The FISH visitation program provides friendly visits for brief periods to those who would like some companionship in their own home environment. As some island elders or disabled people are no longer able to leave their homes, a shared cup of coffee while viewing favorite photos or reminiscing about the past can brighten the day and reduce social isolation.

Some volunteers help by taking them shopping or to run errands. Others stay at the home for coffee and conversation.

Lasting friendships have formed, and this program has proven to be rewarding to all those involved. By providing companionship and outreach, FISH of Sanibel-Captiva volunteers help relieve isolation and loneliness among older and disabled adults. In addition, FISH can also ensure they are receiving needed social and emotional support, and offer knowledge and access to community resources and services that may be of interest.

Anyone interested in becoming a FISH volunteer may contact the Walk-In Center at 472-4775.

by Capt. Matt Mitchell

For non-stop action and a great mixed bag of fish, our winter fishing on shrimp is hard to beat. Catching 10 or more varieties of fish on a trip has been pretty standard and although most are on the smaller side of the slot, it’s great just to have bites every cast. Add to that, you are catching trout multiple times. Generally, when the line goes slack is when the fish has the bait in its mouth; wind tight and give them a few little pops of the rod tip to put the hook in their hard mouth. Although we have not really started to see the pre-spawn monsters, the little bit of cold weather in our future should really have this bite going off. Our big one of the week measured right at 18 inches. Minimum size on sheepshead is 12 inches and anglers are allowed a generous limit of 15 per person per day.

Many places I targeted sheepshead this week held another winter staple of our area, black drum. This relative of the redfish has a slightly wider body and black and white stripes. As they grow larger, the stripes begin to fade. They don’t fight quite as hard as their cousin, the redfish, size for size, but on light tackle a 5–10 pound drum is a good fight and a fun fish to catch.

What often surprises me is the large size of the black drum you catch while fishing with a small chunk of shrimp often intended for a sheepshead. Small black drum fillets are hard to distinguish from redfish; they even have the little red spots towards the tail section of the meat. As these fish get bigger though, they are five pounds.

Trout fishing was also a pretty consistent bite this week though most of the trout caught seemed to be right at or just over the 15-inch slot. Most places that held trout also had good mixed bag action with jack crevalle, Spanish mackerel and ladyfish. Deeper bays in the “Ding” Darling Refuge held big schools of trout. In deeper water, bouncing a shrimp on the bottom was the way to go while on shallower flats a popping cork caught more fish.

It’s been over a month since we had a big cold front come through (around Thanksgiving) that really cooled things off. Because of this, much of our usual winter fishing is just not quite in full swing. Usually by December, what we refer to as “rat redfish” (16- to 20-inch reds), should be all over the narrow mangrove creeks where they spend the winter, but they have not showed up in the deep back country yet.

CROW Case Of The Week:

Turtle Hatchlings

by Patricia Molloy

Baby care has always been a big part of what CROW does, but something unusual happened last month at the Sanibel wildlife clinic: Captive births. On October 15, a peninsula cooter (Pseudemys peninsularis) was admitted after being hit by a careless driver. Dr. Heather ordered radiographs of the patient to determine the extent of her injuries. That’s when it was discovered that the adult female was carrying 15 eggs.

Found throughout peninsular Florida, peninsula cooters spend much of their time gliding through still and slow-moving fresh water or basking on slippery logs and sun-soaked rocks. In the wild, adult females construct nests consisting of three holes: one deep hole in which the mother lays most of her eggs and two, more shallow holes that are thought to be false nests. Only one or two eggs are laid in each false nest in what may be an attempt to distract predators from finding and destroying the entire brood.

Unfortunately, the young mother admitted to CROW would not survive her injuries. Upon realizing the gravity of the turtle’s condition, Dr. Heather performed emergency surgery to extract the tiny eggs. After the procedure, the staff filled a plastic container with sand, nestled the soft-shelled eggs uniformly in the granules, and placed them in a warm incubator. After several weeks, perfectly formed baby turtles began poking their heads out of the nest. Each newborn was quickly placed in a nearby tub to begin swimming lessons.

The staff ensured that the baby cooters were sufficiently warm by placing a 250-watt red heating lamp above the tub. To promote healthy growth, the siblings were fed nutrient-rich food several times per day. Once all the eggs had hatched, plans were made to release the little hatchlings.

The staff and students at CROW beamed with pride when the baby peninsula cooters were set free. What a joyous beginning to the new year.

Joewood: The Sanibel City Plant

Enjoy the fragrance of the star-shaped flowers, most pronounced when the flowers are most abundant in July and August, more subtly November through June. The flowers are ivory-white, rising in clusters at the ends of branches. The white petals spread wide when the flowers open. There is a pronounced difference between the male and female flowers, both appearing on the same plant. The fruit ripens in autumn, its tiny berries about 1/3 inch in diameter, orange-red and hard coated when fully ripe.

Classified as a shrub or small tree, joewood is a slow growing native evergreen with many branches forming a compact round top. It grows in dry soil or silica sand in the immediate neighborhood of the shore or coast; its native range includes Southwest Florida, the Florida Keys and the Bahamas. Joewood can be seen in abundance on Silver Key with several specimens also in the city hall plantings. It is listed as a threatened species due to habitat loss and the lengthy amount of time required for a new plant to produce seed.

“Jacquina” honors Nicholas Joseph von Jaquin who collected and cataloged many West Indian plants; “keyensis” for the Florida Keys, one of its habitats.

d By Resolution No. 89-117 (June 20, 1989) joewood was named the City Plant of Sanibel.

The Natural Resources Department section of the city’s website, www.mysanibel.com, offers information and photos of native plants, a listing of licensed contractors, Sanibel’s vegetation standards and codes, and the Environmental Reference Handbook prepared by the city’s vegetation committee. The vegetation committee also offers free native plant tours of the grounds at city hall at 10 a.m. on the second Wednesday and fourth Saturday of the month from November to April.

Redfish The Topic Of Sanibel Fishing Club Meeting

submitted by Charles Sobczak

On Tuesday, January 14, the Sanibel Island Fishing Club will be holding its first monthly meeting of the new year. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the north room of The Community House, 2173 Periwinkle Way, Sanibel.

The featured speakers will begin their presentation at 7 p.m. sharp. There is no admission charge for the event and the angling public is cordially invited to attend. Pizza and refreshments will be available at a nominal charge.

The speakers are Sarah Walters, a research marine biologist with the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission, and Capt. Jimmy Burnsed, Jr. of the Santiva Fishing Team. The presentation will focus on one of the most popular inshore and near-shore game fish in Southwest Florida, redfish (aka Red drum).

Walters is presently completing an in-depth two-year research study into the life cycle of this amazing fish, from spawning to its juvenile growth in the estuaries and finally its migration into the open waters of the Gulf of Mexico, where mature redfish can reach sizes approaching one-hundred pounds.

For the second part of the presentation, Burnsed will address the various fishing techniques he uses for catching these exciting game fish. He has been fishing in the waters surrounding Sanibel and Captiva since he was a boy and is considered one of the premier fishing guides in Southwest Florida.

For information on joining the club, contact Rol Campbell at 472-8994 or attend our next meeting. The club has been an active social club for more than 29 years on the island. To learn more about the club, and to view our fishing photos or to explore our fish recipe section, go to www.sanibelslandfishingclub.com.

Sackett has an extensive background in campaign strategy, political media and message development, and demographic targeting. Refreshments at will be served at 6:30 p.m. and the program starts at 7 p.m.

Sackett serves as the pollster and strategic consultant for over 30 Republican governors, U.S. Senators, members of Congress, and state leaders, including House Speaker John Boehner, U.S. Senators Kelly Ayotte of New Hampshire and Jon Barrasso of Wyoming, and governors Brian Sandoval of Nevada and Rick Snyder of Michigan. Sackett also served as a pollster for the Giuliani for President campaign and as a member of the polling team for President George W. Bush’s re-election campaign.

Tufts of ribbon fern (Vittaria lineata) are a common sight hanging from the boots of cabbage palms in the hammocks, swamps, and pinelands of peninsular Florida. The fronds are flexible, undivided, and only about one-eighth of an inch wide. Dark green and thick, they can be several feet long, a trait that gives the plant other common names, including shoestring fern, grass fern, and beard fern.

Reddish brown sori, or spore-producing structures, form two lines on the undersides of the fronds along the under-rolled edges. The short creeping stems are brown, scaly, and hairy.

As with many air plants, ribbon ferns’ root hairs absorb nutrients from the organic debris available on its established perch. Epiphytes are not parasitic but use the host plant only as a platform.

If you want to encourage native ferns to take up residence in your yard, planting cabbage palms is a good idea. Ribbon fern is one of several native epiphytes, including golden polypody fern (Phlebodium aureum), that typically make up the miniature ecosystems that flourish in and on Florida’s state tree.

This fern is used medicinally by Florida Seminole and Miccosukee Indians.

Water Supply Is Adequate For This Time Of Year

submitted by Gabe Margasak, South Florida Water Management District

According to the South Florida Water Management District (SFWMD) meteorologists, the water supplies of Miami and South Florida are adequate for this time of year. Adequate for December, representing 23 percent of its historic average for this date. The lake saw below average rainfall.

Lake Okeechobee stood at 14.16 NGVD on January 2, 0.58 inches below its historic average for this date. The lake received 0.37 inches of direct rainfall in December, representing 23 percent of average, or 1.23 inches below average.

December stats from the National Weather Service:

- West Palm Beach: Tied for the warmest December on record since 1931, at 74.4°F
- Fort Lauderdale: 3rd warmest on record since 2006, at 74.2°F
- Miami: 2nd warmest on record since 1931, at 75.3°F
- Naples: 3rd warmest on record since 1948, at 72.4°F
- For the calendar year 2013, the average temperatures at these sites rank in the top 10 warmest for each location.

Highlights of the 2013-14 South Florida dry season forecast from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration’s Climate Prediction Center include:

- Below-normal precipitation
- A possibility of near to slightly above-normal temperatures
- For reference, South Florida precipitation in an average dry season is 12 to 15 inches in the interior/west; 15 to 21 inches in the east.

