Permissions

As a general rule, permission should be sought from the rights holder to reproduce any substantial part of a copyrighted work. This includes any text, illustrations, charts, tables, photographs, or other material from previously published sources. Obtaining permission to re-use content published by Elsevier is simple. Obtaining permission to use content on ScienceDirect

If the content you wish to re-use is on ScienceDirect, (http://www.sciencedirect.com/) you may request permission using the Copyright Clearance Center's Rightslink® service. Simply follow the steps below:

1. Locate your desired content on ScienceDirect. Subscribers will be able to view all content and guest users can view open access content and abstracts for free simply by clicking on the article or chapter title.

2. Determine if the content is open access or subscription access. If you are reading an Elsevier published article online, you need to look out for the "Open Access" orange label located under the article's title and author information. You will also be able to identify any relevant open access articles in your search results by looking for the same label. To find out how you can reuse an open access article, look underneath the title and click on the license hyperlink for exact details on the user license selected by the author. If your reuse is not covered by the user license, please proceed to the next step.

3. Click on the 'Get rights and content' button located under the author details, adjacent to
4 The following page will then be launched (turn off your pop-up blocker):

5 Select the way you would like to reuse the content.
6 Create an account if you have not done so already.
7 Accept the terms and conditions.