During South Florida’s Dry Season from November through May:

- About 18 inches of rainfall is the average;
- May and October are important transition months;
- March, April and May are the driest months because evaporation is highest.

The South Florida Water Management District is a regional, governmental agency that oversees the water resources in the southern half of the state – 16 counties from Orlando to the Keys. It is the oldest and largest of the state’s five water management districts. The agency mission is to manage and protect water resources of the region by balancing and improving water quality, flood control, natural systems and water supply. A key initiative is cleanup and restoration of the Everglades.

Input Sought On Buttonwood And Heron Pond Preserves

Buttonwood and Heron Pond Preserve, located on the southern half of the state – deep creek road three-quarter miles east of Stringfellow Road, now has a management plan the public can view to offer input. The plan will be the topic of discussion at a noon meeting Monday, January 13 at the North Fort Myers Recreation Center.

The meeting's address is North Fort Myers Recreation Center, 2000 North Recreation Park Way in North Fort Myers. Written comments are encouraged and can be given at the meeting, online or through the mail. For more information, visit www.conservation2020.org.

Water Supply Is Adequate For This Time Of Year

submitted by Gabe Margasak, South Florida Water Management District

Nearly a month’s worth of rain fell during three days in some areas of Miami while much of Central and South Florida experienced below-average precipitation in December, South Florida Water Management District (SFWMD) meteorologists have reported.

“When it comes to the regional water supply, we are still being sustained by accumulated above-average wet season rainfall and a few recent rainfall events,” said Susan Sylvester, chief of the Water Control Operations Bureau. “It is too early to predict how rainfall in the remainder of the dry season will impact the system.”

District-wide, only 0.74 inches of rain fell in November, representing 39 percent of average, or 1.15 inches below average for the month.

Miami-Dade County received 3.62 inches of rain, representing 190 percent of average, or 1.71 inches above average. Warm temperatures, close proximity to the gulf stream and stalled fronts combined to cause above average rainfall in portions of Miami both in November and December.

The Kissimmee region, the east Coosahatchee and the southwest coast were the driest portions of the 16-county district, with all areas from Orlando to Naples recording more than 1.21 inches or more below-average rainfall.

Coastal areas of Martin, St. Lucie, Palm Beach and Broward counties also saw below average rainfall.

Lake Okeechobee stood at 14.16 NGVD on January 2, 0.58 inches below its historic average for this date. The lake received 0.37 inches of direct rainfall in December, representing 23 percent of average, or 1.23 inches below average.

Micromollusks, Hidden Gems Of Our Beaches

by José H. Leal, PhD, The Bailey-Matthews Shell Museum Curator and Director of Education

Casual beachcombers may walk the beaches for years and not notice them, but “micros” (as they are known in the jargon of shell collectors) represent a big parcel of the local diversity of mollusks. Ranging in dimensions from half-an-inch to the size of a grain of sand, micros may be as handsome as their larger counterparts.

To find micros, collectors take home coarse sand scooped by the water line, then search for them using a hand lens or small microscope. Read more about it on the shell museum website at http://bit.ly/seilaadamsi.

This week at the Museum – all events are free with museum admission.

Shell Museum Events
• Exhibit Chat – this 10-minute presentation will provide an in-depth look to a different exhibit. Daily at 11 a.m.
• Live Tank Demonstration – see live mussels up-close and personal. See a fighting conch use its foot for locomotion, watch a lighting whelk slam its trap door shut for protection, or witness scallops zip across the tank with jet propulsion skills. Daily at 3 p.m.

CASI Kick-Off

The mayor pointed out that the combined property tax value of Lee and Collier counties is $150 billion. A 10 percent drop in property value may well result from degraded water quality and that would have a devastating effect on state as well as local economies. In addition, the tourist industry, which pumps $4.4 billion a year into the local economy, is at risk if poor water and beach quality are perceived as common events.

The mayor and local partners have been successful in getting meaningful water quality legislation passed at both the state and federal levels but legislative bills contain no funding. Recommendations for funding are generated by appropriation committees. The mayor has been in conversations with key members of appropriation committees at both the state and federal level. Citizens participation will be crucial when these committees and legislatures vote on funding. At these times, the city asks citizens to write or email decision makers, providing us with names, addresses and suggested talking points. Gulf front, beach front property owners and associations are especially hard hit so their participation is essential for success. Memories of the mounds of red algae on our beaches several years ago, caused by degraded water quality, should provide ample motivation. To receive the city email alerts on this and other topics, sign up at mysanibel.com.

This CASI kick-off breakfast was sponsored by Gulfshore Insurance, represented by Tammy LoVecchio and Ryan Schmidt. The next CASI breakfast will be on January 24 and feature Sanibel City Manager Judie Zimomra.

Rec Center Fun Day January 20

Another Fun Day at the Sanibel Recreation Center for grades Kindergarten through 8th grade is scheduled for Monday, January 20. There will be a variety of athletic games, craft projects and special entertainment.

This program operates from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Each child needs to bring a lunch, swimsuit and towel. Light snacks will be provided.

The early bird rate (before January 14) is $20 for members, $25 for non-members, after that it’s $24 and $30 respectively.

The recreation center is at 3880 Sanibel-Captiva Road. To register, call 472-0345 or visit www.mysanibel.com.

Scholarship Winner Is Shell Club Speaker

The next Sanibel-Captiva Shell Club meeting will have as guest speaker Alisha Gray, the 2013 recipient of the scholarship funded by the Sanibel-Captiva Shell Club/Mary and Al Bridell Memorial Fellowship.

Her presentation will focus on red tide research she is conducting at the College of Marine Science at the University of South Florida in St. Petersburg. She is a third-year graduate student and plans to finish her master’s degree in the Marine Resources Assessment Program this year.

Door prizes and refreshments will complete the afternoon.

The meeting is open to the public will be held on Sunday, January 19 at 2 p.m. in the Education Room of The Bailey-Matthews Shell Museum.
These are usually hidden channels that can take you from one open body of water through the mangrove forest and into another open body of water. I called them “caves” because before Hurricane Charley, the mangrove canopy many times completely covered these dark little creeks through the forest and you felt like you were inside a cave. If you looked at aerial photographs of the mangroves, you wouldn’t think there was a channel there at all.

Today, since the winds of Charley pretty much broke the upper half of the mangrove canopy off, these creeks are more open to the sky and their pathway more easily followed on Google satellite maps. I expect it will be many years before the new forest will once again hide these channels from the world above.

And then I give them another little thrill when I say, “Now, as we go inside the cave, if you think you see a spider crawling up the mangrove roots or on the branches, you’re probably not seeing a spider; you’re actually seeing a mangrove tree crab.” I figure it is in the best interest of the stability of the canoe that if I warn them ahead of time about the crabs not being spiders they will be less likely to be startled when they spot them.

If I let them discover the crabs on their own, they usually won’t notice them until the crab is about six inches away from their face, scurrying up the roots or branches as we pass by, at which point they just about jump out of the canoe because their first thought is that the spider is about to jump on their nose.

This little “spider-like” creature is actually an important cog in the ecosystem of the mangrove forest. These small crabs (under an inch long) are omnivores that were discovered in feeding trials to actually prefer animal food such as carrion and small invertebrates over plant food, but in practice they feed mostly on the leaves of the mangrove trees on which they live. It is felt that it is the breaking down of the mangrove leaf litter by the crab’s consumption that contributes significantly to the redistribution of those nutrients throughout the mangrove ecosystem.

In addition, the mangrove tree crab impacts the entire bay ecosystem as an important producer of zooplankton to the surrounding waterways. The production of thousands of larvae of this crab, combined with other zooplankton, is thought to be one of the main pathways of energy transfer between the benthic and pelagic food webs.

And what that means is that we eventually get to eat grouper and snapper due in large part to the existence of this little tree crab. So, once again, we find that something that appears on the surface to have little value for the human species actually serves a very important role.

But besides the value of this little crab to the marine ecosystem, I find it fascinating because it can spend most of its life out of the water and up in the trees. The mangrove tree crab has been able to evolve the ability to live in the trees even though it is not an air-breather like some species of crab. Instead, it absorbs oxygen by flowing a thin film of water over something called the branchiostegites, which is a reticulated expansion of the carapace covering its gills. When the branchial water begins to dry up, the crab must descend from the tree to wet its gills again.

What I like about this is that it shows me how Life is constantly exploring new ways to expand out beyond the edges of the envelope. Remember in the movie Jurassic Park, when the lab technician was trying to explain that the dinosaurs couldn’t breed because they were all genetically-engineered females, and the response from Malcolm was, “Life will find a way!”

I think it’s cool that the mangrove tree crab has found a way to live up in the trees even though it was born with gills and not lungs.

Author To Tell His Tales At Refuge

Hear about the underbelly of Florida wilderness and how state wardens track wildlife thieves during two lectures by Bob H. Lee, author of Backcountry Lawman: True Stories from a Florida Game Warden. The lectures begin at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Friday, January 17 in the “Ding” Darling Visitor & Education Center.

Most people have never imagined the often dicey, sometimes comical and bizarre job of a Florida game warden. Backcountry Lawman tells what it’s like to catch an armed poacher in the act – alone, at night, without backup or a decent radio to call for help.

Lee spent over three decades as a water patrol officer on Florida’s St. Johns River and a land patrol lieutenant in Putnam, St. Johns and Flagler counties. Before retiring in 2007, he taught man-tracking classes through the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission.

His stories describe the cat-and-mouse games often played between game wardens and poachers of ducks, turkeys, hogs, deer, gator and other species. He reveals, for example, how “monkey fishing” – electrocution of catfish – carried the same outlaw mystique in the rivers of Florida as moonshining once did in the hills of Georgia and Tennessee.

Lee has lived through incidents of legend, including one of the biggest environmental busts in Florida history. His fascinating memoir reveals the danger and the humor in the unsung exploits of game wardens.

“Lee recounts his amazing and challenging career as a Florida game warden with wit, wisdom and careful attention to detail,” writes Jeff Hahr, former patrol supervisor, Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission. “You will travel with him as he boats the St. Johns River, walk beside him as he wades past resting alligators, and listen for that gunshot on a cold Putnam County night.”

Admission is free to the lecture, which is sponsored by The Sanibel Captiva Trust Company and “Ding” Darling Wildlife Society-Friends of the Refuge (DDWS), as part of its 12-week Friday Afternoon Lecture Series.

Seating is limited and available on a first-come basis. Following the lectures, Lee will sign copies of his book, which is available for purchase in the refuge nature center, proceeds from which benefit refuge conservation and education programs.

Wildlife Drive is closed on Friday, but visitors are welcome to visit the free education center and the recreational opportunities at Tarpon Bay Explorers, the refuge’s official concessionaire located at its Tarpon Bay Recreation Area.

For more information on the lecture series, call 472-1100 ext. 241 or visit www.dingdarlingsociety.org/lectures.

On Thursday, January 16 at 7:30 p.m., Dr. Marshall Faintich will take the San-Cap Audubon audience on a visual narrative presentation entitled The Birds of Wintergreen. The Wintergreen area of Virginia is the 15 mile long Rockfish River Valley and the surrounding mountains in Nelson County, Virginia, located about 30 miles Southwest of Charlottesville. It includes the Thomas Jefferson Loop of the Virginia Birding Trail. More than 220 bird species have been seen in this area.

Dr. Faintich is an astronomer by training, a cartographer by trade and a student of ornithology, numismatics, archaeology and history. He holds a BS degree in Applied Mathematics from the University of Missouri at Rolla and a MS and PhD in Astronomy from the University of Illinois. He is the birding activity manager for the Rockfish Valley Trail, is listed in the Virginia Society of Ornithological Speakers Directory and is author of A Photographic Guide to the Birds of Wintergreen, autographed copies of which will be available for purchase at the lecture.

Faintich’s wildlife photos have appeared in newspapers, magazines, websites, government reports and presentations. His own website contains more than 4,000 photos of his work. His first camera, received at age 6, was a Kodak #2 Model C brown cardboard box camera that had a small lens, a viewer and a crank to advance film. He took lots of practice photos for the first two years until he was then given actual film by his mother. He went on his first bird walk with camera in hand in 1958 and his second bird walk in 2006. From 1958 to 2006, Faintich participated in satellite system studies, astrodynamics, digital cartography, digital information analysis and much more.

This is the second of eight Sanibel-Captiva Audubon lectures to be held in 2014 on Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m. at The Community House, 2173 Periwinkle Way, Sanibel. As always, all are welcome to attend. Doors open at 6:30 p.m., and parking is available at The Community House as well as across Periwinkle Way in the Herb Strauss Theater parking area. A $5 donation is appreciated, with proceeds after costs being used to promote conservation on Sanibel and in Florida.

Learn How To Catch A Cane Toad At SCCF

Come to the SCCF Nature Center on Tuesday, January 14 at 10 a.m. and learn about Sanibel’s newest invasive non-native amphibian. The giant marine toad (aka cane toad) was documented during SCCF’s annual frog call survey this summer for the first time.

Come and learn about this newest invader and how to help control them in your neighborhood and yard. A live cane toad will make an appearance for the program. Program guests will leave the program as a graduate “Toad Buster,” hopefully returning to their neighborhoods to catch cane toads around lights after dark.

No one knows what will happen to our native critters that try to eat these toxic toads. Dogs can die if they eat one... what happens to a bobcat that eats a cane toad? The toads are not toxic to handle... unless you eat one! Just wash your hands after handling or use gloves or a net to capture them and bring them to SCCF for freezing.

Call SCCF Wildlife Habitat Management at 472-3984 for more information. The program is free for all to attend. The SCCF Nature Center is located at 3333 Sanibel Captiva Road. Call 472-2329 for more information.

SCCF’s Turtle Tracks Program

On Thursday, January 16 at 10 a.m., the SCCF Nature Center will present a program about the lifecycles and habits of sea turtles that nest on island beaches in the summertime and what SCCF’s nest monitoring program is doing to protect them.

On all of Florida’s beaches this summer, the endangered green sea turtle nested in record numbers, a 70 percent increase since 1989. Program participants will discuss the trend and learn why.

The Turtle Tracks program is free to SCCF members and children, or $5 for adults. Call 472-2329 for more information.

Sand Castle Building Competition

The event starts off on Friday January 25 at 3 p.m. with participants receiving tips from master builder Mark Mason of Team Sandtastic, who has sculpted sand structures and held clinics on the beaches of Florida and worldwide. Mason’s clinic will help the teams finalize their designs and show them how to bring those designs to life.

On Saturday at 10 a.m. the teams will begin crafting their designs in the 50 tons of sand trucked in. Funfest attendees will be able to vote for the People’s Choice Award. The competition will be judged after 3 p.m. on Saturday and winners will be announced on Sunday afternoon. The sculptures will remain on display throughout the weekend.

Mason, a professional sand sculptor, says people need not be intimidated by the professional sand castle builders they may have seen. He suggests that teams look in magazines or online for ideas of what they want to sculpt. Designs can be anything from the classic castle to a corporate logo. Teams don’t need to make a sketch, just bring some ideas and photos or clip art, and Mason can give them guidance on how to build it.

In addition, Mason will demonstrate his own skills by creating a unique sand sculpture for The Community House. “This will be a fun opportunity for local businesses, organizations or families to assemble a team, learn the tricks of sand sculpting and spend some time playing in the sand” said event chair Salli Kirkland.

The event is sponsored by Billy’s Rentals and Bike Shop and Congress Jewelers and Sealife by Congress. The expense of the event is covered by the sponsors. A $50 donation covers the team entrance fee.

“Given there are so many talented people on Sanibel, we thought it would be fun to give people who would otherwise not choose sand as a medium the chance to try their hand at sand sculpting,” Kirkland said. “We’re hoping this event will bring together businesses, local art groups, either students or galleries or even youth groups, families or garden clubs for a chance to learn the art of sand castle building and compete in a fun event while raising community awareness of their group or cause.”

Teams must pre-register. Registration forms are available at Billy’s Bike Shop or Billy’s Rentals, 1470 and 1509 Periwinkle Way, and at Congress Jewelers in Periwinkle Place Shopping Center. Deadline is January 22 and space is limited. For more information, contact Kirkland at salli@sanibelbike.com or telephone 472-4919.

A Platter Of Comedies Is Served

by Di Saggau

Theatre Conspiracy is showing three one-act comedies in Relatively Speaking, featuring works by Ethan Coen, Elaine May and Woody Allen, in that order. The opening night crowd found plenty to laugh at as actors portrayed the infinitely inventive ways family members can do us wrong.

The first is Talking Cure, where Larry (Todd Fleck), a post office worker, resists attempts by the doctor (Ken Johnson) to talk about the violent act that has landed him in an institution. He says, “I guess I’m hoping, could this be one of those things where it turns out I’m the doctor and you’re the mental patient?” The play concludes with a flash back of Jerry’s parents (Johnny Maloney and Stella Ruiz) engaging in antagonistic dialogue that suggests their son would lead a doomed life from the beginning.

George Is Dead is a study of narcissism at its peak. Doreen is demanding and childish and cannot face the fact that she needs to make funeral arrangements.

Honeymoon Motel is by far the funniest. There are so many choice one-liners, it’s as if Allen was saving them for years to throw into this cast of 10 wacky characters. The young bride (Stella Ruiz) and her groom’s step-father (Scott Thomson) are the first to enter the tacky love-nest motel room. I won’t give away the play’s twisted premise, as it provides one of the biggest laughs. One by one, husbands and wives, friends and even an inebriated Rabbi enter the fray as acidic remarks and irrational behavior abound. Then the pizza delivery guy arrives bearing a pie that’s half sausage and half pepperoni, along with a few morsels of wisdom. You end up realizing he’s the smartest one of the bunch.

Commissioners Reappointed

John Talmage – to three-year terms during Tuesday’s meeting.

At its November 5 meeting, the council voted unanimously to reappoint Ketteman, Krekel and Talmage, since all had indicated that they desired to continue to serve on the seven-member board. At that time, there was no objection to the reappointments.

However, during last month’s council meeting, a resolution that would have reappointed the trio was met with opposition from the public. The council then invited candidates to submit their names for consideration and four did. They are Jason Maughan, Mike Miller, Peter Gaines and Robin Moyle.

On Tuesday, Mayor Kevin Ruane, Vice Mayor Doug Congress and councilmen Mick Denham and Marty Harrity voted to reappoint the current commissioners, whose terms were due to expire next week. The vote totals were:

- Tom Krekel – 4 votes
- Chuck Ketteman – 3 votes
- John Talmage – 3 votes
- Jason Maughan – 1 vote
- Mike Miller – 1 vote
- Peter Gaines – 0 votes
- Robert Moyle – 0 votes

All three commissioners will be officially sworn in at their next meeting, scheduled for Tuesday, January 14 at 9 a.m.);

An Inside Look At Wildlife Recovery

The CROW Picture Show offers insights about the native and migratory wildlife species brought to CROW (Clinic for the Rehabilitation of Wildlife), with photos of patients in treatment at the facility.

In 2012, CROW’s wildlife hospital cared for 3,583 sick, injured, and orphaned animals. Of the 200 different species, 61 percent were birds, with 33 percent mammals and 6 percent reptiles.

CROW is not permitted to display its patients publically, so this presentation offers the next best thing: numerous candid snapshots of current and past patients, with commentary by Claudia Burns, a veteran clinic volunteer.

The next CROW Picture Show is on Friday, January 17 at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in CROW’s Visitor Education Center at 3883 Sanibel-Captiva Road, across from the Sanibel School. Admission is $5 for adults, $3 for teens, free for members and children 12 and under. The entry fee also includes access to the Visitor Education Center, which exhibits CROW’s efforts to save wildlife through care, education and collaboration.

The Sanibel Public Library Foundation’s Lunch with the Author fundraiser is not just an opportunity to meet major authors and learn how they come up with books that make bestselling lists, it’s a time to meet with friends over lunch.

The foundation’s third luncheon will host critically acclaimed author Chris Bohjalian at The Sanctuary on Tuesday, February 18. For $60 per person, Bohjalian fans and readers interested in an author’s observations on life and writing are invited for lunch starting at 12 p.m. followed by a presentation by the author from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

Nine-time New York Times bestselling author Bohjalian has had his books translated into over 25 languages, and three have been made into movies. He writes novels that feature characters who reflect the complexity of human behavior and blur the lines between absolute right and wrong. They are ordinary people facing extraordinarily challenging situations.

His novel Midwives was a selection of Oprah’s Book Club in 1997. Since then, he has maintained his best-seller status with dramatic explorations of broad-reaching topics, including the homeless epidemic in The Double Blind, domestic violence in Secrets of Eden and the Armenian Genocide in The Sandcastle Girls.

His latest novel, The Light in the Ruins, debuted as a New York Times, Publishers Weekly, and national Indiebound bestseller. The book is a personal and his-

Island Artists Help Celebrate Gallery’s Milestone Anniversary

Sanibel artists Carol Rosenberg, Ann Bischoff, Bea Pappas, Gordon Coughlin, Joyce Rand and Mary Ann Devos are among the artists who will join in the 20th anniversary celebration of Hirdie-Girdie Art Gallery on Sanibel this month. As founding members of the colorful art cooperative when it began two decades ago, they will be recognized at a reception at the gallery on Monday, January 13. The alumni artists’ works will be displayed along with those of Hirdie Girdie’s 15 current artists through the month of January.

“So the years we’ve had so many talented people who have given their time and enthusiasm to keep our gallery fresh and unique,” said oil painter Gordon Coughlin, who has been a member of the co-op since its beginning. “We’ve been a creative family for 20 years, and that means helping each other when necessary and celebrating each other’s successes.”

The public is invited to the gallery’s anniversary reception at 2490 Library Way on January 13 from 4 to 6:30 p.m. Bailey’s General Store is providing an anniversary cake.

A few months after first meeting her, John Lennon tried to commission Yoko Ono to build a "light house" in his garden.

"Oh, that was conceptual," Ono demurred, referring to a structure she'd built in her imagination with beams of refracted light emanating from hypothetical prisms. In the 47 years that have ensued since that conversation, Ono has constructed a legacy as the world’s penultimate conceptual artist.

If Ono had her druthers, people entering the Bob Rauschenberg Gallery on Friday, January 24 to see Yoko Ono: Imagine Peace (YOIP) would be handed a set of instructions and asked to fill the exhibition hall’s blank walls with magnificent artworks projected from their imaginations. The magic of YOIP does not go quite that far, but there will be no viewers or spectators at the exhibit. Everyone who passes through the Rauschenberg Gallery’s doors will be an active collaborator the instant they are handed an on-site encounter work such as Wish Tree, Map Piece and Play It By Trust.

"I spend a lot of time in museums and never fail to be amazed at how people spend more time reading labels than looking at the art," stated co-curator Kevin Concannon, the Virginia Tech director of visual arts who orchestrated the first YOIP fresh and unique, the exhibition has been totally reconceived for the Rauschenberg Gallery. "It really is a ‘new’ exhibition, with everything except Play It By Trust being made site-specifically for our show," said new Rauschenberg Gallery Director Jade Dellinger. "We will include material related to Yoko’s Indica exhibition and her original Sales List, which were never included in previous exhibitions and are being lent by Yoko’s Studio One in New York City.

Material from John & Yoko’s Year of Peace has also been eliminated, which serves to place the focus on Ono’s contributions as a conceptual artist. For Ono, thoughts are things. She is living testament to the affirmation of Spartan-like self-discipline. That’s why all the negativity that has been hurled at her since her liaison with Lennon has failed to derail either her creativity or message.

But Ono does not operate exclusively in the realm of the individual. The magic of Yoko Ono: Imagine Peace is that it works on the collective zeitgeist first of all, then of the surrounding community, and ultimately the entire world.

Say “imagine peace” enough and you will. Write your individual wish for peace on a tag and affix it to Ono’s Wish Tree, and you’ve converted thoughts to action. Hear that your wish has joined more than a million others at the Imagine Peace Tower in Iceland, and you will come to believe that peace is not just possible, but inevitable when enough energized people share that dream.

"But peace can mean more than just the end of war," said Dellinger. "It can mean personal balance and well-being, harmony within your family or the end to all that is bad around us, is itself a marvelous victory," quotes Concannon from Ono’s favorite passage in a 2004 Howard Zinn article. And since you believe what you think about, there’s everything to be gained by controlling your thoughts and attracting the future you want and deserve.

If those who attend the Bob Rauschenberg exhibit leave with that sense, with the conviction that they can change their lives and even our culture through the power of their imagination and a cognizance that we are all part of a universal scheme, then Concannon, co-curator John Noga and Dellinger will have done their job, and Yoko herself will be thrilled.

“A dream you dream alone is only a dream,” Ono declared in her 1972 single, Now Or Never, “but a dream we dream together is reality.” That’s as true today as it was then.

You can share that dream and become part of a new “gallery happening” on January 24 when Yoko Ono: Imagine Peace opens at the Bob Rauschenberg Gallery on the Lee campus of Edison State College. For more information, call 489-9313.

Poet’s Corner

If You Could Only See Beautiful World

by Ethan Slocum

If you could only see how beautiful
The world is,
The pieces would come together
And it would all make sense to you
Love was hidden in the shadows
Happiness made up the clouds
The sun rose to greet you,
Before you made your way,
If you could only see how beautiful
The world is,
You could be grasping for the air
It could take you away,
Far beyond here
You could sway in the moonlight,
Before the firelight
Paint a picture in the sky,
With the lights from the open
If you could only see how beautiful
The world is,
You could swim in golden waters
Float away into the mist
That forms on the darkest of Seas,
But all of this,
Does not appear to you
Unless you keep your eyes open,
And free your mind,
Be alive here,
With us,
Awake once more
In the rays of light,
That beams down from the heavens,
And see how beautiful the world is.

Ethan Slocum is 20 years old, attends Edison State College and will be transferring to FGCU for his English major. He has had three poems published in Edison’s publication called The Illuminations. He wants to be a creative writer/English professor.

Monday Night Movie

The Hunt

by Di Saggau

The BIG ARTS movie for Monday Night, January 13 is The Hunt, a film about a maligned man who falls prey to malice. The Hunt has been widely acclaimed as Danish director Thomas Vinterberg’s best film. It stars Mads Mikkelsen in a hauntingly, layered and nuanced drama about an innocent man who becomes the victim of a small town witch hunt. He plays Lucas, a much-loved teacher in a small Danish hunting village, whose life starts to come apart when he is falsely accused of an inappropriate act by a young girl. The girl is confused and even though she takes back what she said, the adults will not let it drop. Soon other children, coaxed by grown-up suggestions, add accusations. Lucas is not jailed but the villagers are still convinced of his guilt.

The Hunt is a merciless examination of the fear and savagery that can take place in such a situation. Mikkelsen, who does not often play sympathetic roles, (he was James Bond’s nemesis in Casino Royale) has never been better. He won Best Actor for his role as Lucas at Cannes in 2012. The film runs one hour, 51 minutes. The Monday Night Movie January 20 is My Afternoons With Margueritte. More on that next week.

Admission to BIG ARTS Monday Night Film Series is $8 and all screenings begin at 7 p.m. in Schein Performance Hall. Each film is followed by a complimentary reception and discussion in Phillips Gallery. Sponsors are Bank of the Islands and Stan and Visnja Gembicki. Supporters are Sanibel Taxi, Jerry’s Foods of Sanibel and John R. Wood Real Estate. BIG ARTS is located at 900 Dunlop Road. Tickets are available by calling 395-0900.

One of Sanibel Island’s longtime residents and legendary businesswoman, Betty Jean Puff, celebrated her 90th birthday earlier this week with a low-key evening spent with a friend having dinner.

However, the former purveyor of the B-Hive, Black Pearl, Baywind Plaza and Bettye’s Bounty, recently reflected on her incredible life as well as her experiences before and after moving to Southwest Florida more than 50 years ago.

“I made most of my money here making T-shirts,” said Puff, who was born on January 7, 1924. “When I first came here, nobody was selling T-shirts that said ‘Sanibel’ on them.”

That was in 1962, according to Puff. She sought out lighter colored shirts and hand-drew the lettering on them herself. “They sold pretty well, too,” she added.

The Fort Wayne, Indiana native—who earned the nickname “Boots” as a toddler after curling up to take a nap in one of her father’s wader boots—excelled in art and athletics during her school years.

“I did everything… drawing, painting, ceramics, sculpture,” she recalled. “After high school, I received several scholarships to art school. But unfortunately, you have to eat.”

After graduating from high school in 1942, Puff attended drafting school for one year before being hired at General Electric. There, she worked on drafting plans for airplane superchargers and was active in ELEX, the social and professional organization for the women of the company. In her spare time, she was a key player for the company’s softball team, which won back-to-back state championships in 1944 and 1945.

Not long after, “Boots” found herself as the starting shortstop for the Fort Wayne Daisies of the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League.

“I was short, so they batted me in the leadoff spot,” said Puff. “I remember once playing in New Orleans, and my teammate who batted second asked me what kind of pitches they threw to me. I told her, ‘I don’t know… all I heard was strike three!’”

Business Partnership Blossoms

After leaving General Electric, Puff became a freelance artist and graphic designer. She became friends with a loan officer for Colonial Mortgage, Bette Parke, and the pair soon partnered on a business venture with local developer Amos Delagrange. The women designed and sold new tract home subdivisions in Fort Wayne, with Puff providing architectural drawings and floor plans.
In 1962, Puff’s life was forever changed. Although she isn’t a Sanibel native, Puff remains in her small but cozy apartment in Baywind Plaza. She likes things used to be,” and offers her opinions on what businesses she would like to see brought here.

“Some visitors asked me if there were any island natives still around,” recalled Puff. “I saw him and said, ‘Uncle Clarence, do you know if there are any native islanders here?’ and he just shrugged his should and told them, ‘I’ve lived here my entire life, but I can’t think of anyone.’”

Regarding her longevity, the still spry 90-year-old offered, “My aunt lived until 92, so I guess it’s hereditary.”

And while Parke passed away in 1996, Puff remains in her small but cozy apartment in Baywind Plaza. She likes to talk about the island’s past, “The way things used to be,” and offers her opinions on what businesses she would like to see brought here.

“I miss having a car wash… it used to be located at the old Standard gas station,” said Puff. “I don’t know where they’d put one… business lots are too expensive.”

Although she isn’t a Sanibel native, she’s been here long enough to remember some of the island’s most famous pioneers, including Clarence Rutland and the Bailey brothers, Francis, Sam and John. One of her favorite stories involves Rutland, who was standing in line at her grocery store one day.

“Some visitors asked me if there were any island natives still around,” recalled Puff. “I saw him and said, ‘Uncle Clarence, do you know if there are any native islanders here?’ and he just shrugged his should and told them, ‘I’ve lived here my entire life, but I can’t think of anyone.’”

Regarding her longevity, the still spry 90-year-old offered, “My aunt lived until 92, so I guess it’s hereditary.”

She then added, “I don’t drink coffee… and I like to be around people who are funny. I’m too serious sometimes.”

My Stars

FOR WEEK OF JANUARY 13, 2014

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Romantic aspects are high at this time for single Lambs looking for love. Warm and fuzzy feelings also are at enhanced levels for Rams and Ewes in paired relationships.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This week favors what Taureans do on -- namely, love and money. Look for more meaningful relationships for both singles and pairs, as well as an improved financial outlook.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) All lingering shreds of that recent bout with boredom are dissipated as you eagerly accept a challenging offer. Your positive mood persuades others to join you in this venture.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might need validation for a possible solution to a situation involving someone close to you. Consider asking a trusted friend or relative to help you with this problem.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Investigate carefully before agreeing to assist a friend or colleague with a personal problem. There might be hidden factors that could emerge later that will create problems for you.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Your decision to work with an associate rather than go it alone, as you first proposed, brings an unexpected bonus. Be careful not to be judgmental. Allow for free and open discussion.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A loved one’s health problem could, once later that will create problems for you. Be careful not to be judgmental. Allow for free and open discussion.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good time for the traditionally staid Scorpion to plan adjustments in your day-to-day schedules. Be more flexible and allow for more impromptu, off-the-cuff actions.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Avoid creating unnecessary fuss over a situation you don’t approve of. If it’s going to work, it will do so despite your objections. If it fails, it will do so without a push from you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Working with a trusted colleague could open your mind to exploring some considerations you previously dismissed out of hand. The weekend brings news from a loved one.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Resolving a recent problem leaves you in a good position to strengthen your influence. But continue to encourage ideas and suggestions from others.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A new friend suggests an interesting opportunity. But check it out before you snap at it. It might be a good deal for some people, but it might not work in helping you reach your goals.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a way of helping people solve their problems, making you a most-respected counselor and trusted friend.

THIS WEEK IN HISTORY

• On Jan. 17, 1865, Union Gen. William T. Sherman’s army is delayed in Savannah, Ga., by 10 days of rain as it waits to begin marching into the Carolinas. Just as Sherman and his army had destroyed nearly everything in its path in Georgia, Sherman planned to subject the Carolinas to the same brutal treatment.

• On Jan. 16, 1919, the 18th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, prohibiting the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, is ratified and becomes law. In 1933, the 21st Amendment to the Constitution repealed prohibition.

• On Jan. 14, 1954, Hollywood star Marilyn Monroe marries New York Yankees slugger Joe DiMaggio. The marriage barely got past the honeymoon, and they were divorced 274 days later. In her filing, Monroe accused her husband of “mental cruelty.”

• On Jan. 13, 1962, comedian Ernie Kovacs, who hosted his own television shows during the 1950s, dies after crashing his Chevrolet Corvair into a telephone pole in Los Angeles while driving in a rainstorm. The Corvair was later made infamous by Ralph Nader’s groundbreaking 1965 book, “Unsafe at Any Speed.”

• On Jan. 18, 1985, for the first time since joining the World Court in 1946, the United States walks out of a case, this one concerning U.S. paramilitary activities against the Nicaraguan government. The Court decided against the United States; it charged that the U.S. violated international law with its actions against the Sandinistas.

• On Jan. 19, 1977, President Gerald Ford pardons “Tokyo Rose,” a Japanese-American woman named Iva Toguri. Toguri and other women had broadcast sentimental American music and phantom announcements in a vain attempt to destroy the morale of Allied soldiers during World War II.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

• It was noted American writer and essayist Flannery O’Connor who made the following sage observation: “Truth does not change according to our ability to stomach it.”

• Even though the human brain makes up only 2 percent of the body’s mass, it consumes 20 percent of the body’s calories and oxygen.

• The chief translator for the European Parliament is named Ioannis K ономου. He is fluent in 32 languages -- and still learning.

• During World War I, the United States acquired its first “war dog.” The pit bull was found wandering around Yale Field in New Haven, Conn., by soldiers in training. On particular soldier, Cpl. Robert Conroy, became close to the dog and refused to leave Stubby behind; when Conroy was shipped out, he hid the dog on board. Stubby served overseas for 18 months and saw action in 17 battles. On more than one occasion he sniffed out surprise attacks, saving his regiment. He was known for locating wounded soldiers on the field, and he even once caught a German spy. He was the most decorated dog of the Great War, and he was promoted to sergeant for his combat service -- the only dog to be so honored. After the war, Sgt. Stubby was hailed as a hero; he led parades and met three presidents. He even has his very own brick at the World War I Memorial. It reads, “Sergeant Stubby, Hero Dog of WWI, a Brave Stray.”

• Those who study such things say that couples in a romantic relationship actually have heart rates that are in sync with each other.

• If you’re like the average American, you drink 23 gallons of coffee every year, but only 9 gallons of tea.

Bush Foundation Student Writing Contest Open

The Barbara Bush Foundation for Family Literacy announced that the Florida Celebration of Reading Writing Contest is open to third- through fifth-grade students in Southwest Florida, including Lee, Collier, Charlotte and Hendry counties.

The Florida Department of Education’s website at www.barbarabush.org announced in schools and on the foundation’s website events page at www.barbarabush.org.

Children’s author Mary Pope Osborne is hosting a contest with world-famous pianist Francesco Attesti, as a fundraiser for Gift of Life International, on Thursday, January 16 at The Heights Cultural Arts Center.

The evening will begin with hors d’oeuvres and a cash bar at 6 p.m., followed by a Gift of Life presentation. The concert will begin at 7:15 p.m. The cost is $50 per person.

Gift of Life coordinates with doctors, hospitals and Rotary clubs around the world in identifying children in need of heart surgery and then matches them with hospitals and volunteer medical teams mainly in the United States where these vital life-saving surgeries are performed.

Rotary fundraisers and donations provide the families of these children with transportation, housing and per diem expense monies so that they may accompany their child on these remarkable journeys. To date, Gift of Life programs around the world have provided life-saving heart surgery to more than 16,000 children.

Attesti is an Italian pianist of international acclaim. Among his generation of musicians, he is considered one of the finest interpreters of the Romantic and early 20th century repertoire. He began practicing the piano at the age of six and gave his first concert at 11, performing a transcription of the Toccata and Fugue in D Minor by JS Bach. When Attesti was 16, he met Sergio Perticaroli who, impressed by the youth’s capabilities at the piano, invited him to attend the Summer Masterclass at the Mozarteum of Salzburg. There, Attesti was immersed in the romantic repertoire, particularly the works of Chopin and Liszt. He continued to study with Maestro Perticaroli for several years in Rome, refining his skills and winning several national and international piano competitions, including Ibla Grand Prize International, FIDIAPA Competition, Città di, Raccorzi, Migliori Diplomati d’Italia, Rovere d’Oro, Città di Cesenatico.

New Foundation To Give Women A Hand Up With Education

Women living and/or working on Sanibel or Captiva who are looking for ways to help pay for their continuing education will have a new resource to turn to: The Starfish Scholarship Foundation. It will be the scholarship organization on the islands dedicated exclusively to assisting the non-traditional female student.

The foundation is designed to help local women who do not fit the mold of the typical scholarship recipients. Unlike new high school graduates or young college students, these are women who already have some life experience under their belts. Whether they are in the workforce, stay-at-home moms or students, they are striving to make better lives for themselves and their families.

“We all know women who work long hours with two or even three jobs just to pay their bills and keep their children safe,” said island resident Nancy Dreher, founder of the Starfish Foundation. “We know women who need just nine or more credit hours to obtain a degree but have no time and no money. These women need to get ahead.”

The Starfish Scholarship Foundation came to her from the women she met on the islands. “Every day, up to 5,000 people come to this island to work and they are part of our greater community,” she said. “They are working long hours at hourly-wage jobs where just one more certificate or course credit would give them the boost they need to get ahead.”

The Starfish Foundation, a 501(c)3 non-profit, will hold its first fundraiser at The Sanctuary Golf Club on January 21. Tickets to Education is Fashionable are $75 and are available by calling 579-0404.

For more information about The Starfish Foundation, visit www.starfish-scholarshipfoundation.com.

Locals Invited To Show Off Treasured Rides At Coolest Wheels Show

Most people have seen them from time to time cruising up Periwinkle Way. A sleek, tail-finned convertible from the ‘60s, a gleaming restored pickup truck from the ‘30s or ‘40s, a funky beach buggy, a chromed-out chopper motorcycle or a flashy sports car from “back in the day.”

The cool vehicles are out there on Sanibel and Captiva, but sightings are limited. These vehicles are usually hidden away behind garage doors. Some are the possessions of serious collectors, some are the obsessions of passionate gear-heads, and some are the toys of folks who want something unusual in their driveway.

This month, the owners of these vehicles are invited to show them off to residents and visitors by participating in a vehicle show devoted to the islands’ coolest wheels. The show will be held Sunday, January 26 as part of Sanibel Fun Fest at The Community House.

The Fun Fest Coolest Wheels show is open to all types of vehicles, including cars, trucks and motorcycles in all categories: classic, vintage, antique, exotic, custom, older muscle cars and hot rods. Trophies will be awarded for excellence as determined by a certified Antique Automobile Club of America senior master judge, and also for the entry voted most popular.

There is no entry fee, and those who display their vehicles will receive free admission to all Sunday Fun Fest activities. Vehicle check-in and parking is from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Exhibition spaces are limited so entrants are asked to call 472-2155 in advance to pre-register and reserve a spot. The show will cap off a weekend of activities at Sanibel Fun Fest. Sunday hours are noon to 4 p.m.

Other events that day will include music on the outdoor stage by The Troublemakers; a day-long exhibition of body painting with jury-awarded prizes for best designs, judging and awards presentation for the sand sculpture contest, and food and beverage concessions.

The foundation’s volunteer staff of local residents with varied professional experience will seek out qualified women and serve as mentors, helping them navigate educational bureaucracies. Foundation staff members plan to call on a network of businesses, houses of worship, schools and civic and social organizations to find potential candidates, said Dreher.

To qualify, applicants must be applying to, or accepted by, an accredited college or vocational school. The foundation will also consider requests for obtaining GEDs, technical and vocational accreditation in a recognized field, and degrees at junior colleges and universities. Candidates must also live and/or work on Sanibel or Captiva. Financial need will also be a consideration.

An exemplary past academic record is not required, nor is a spotless work history, said Dreher. “What is required is the applicant’s belief that she is somebody special, and she can be responsible and make a difference for herself, her family and her community.”

A Sanibel resident since 2007 with more than two decades of experience in retail operations and staffing, Dreher said the inspiration for The Starfish Scholarship Foundation came to her from the women she met on the islands. “Every day, up to 5,000 people come to this island to work and they are part of our greater community,” she said. “They are working long hours at hourly-wage jobs where just one more certificate or course credit would give them the boost they need to get ahead.”

Rotary Happenings

submitted by Shirley Jewell

When the guest speaker calendar came across my desk last month for January 2014, I really didn’t pay that much attention to it… well, I should have. It wasn’t until last Friday morning that I realized I might be in trouble writing on the topic Robert (Bob) Schmidt had selected to speak to us about, Government and the Innovation Ecosystem.

My anxiety only grew when Schmidt was introduced. How impressive are these credentials? He founded and is the chairman of Cleveland Medical Devices, Orbital Research, NeuroWave Systems, Great Lakes NeuroTechnologies Inc. and Flocel Inc. He received his BS degree in mechanical engineering and his MBA from the University of Utah and his juris doctorate from Cleveland State University. He is a licensed professional engineer and a patent law attorney. Schmidt personally holds 30 US patents, and has led two companies into the Inc. 500.

He brought along with him a handful of his company’s product brochures, products that many of us are or will be using in the not too near future.

SleepView Monitor is a portable medical monitoring device used to alert and keep track of patients with obstructive sleep apnea. This home sleep testing monitor collects information to be sent to your doctor via a computer web portal and used to determine the course of action to treat the problem.

Kinesia HomeView is an ambulatory monitor assessment system that captures Parkinson’s disease brain patterns and similar symptom brain activity at home. The system captures symptom fluctuations in patients, interprets a comprehensive view of patient function, tailors therapies to target specific symp
Schmidt also stated that, “Although in the past our government has provided a great deal of funding through grants to small businesses for product development, within the last few years our government has decreased its funding with budget cutting or even delay of continued funding. So the Federal R & D grants for small business patents are harder to obtain with a longer patenting process, regulations previously afforded to patents have changed, and the cost to obtain patents has risen sharply.

Schmidt told us, “Big business is taking their research and development money off-shore and developing a global outcome for products.” Small businesses are doing their research and development right here in the states, providing jobs. U.S. small business startups are to the economy what children are to the population. They are the life-blood of our economy.

Nothing more needs to be said here, except, how about long term planning? What do we want the outcome to be here? How about an environment that can provide jobs at home?

The Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club meets at 7 a.m. every Friday at The Dunes Golf and Tennis Club, 949 Sand Castle Road. If you have any questions regarding Rotary, e-mail President Scot Congress at scot@sconsgress.com.

Historic Flag Mounted

Paul Roshberg, owner of Sanibel Art & Frame, recently mounted this 48-star flag for the Captiva Island Yacht Club. It was donated by a member in memory of Dale Hanson, a former commodore and Sanibel resident.

The flag was flown over Lincoln’s tomb in Springfield, Illinois in 1953. Each of Lincoln’s visits to the state of Illinois was significant, and the Illinois National Guard was known for their pride and respect for history.

The flag was mounted with great care and attention to detail, ensuring that it would be preserved for future generations.

The Sanibel Captiva Trust Company has become a $3,500 Gold Sponsor for the inaugural Fun Fest at The Community House in late January. Trust company President Dick Pyle said, “The Community House has been a special place on the islands since 1927 and we are honored to help them further their mission.”

The inaugural three-day fun fest benefits the non-profit operations of the Sanibel Community Association. Festivities kick off on Friday, January 24 with a benefit concert from Whitney Wolanin, a recording artist with roots on Sanibel, and her six-piece band. Her song, Run, Run Rudolph, shot to No. 2 on the Adult Contemporary chart, sandwiched between Kelly Clarkson’s Underneath the Tree and Mary J. Blige’s This Christmas. Tickets are available by calling 472-2155.

Saturday and Sunday feature many different activities such as a sand sculpture contest, local arts and crafts, indoor games for children, mermaid and pirate competition, Sanibel Steel Drum Band, 26-foot Pieces of Eight pirate ship, car and motorcycle show, sanctioned body painting competition and featured music on the outdoor stage. There’s also a Saturday evening Polynesian Luau with floor show.

A collaborative program developed locally was awarded a Southwest Florida Community Foundation Community Impact Grant. Human Trafficking Awareness Partnerships (HTAP), as the lead agency, received a grant of $20,000 to expand its Point of Contact, Point of Rescue program to hospitals, medical facilities and libraries in Lee, Hendry-Glades, Charlotte-Desoto counties.

Point of Contact, Point of Rescue aims to educate employees and managers of businesses to recognize the signs of trafficking in their clients or patrons and to develop a protocol to know who to call and what to report.

Nola Theiss, executive director of HTAP, has seen the level of awareness grow in the area since 2005 when the first Human Trafficking Task Force was formed, initiated by the Zonta Club of Sanibel-Captiva. Since that time, HTAP has trained over 24,000 individuals and has developed prevention and awareness programs.

Alex Olivares of Catholic Charities says, “We have seen it all in Southwest Florida. There is no one kind of victim or one kind of trafficker.” Over 150 victims of human trafficking have been identified in Southwest Florida over the last five years. They include women and men, children and adults, American citizens and foreign born residents in both sex and labor trafficking and domestic servitude. The oldest victim was a 67-year-old woman and the youngest was only nine years old.

Yaro Garcia of ACT, who carries a caseload of victims all the time, says, “If more people were trained to recognize the signs of trafficking, more victims would be rescued. Working together on this program enables the victims to get the services they need.”

The reporting protocol varies depending on the type of business and is developed in partnership with the businesses. In all cases, ACT, the local domestic violence center hot line is used: 939-3112 usually in conjunction with 911 or an alternate number, depending on the situation and laws. Trainers from ACT, Catholic Charities and HTAP share the training opportunities.

Both the Lee Memorial Health System and the Lee County Sheriff’s Office partner in this program. In the past, many local cases have been reported through the hospitals and the goal now is to train every employee to increase that number and to raise the level of awareness in other businesses as well.

For further information, call 415-2635 or email at info@humantraffickingawareness.org.

It was such a wonderful experience working with Phaidra, she made the process of buying property 2,000 miles away from home a smooth process. We looked at many properties and bid on more than a few on the islands and we always felt Phaidra was so ready and willing to work hard for us, with her great enthusiasm and amazing knack for all the details it was truly easy.

Book Sheds Light On Concussion Issue Plaguing Football

by Ed Frank

In the midst of the frenetic National Football League playoffs leading to Super Bowl XVIII on February 2, is there any doubt that professional football is the most successful and captivating sport in America?

Yet mounting questions arise as to the brutality of the sport and the denial of the NFL that crushing injuries have resulted in brain damage, memory loss and even suicides by former players.

In addition, there are statistics that reveal an increasing number of parents are keeping their children off the football fields and pushing them into other sports such as soccer.

A recent ESPN report stated that the popular Pop Warner youth football program has seen a 10 percent decline in participation that is attributed to the concern over concussions.

This controversial issue was detailed in an in-depth investigation by two veteran reporters in their new book entitled League of Denial – the NFL, Concussions and the Battle for Truth.

Mark Fainaru-Wada and Steve Fainaru, both ESPN investigative reporters, said the purpose of the book is not to destroy professional football but rather to shed light on the denial of the NFL that head injuries have led to brain damage.

This is despite the fact that the NFL recently paid $765 million to settle a lawsuit brought by nearly 6,000 former players and their families.

It is interesting that these two prizewinning writers wrote this best-selling book while employed by ESPN which is one of the major networks that broadcast NFL football.

Not once did ESPN attempt to put a clamp on their investigation and, in fact, the network ran stories on their research before the book was published.

For more than two decades the NFL has denied the link between concussions and brain injuries despite the mountain of evidence to the contrary, the book states. In fact, the NFL attempted to stifle reports on the concussion issue.

In fairness, the NFL has taken aggressive steps to curtail helmet-to-helmet collisions by increasing on-field penalties and off-field fines. In addition any player showing signs of a concussion must clear a medical exam before allowed to return to action.

This is an issue that won’t go away. And this new book tells why. It’s a book that should be read by football fans, parents and coaches.

Twins Prospect Rosario Hit With Major Drug Suspension

The Minnesota Twins’ No. 5-ranked prospect, Eddie Rosario, who hit .302 last season over 122 games combined with the Fort Myers Miracle and Double-A New Britain, has been suspended for 50 games without pay for a second violation of baseball’s Minor League Drug Prevention and Treatment Program.

The 22-year-old Rosario, a native of Puerto Rico, was a fourth round selection by the Twins in the 2010 Major League Draft. He was originally drafted as an outfielder but has been converted to a second baseman.

In 52 games played here last season for Fort Myers before being promoted to New Britain, Rosario hit .329 with 35 RBIs.

Everblades Home This Weekend Against First-Place South Carolina

The local hockey team also is home next weekend against Orlando.

RESTAURANTS

The variety of dining options on Sanibel and Captiva just keeps getting better. For their size, the islands offer an extensive culinary array – all making the most of the area’s fresh and abundant seafood and local produce. You’ll find everything from burgers to barbecue, bistro style, Italian, Mexican, American, classic deli fare, organic, vegan, gluten-free, café food and Caribbean.

In this column, each week you will be able to stay updated on our local dining establishments and what they’re offering and get the scoop on the island dining scene, whether it’s fine or casual, take-out or frozen desserts.

BAILEY’S GENERAL STORE

Bailey’s General Store has a full deli, bakery, daily lunch specials, take out and catering for cook-outs, picnics and parties. This is the oldest supermarket on the islands, established long before a causeway linked Sanibel to the mainland. The bakery has freshly made donuts, scones and breads. The deli offers a variety of hot foods for breakfast, lunch and dinner, as well as catering services for special events. Services include shopping for your groceries and delivering them to your home or vacation destination. If you are on a gluten-free diet, pick up the extensive list of gluten-free products near the entrance to the supermarket. The Coffee Bar at Bailey’s serves espresso based drinks, hot chocolate, smoothies and specialty coffees.

BLUE GIRAFFE

Blue Giraffe serves breakfast, lunch and dinner from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. This restaurant offers casual island dining seven days a week from a menu featuring fresh local seafood, chowders, salads and steaks. Besides dessert choices, you can get hand-dipped Edy’s Grand Ice Cream. Dine outside on the boardwalk or inside at hand-painted tables decorated by a local artist, or sit at the full liquor bar for a mixed drink, glass of wine or cold beer.

CIP’S PLACE

Cip’s Place is named for the late Jimmy Cipriani, a longtime islander and owner of the property on which the restaurant sits. Jimmy always made time for a good conversation, good company and great food. In Jimmy’s memory, Cip’s styles itself as a local watering hole. A mural that takes up an entire wall shows lots of islanders through the ages – including Cip – and if you don’t recognize them all, ask to see the “key.” Food choices range from “comfort” to culinary with some Caribbean and island favorites as well. And do try the home-made potato chips, the fried buttermilk chicken with sage gravy and the snapper tacos. Choose between the outdoor garden patio or front porch. Indoor seating and full bar are also available. Hours are 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily with happy hour from 4 to 6 p.m.

The menu features steaks and seafood, including a six-ounce filet mignon topped with jumbo lump crabmeat finished with Hollandaise and served with asparagus and choice of potato; Parmesan-crusted seabass served with mushroom risotto and finished with a creamy dill sauce. Save room for dessert though, because whether you are a chocolate lover or Key lime pie fan, Chip’s has something for every sweet tooth.

- Odd Balls 13 - Fresh Legion Crew 3
- Bunt’s Ball Busters 12 - Sanibel Café 4
- Sandycappers 8 - Island Lifers 8

Rich Ennis and Dave Doane had 4-0 nights for Bunt's Ball Busters and paced the Busters to a 12-4 win over Sanibel Café. The Café shooters beat the Ball Busters 9-7, in the previous match between the two teams when the league leaders were not at full strength. This time Bunt's led the Café guys 8-0 before Joe Mason and Peter Mindel produced two wins each over Terry Ricotta and Bob Buntrock.

Island Lifers added snowbird Carmen Senese to their lineup and he dropped four losses on Sandycapper ace Jack Dalton to pace the Lifers to an 8-8 tie over the former league-leading Sandycapper machine.

Highlight of the match, however, was the titanic struggle between the two team captains, Island Lifer Connie Lee and Sandycapper Kevin Pottorf. With a long bank on the 5-ball and a near 90-degree cut on the 8-ball Lee won their last game and fashioned two victories over Pottorf who was noticeably deflated. Give him a hug when you see him to help build back his macho persona.

Odd Balls picked up a game on league-leading Bunt’s Ball Busters on the strength of a 13-3 rout of Fresh Legion Crew. Visiting snowbird Noah Smith produced another 4-0 night for the Odd guys and his teammates Doc Lubinski, Ray Walker, and Matt Hall pitched in with three wins each.

What Is ‘Custom’ In Decorating
by Jeanie Tinch

An article I recently presented tips on working with designers, but it left out the important benefits of having home furnishings that are customized for you. Furnishings play a vital role in setting the mood and atmosphere for everyday living... a woman’s home is an extension of herself,” said Bob Mackie, the designer of glamorous gowns for the likes of Cher and Tina Turner, who has turned his talents to the home.

Custom furnishings help express the homeowner’s personality. For a husband and wife, custom will blend their tastes, it will bring the wishes of each into a room that both can enjoy.

Each sofa and love seat you order is upholstered in your personal choice of fabric, the finish of every table and chair is coordinated with the upholstery, and the colors and fabrics, makes custom treatments truly individual and reflective of your style and taste. Designing the perfect window treatment for your home says a lot about you and your lifestyle. Perhaps nothing adds more drama and pizzazz to your home’s overall design plan than custom designed window treatments.

Custom bedding is another example. In addition to coordinating with what you already have, or what you are changing in the room’s decor, it will fit your bed the way you want it to fit. You won’t have to settle for what only you can find online or in a catalog.

Let’s not forget color, the canvas of your room. Color is like beauty, and it’s all in the eye of the beholder. There are no bad colors, just bad decisions about using them. A designer can help with those choices.

In the end, custom should be affordable. The goal is to provide beauty, comfort and good design within a realistic budget.

Most of all, it should fit those who use the space. Legendary decorator William Pahlmann, of Lord & Taylor, said, “Good decoration is a design for the living, not for looking. It is the service of human needs.”

SanCap CPA Hires Patti Sousa

SanCap CPA has announced that Patti Sousa is the newest addition to the firm. Sousa will work in all aspects of the company, which provides a full range of tax, accounting and business consulting services for individuals, businesses and non-profit organizations on Sanibel and Captiva.

She followed her passion to a career in non-profit administration and is an experienced and certified trainer. She and her husband George owned and operated a sales and marketing business in New Jersey for almost two decades. They made Sanibel their permanent home in 2001.

At present, Sousa is board member of both Sanibel Captiva Conservation Foundation (SCCF) and Sanibel Bicycle Club, and treasurer of Butterknife Homeowners Association. She is actively involved in Sanibel Congregational United Church of Christ.
Parent involvement with both your child and the school is one of the most important things you can do to help your child be successful. Sometimes it is difficult to make that connection with the school given a busy work schedule or if your own school experience was not a good one, however, this is an extremely important relationship that is worth developing.

According to research reported by the National Association of School Psychologists, when families are involved in education, there are very positive benefits as presented by the school or board of education.

Many teachers have special activities designed for parent volunteers. Make sure to ask your child’s teachers what would be helpful. Very often the school’s parent association will have projects and committees where you can volunteer. While it may be easier to join a parent group or volunteer when your child is in elementary school, it is equally important to stay involved while your child is in high school. Volunteering with other parents during the high school years can help parents stay connected to each other in an informal parent network, which is always helpful.

These are just a few suggestions on how to become and stay involved in your child’s educational journey. There are many more ways to be involved; the key factor is that you are involved.

Ms. Greggs is adjunct faculty at Edison State College where she teaches psychology and education courses. She is also nationally certified school psychologist and consultant for school consultation services. A private educational consulting company. Jewelers Makes ‘Dana Claus’ Donation To FISH

Lily & Co. Jewelers on Sanibel presented FISH of Sanibel-Captiva a check for $800 in donations, plus food and gifts, for those in need this holiday season. The donations were raised during Lily’s second Dana Claus event where guests had a photo opportunity with Dana Claus and his two “reindogs,” Angel and Gracie, while sampling Pinocchio’s Ice Cream, homemade cookies and assorted refreshments.

“We are so delighted to have doubled last year’s donations raised for such a worthy cause,” said Lily & Co. owners Dan Schuyler and Karen Bell. “The success is thanks to our amazing guests and island residents, who visited our store and brought in the donations.”

Additional support was provided by Pinocchio’s Italian Ice Cream, a family-owned and operated business that donated its homemade signature ice cream.

FISH is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping islanders and island visitors in need through its many services. The organization offers emergency financial assistance, a food pantry and non-emergency transportation to medical appointments on and off island, as well as medical equipment loans. It is dedicated to “neighbors helping neighbors.”

Ed Riddlehoover, left, represents FISH of Sanibel in accepting the donation from Lily & Co. Jewelers’ co-owner Dan Schuyler, which was raised during Lily’s Dana Claus event.

Those following the news have likely heard about the 13-year-old San Francisco girl, Jahi McMath, who has been declared brain dead following complications arising out of surgery to remove her tonsils and adenoids. Apparently the surgery was prescribed to treat sleep apnea. During the surgery she experienced massive blood loss, leading to brain damage and a heart attack from which she has not recovered.

After a court-appointed neurologist declared the young girl brain dead, the Children’s Hospital Oakland wanted to remove her from life support. Jahi’s parents fought in court to continue the life support, and have won the right to move her to an assisted living facility that is willing to keep her on life support.

This tragic case begs the question as to the point in time when life no longer exists. Bioethicists argue in blogs and newspaper articles whether Jahi will ever recover, as well as the ethics behind both keeping Jahi on life support or removing her. One can only imagine the heartache that this young girl’s parents must be experiencing.

Because this girl is a minor, she could not have signed a legal document such as a living will, which would indicate her choices in the event of these terrible circumstances. But those of you who are adults reading this column have that choice, so in this column I’m going to review how a living will would work with an adult in this circumstance who has signed one. Since we’re here in Florida, I’ll be applying Florida law.

Living wills aren’t foolproof, but they do provide your direction in the event of an end-stage life support issue. Even with a living will, questions remain as to when the preconditions are satisfied that would result in the termination of life support.

Florida law enables individuals who are in a terminal condition, end-stage condition, or in a persistent vegetative state to direct life prolonging procedures to be discontinued, so long as two physicians have determined that there is “no reasonable medical probability of one’s recovery from said condition, and where the medical procedures would only serve to prolong artificially the process of dying.” Once those factors have been determined, the administration of medication or the performance of medical procedures deemed necessary to provide comfort, care or to alleviate pain may continue.

The problem rests in the subjective nature of the determination itself. “Terminal condition” is defined under the statute as a condition caused by injury, disease or illness from which there is no reasonable medical probability of recovery and which, without treatment, can be expected to cause death.

“End-stage condition” means, under the statute, “an irreversible condition that is caused by injury, disease or illness which has resulted in progressively severe and permanent deterioration, and which, to a reasonable degree of medical probability, treatment of the condition would be ineffective.”

“Persistent vegetative state” means “a permanent and irreversible condition of unconsciousness in which there is the absence of voluntary action or cognitive behavior of any kind, or an inability to communicate or interact purposefully with the environment.”

Reasonable people could certainly disagree as to when any of the above conditions are satisfied. Florida law provides that the surrogate named in the living will has legal standing to prevent a doctor or hospital from carrying out the living will where the surrogate differs with the opinions of the physicians. In such event, a legal process is set forth under the law that must be followed. So who you name to act on your behalf is important. They should know what you would want in various circumstances.

As medical science advances, the decisions related to carrying out end-stage hercules becomes more difficult. Because of this, it is more important than ever to have a valid living will in place that outlines what every individual would want to happen. While we all must take a leap of faith that those making the determination whether we have met the pre-conditions are making accurate judgment calls, the alternative is not any better.

Most state laws, including Florida’s, provide for a legal process where there is no living will. In such case, extrinsic evidence, such as discussions that have occurred regarding these issues, may be admitted into evidence before a court. “This is what happened in the Terri Schiavo case. In that case Mrs. Schiavo’s husband and parents fought it out in court whether her life support should be continued or removed.

Thankfully, most of the time a living will is not necessary at the end of life for most people. Nevertheless, these occasional news events remind us that having an up-to-date living will is essential.

Dear Mom & Me,

My husband and I were both born and raised in the Midwest. After we married we moved to many parts of the country due to his company’s transfers. The final move was to North Carolina. Ten years later we retired and stayed.

We have always talked about going back to a place we haven’t even visited doctors, dentist and a social life to go to. I am very hesitant. I hate to leave friends, but that time. If you still want to make it permanent, move and go for it.

Many people fantasize that going back to their roots that they will find life exactly as they left it. It just doesn’t work that way.

You have matured and changed in ways you don’t realize and you may be very disappointed.

My suggestion would be to rent a furnished condo or try and stay for a three-month period in a retirement complex and try to include some winter months in that time. If you still want to make it permanent, move and go for it.

Finding a social life and health care in some areas can be very difficult.

I agree with everything Mom has said. She has given you perfect advice. I can’t add anything more.

Lizzie and Pryce’s email address is momandmeaging@hotmail.com.

Eden Energy Medicine

Resolve To Strengthen Your Heart Energy

by Karen L. Semmelman, Certified EEM, JD, AAML(03-12)

The November 2013 issue of Bottom Line Personal extols the benefits of Energy Medicine, stating that it works. So, why not start off this new year with some practices that will boost your heart energy, the biggest generator of electricity in the body. Of course, we are all electromagnetic beings, so every cell of our body has an electrical charge – all influenced by the energy of the heart. The Electric Energy System is one of the nine systems that Eden Energy Medicine addresses. By accessing the electric system, we are able to make subtle energy shifts on the deepest levels.

The next several weeks will be devoted to providing tools to help the energetic balance of your heart, and thus your entire being. Let’s begin with an exercise to help improve your “internal compass,” especially beneficial if you are feeling lost or disconnected with others and yourself. This technique provides instant revitalization, bringing you home to yourself. Here is the technique:

1. Stretch forehead to open and clear energies
   - Place thumbs on liver neurovascular points (located at hairline above the center of eyes)
   - Place middle fingers on the inside edge of eyebrows at the inside edge of each eye socket.
   - Hold thumbs and middle fingers in this position 5 to 20 minutes. You will begin to feel shifts occurring and after taking several deep sighs, you will know you are finished.

2. End by making small figure 8s over forehead to stabilize the shifts

Another technique to assist if experiencing any heart dis-ease – whether arrhythmia, circulation issues, blood pressure, etc. – is to hold the heart source point. There are source points associated with each meridian. Source points are acupuncture points that act as reservoirs of energy directly associated with the organ itself, enabling a boost or removal of energy from the organ, in this case, the heart. By holding these points for several minutes, you will immediately notice a shift of energy that has a calming impact on the heart’s energy. The heart source point is located on the inside of the wrist crease in line with the little finger. So if you bend your wrist and look at the soft underside of your arm, you will notice two prominent tendons in the middle of your arm above the wrist crease. Between these tendons and the outer edge of the soft part of the arm there is another small tendon right at the crease. This is the heart source point. By holding this source point for several minutes (use the middle finger) until you feel a strong pulse, the dis-ease will calm. Try it; it works and you are shifting your own subtle energies to improve your health and vitality.

The last tip for this week is to bite down on both little fingers at the base of the nail beds. If you feel disease of the heart, panic, hysteria, etc., this technique assists in sending energy right into the heart since it is the end of the heart meridian on the inside edge of the nail bed and the outside edge of the nail bed is the small intestine, its paired meridian partner.

Have fun with your energy. Next week’s topic is New Year Resolution – Strengthen Your Heart Energy, Part II.

If you have a questions for Karen, email her at SemmelEnergyCenter@gmail.com. Learn more at www.semmeelmanenergy.com. EEM does not diagnose or cure illness, but working with subtle energies of the body has been shown to help many conditions.

Reduce pain, restore mobility and return to your active lifestyle!
Dear Pharmacist:

My daughter has cervical dysplasia, and I’m wondering if the HPV vaccine will protect her from getting cancer. Will it? How can a young woman protect against this cancer?

JD, Silver Springs, Florida

No, it’s never been proven to prevent cancer. The HPV vaccine Gardasil protects against two strains of HPV, human papilloma virus, but there are approximately 40 strains that can be sexually transmitted. I couldn’t possibly know what your daughter has been infected with, and for that matter, if she has been infected at all. You don’t have to have HPV to have dysplasia, that is a big surprise to most people.

The commercials for vaccines have convinced almost everyone that cervical dysplasia is caused by a virus, the HPV virus, but other situations can cause it too.

I didn’t vaccinate my daughter when she was of age, but the topic if vaccination is personal. Some women don’t get any side-effects while others react profoundly with life-threatening reactions. From the Gardasil website, “The side-effects include pain, swelling, itching, bruising and redness at the injection site, headache, fever, nausea, dizziness, vomiting and fainting. Fainting can happen after getting Gardasil. Sometimes people who faint can fall and hurt themselves. For this reason, your child’s health care professional may ask them to sit or lie down for 15 minutes after they get Gardasil. Some people who faint might shake or become stiff.”

Cervical dysplasia means there is extra cell growth in the cervical tissue; it doesn’t necessarily progress to cancer. In fact, most of the time it does not. The risk factors that could cause it to progress to cancer faster include having multiple sexual partners, long-term use of oral contraceptives (more than five years), drinking alcohol, smoking, eating poorly, having unprotected sex, and low immunity.

One other factor is huge, but rarely discussed, and that includes a methylation defect, which has to do with B vitamins. You should read that article on folate and methylation posted at my website, Methylation Problem Leads To 100s of Diseases. If you have a methylation problem, your daughter probably does too.

Many doctors use the “wait and see” approach if a woman gets an abnormal pap. I strongly disagree because the virus is present and already causing abnormal cell growth in the cervix. Wait and see what?

This is precisely the time to step in and do something to reduce your risk of cancer. You have many treatment options, medications and procedures, even simple things. For example, folate and B12 status can be determined and corrected (I’m telling you, read that methylation article!). Stop smoking/drinking, evaluate vitamin A status because low serum retinol levels are linked to cervical cancer. One study found that broccoli extract indole 3-carbinol could cause regression of cervical dysplasia. I’m out of space here, but I have more I want to tell you. Get my free newsletter (dearpharmacist.com) and I’ll email a longer version of this in two weeks.

LANDING A BIG FISH FROM THE BEACH CAN BE HARD ON THE FISH. DRAGGING A FISH UP ONTO THE SAND IF YOU’RE GOING TO RELEASE IT IS NOT AN OPTION AS IT USUALLY DAMAGES OR KILLS THE FISH.

• Hold the fish in the water while you unhook it if you’re going to release it.
• The less you can touch a fish before release the better for the fish.
• If you want a picture with the fish, support it as you lift it out of the water – and do it quickly.
• Before releasing, revive the fish while holding it in the water; moving it slowly back and forth so water goes over its gills. The fish will let you know when it’s ready to swim off.
• Florida just recently changed the regulations on fishing from shore. Florida residents as well as out of state visitors need a fishing license to fish from shore.
Pets Of The Week

I'm Duke, a loyal and loving companion. True to my German shepherd breed. I was heartbroken when I ended up in the shelter and was not claimed by my family. Do you have love, kindness and patience? Those are the qualities I'm hoping to find in my forever family. You can adopt me for free ($25 off the regular adoption fee of $25 for senior pets during Animal Services' Resolution Buddies adoption promotion).

My name is Eponine and I'm two years old. Have you made your New Year's resolution yet? My resolution is to be part of a new family, and the sooner the better. I've been in a foster home and at the shelter for several months now. I'm a great little cat and will be a super companion. My adoption fee is $25 ($25 off the regular adoption fee of $50 during Animal Services' adoption promotion). For information about this week's pets, call 533-7387 (LEE-PETS) or log on to Animal Services' website at www.LeeLostPets.com. When calling, refer to the animal's ID number. The website updates every hour so you will be able to see if these or any other pets are still available.

The shelter is open for adoptions from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The shelter is located at 5600 Banner Drive, Fort Myers, near to the Lee County Sheriff's Office, off Six Mile Cypress Parkway. All adoptions include spay/neuter surgery, age-appropriate vaccinations, rabies vaccination and county license if three months or older, flea treatment, worming, heartworm test for dogs six months and over, feline AIDS and leukemia test for cats, training DVD, 10-day health guarantee, and a bag of Science Diet pet food.

The adoption package is valued at $500.
